Frightened By Ads. Cutting the Tail Off. Air Mail to Mexico. Dangerous Experts.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

MEN that gamble in stocks and imagine they know what they are doing, threw their stocks overboard yesterday, millions of shares, knocking down values.

SOME of these gentlemen who will regret their panic later, frightened by automobile advertising, said "an automobile price war" would injure stocks. Advertising never hurt anything. It will increase consumption, wipe out a few weak, unnecessary sisters perhaps, but help business in the long run.

THE government has made up its mind to a little war with Mr. Sandino of Nicaragua, since we can't escape it. A thousand marines will leave for Nicaragua Monday with enough machine guns to teach politeness to the Nicaraguan rebels.

IN OUR big war we went deeply, heaven knows, spending more than fifty million dollars a day, lending ten thousand millions, most of which we'll never get back, and sending millions of men.

But in troubles near home we are like the man who hadn't the heart to cut his dog's tail off all at once, and so cut off half an inch, every day.

WE should finish that Nicaragua business without delay, and also find out what Colonel Gulick of the marines meant when he said that Nicaraguan ammunition with which his men were killed last week, was supplied by some country other than Nicaragua.

LAST April President Coolidge said, the Mexicans were "the other country," shooting at us through Nicaragua. The people would like to know it, if that thing continues.

COL. LINDBERGH landed in Managua from Tegucigalpa yesterday, and as a first fruit of his flying, Postmaster General New announces, for an early date, establishment of an air mail line to Mexico.

That will help business and should improve international relationship. Canada is now our best customer, and if Mexico would substitute modern business methods for out of date revolution and conspiring, she might become another important business friend.

AIR mail will soon reach farther than Mexico. The Associated Press says Britain's passenger liner R-100, will commence flights in the spring, carrying 100 passengers, at $600 each and ten tons of mail.

What would happen if a foreign airship, not British, should bring ten tons of TNT in place of mail, to New York or San Francisco?

THE cruel young kidnaper and murderer, Hickman, indicted yesterday for a second murder, hopes to escape conviction as insane. Experts can "prove" anything. Hickman has proved beyond doubt that he is a keen, intelligent, frightfully dangerous criminal. To let him escape, on

DESERTERS LEADING REBELS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(AP.)—Marine Corps officers in Nicaragua have reported that two deserters from the American Marine Corps there are in Gen. Sandino's rebel camp and are training Sandino's troops.

Reports from Nicaragua for several days have indicated that Sandino's men were showing a much improved morale, and that their fighting ability gave evidence that they had received training, as well as guns, from some source other than that afforded by their resources.

Additional reinforcements have reached the American marines holding Quilali, Nicaragua, and they apparently now are ready to resume their conflict with the small army of Augustino Sandino, the former Liberal general.

While the Devil Dogs hold their fire awaiting contact with Sandino, verbal skirmishing on the congressional front of the Nicaraguan

NEW YEAR 'CHEATING' DENIED

The tables were turned on 10 city detectives who were detailed to keep an eye on night clubs and cabaret proprietors and see that they obeyed the closing order of Director James M. Clark, Public Safety Department, New Year's eve. Today the detectives were given the "third degree" by Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh.

The sleuths reported to Director Clark that the night clubs and cabarets they were detailed to watch had complied with orders and closed on time. Police Capt. James Hoey's reports were directly opposite to those of the sleuths. The captain's report read that five of the night club proprietors took the order lightly and remained open after hours. These clubs are Flotilla Club, Nixon Restaurant, Bamboo Inn, Carlton Terrace and Castle Garden. The latter two have been closed. The other three were penalized by the suspension of their dance and show permits.

"How come?" the director asked Supt. Walsh as he noted the discrepancies. "The detectives' reports do not jibe with the captain's."

As a result, the 10 spent the most part of this morning in Supt. Walsh's office explaining things. They had been called on the "carpet," and instead of the sleuths doing the "third degree" honors as customary, they were "sweated."

Director Clark said that he was undecided what he would do to punish the detectives.

"I wanted to hear their stories," the director said. "I will tell mine later."

Dies One Year Past 100

MRS. ELLEN WALSH

Mrs. Ellen Walsh, 101, died at her home, 8 Ayers street, Oakland, last Wednesday. She never wore glasses and her hearing was perfect, according to relatives. Born in County Galway, Ireland, her parents died during the "Black Plague" in 1835. She has been a member of the parish of St. Agnes' Catholic Church for more than 50 years.

BLONDE'S NEW HOPE FADES

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—A new move to delay the execution of Ruth Snyder entered a complicated stage today when an application made by her attorney, Edgar F. Hazelton, before Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy was put over "by stipulation" until January 13.

Mrs. Snyder and Henry Judd Gray are scheduled to die in the electric chair on the night of January 12.

WON'T ACT AS STAY

Hazelton petitioned Judge Levy to have tried by jury the suit of the Prudential Insurance Company to cancel the $95,000 insurance on the life of the slain Albert Snyder. Mrs. Snyder is one of the defendants and would necessarily be a witness in the case.

"Will the stipulation act as a stay of execution for Mrs. Snyder?"

"No," he replied.

It was predicted in legal circles that the next move of attorneys for Mrs. Snyder would be to make application for a stay of execution on the ground that she is a material witness in the impending civil action, and that her testimony is absolutely vital.

The appeal for the stay, it is declared, would be made on the ground that the date now set for the hearing of the argument on the Prudential case is set for the day following the date of the execution.

Meanwhile Mrs. Snyder and Gray were in the throes of despair in the death house in Sing Sing. They manifested little interest in the eleventh hour attempts of their lawyers to save them.

Mrs. Snyder shuddered when she heard that the executioner, Robert Elliott, was in the prison—that he had had breakfast there this morning, at the warden's table.

Tired of Flitting

MRS. PEARL M'KNIGHT

"I've moved 26 times in five years and I'm tired of being shifted from one place to another," Pearl McKnight, 23, seeking a divorce from Ellsworth D. McKnight, told Judge Josiah Cohen today. Mrs. McKnight lives in the Y. W. C. A. and is a demonstrator. She avers that her husband beat her, pushed her against a stove, burning her arm, never bought her clothing and failed to provide sufficient food. They were married in 1920 in Wellsburg, W. Va., when Mrs. McKnight was only 16 and her husband 28.

Gang Guns Get 2 More

Two more victims fell before a hail of bullets in an outbreak of gang war in Turtle Creek today. James Costa, 45, of 424 Highland avenue, Turtle Creek, father of 11 children, is believed dying in the West Penn Hospital with a bullet near his heart, and Sam Ross, 28, single, of Turtle Creek, in the same hospital, has a serious wound in the head.

A short time after the shooting, Tony Morra, 49, of No. 2 Hill, Turtle Creek, and Mike Magell, 42, Mortimer avenue, were arrested in a confectionery adjoining the barber shop where the two victims were shot down. They will be held as suspects, police said, until further investigation determines definitely whether the gunmen fled in an automobile.

Costa was sitting in a barber's chair in the shop of A. Contas, 225 Braddock avenue, Turtle Creek, when two men, brandishing revolvers, entered the place shortly after 11 a. m. Singling out Costa as their first victim, they opened fire while the man sprang from his seat in the chair and faced his assailants. One of the strangers emptied the chamber of his revolver in firing at Costa, one of the bullets entering his chest in the region of the heart.

Ross, standing near a window, was the next target for the bandits' guns. One bullet hit him in the head while five other missiles shattered the window and peppered the walls of a building across the street.

The barbers and others in the shop fled from the building, but Costa and Ross rushed madly toward their assailants as if to engage them in a hand-to-hand battle. The gunmen cowered under this show of courage and retreated from the shop toward a roadster, which stood at the sidewalk with the motor running.

Helpless in their efforts to throttle their attackers, Costa and Ross stumbled across the street to the Westinghouse auditorium, where they collapsed. Chief of Police J. Ache, of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, summoned medical aid and the victims were ordered removed to the West Penn Hospital.

Winter to 'Die Like' Soldier

"I'll go to the chair with my head up and meet death like a soldier."

Raymond Winter, Beltzhoover street car conductor and gassed World War veteran, convicted of slaying two children, Alexander and Helen Sabo, near Mollenauer, in May, 1925, thus responded to the news that a final effort to gain a reprieve for him had resulted in failure.

Attorney Charles B. Prichard, who defended Winter, made a last plea

Say 'Code' Messages Spurious

PASTOR CLEARS RUTH ELDER

By Universal Service.

ABILENE, Tex., Jan. 6.—Rev. Shuford Jenkins, a junior in Simmons University here, and a former missionary in the mountains of Georgia, vehemently denied last night that Mrs. C. E. Moody, or Ruth Elder, as she is known today, was guilty of misconduct with him as charged in an indictment returned against the famous aviatrix in Rabun county, Georgia.

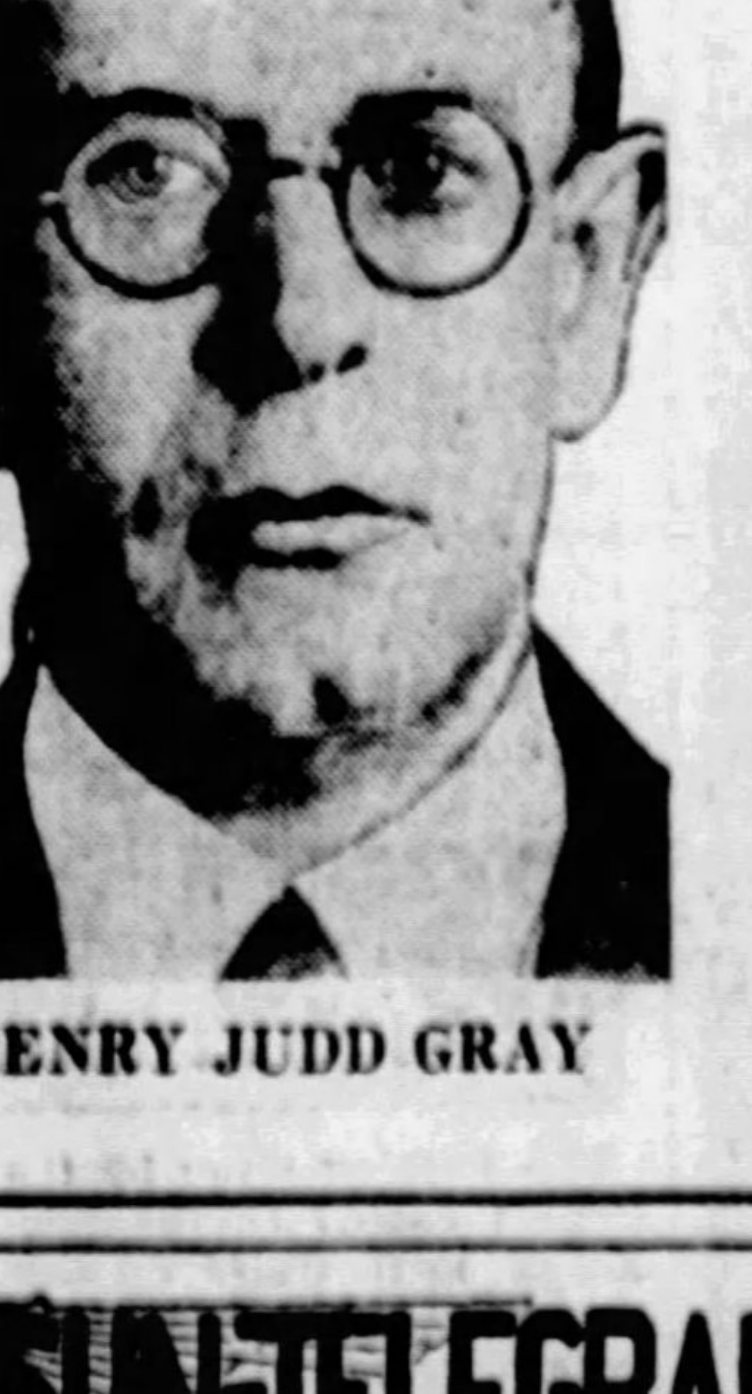
The 30-year old pastor-student readily admitted that he was the "Rev. Jenkins" named in the indictment, but he expressed astonishment when informed that the Mrs. C. E. Moody, who was so active in his Rabun county revival meeting four years ago, was Ruth Elder.

"I remember Mrs. C. E. Moody, the wife of a Clayton, Ga., school teacher, and particularly her husband," declared the Rev. Jenkins. "I never connected Mrs. Moody with Ruth Elder. The Moody's were very active in the protracted meeting that I held in Rabun county, about 10 miles from Clayton, in 1924.

"Moody," he continued, "was president of a Baptist academy and he often conducted the prayers. He and Mrs. Moody would drive from Clayton in their automobile to attend the revival."

"I was en route to Clayton for my mail in a borrowed machine when I passed Mrs. Moody in a stalled car. I stopped to assist her. While mending the car, Vergil Burton, who had been opposing my meetings, passed. After fixing the car, I departed. The transaction took less than 10 minutes.

"Later, Moody came to me saying that Burton had declared he had witnessed us making love. I related the circumstances, and the matter was dropped as far as I was concerned, Moody realizing that it was some of Burton's spite work. The indictment of Mrs. Moody is news to me," Jenkins said.



HENRY JUDD GRAY

"Until Thursday, Judd"—Death House Farewell

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 6.—(INS.)—"Buck up Judd, you'll be with us next Thursday night!"

This grim jest, uttered by Charles J. Doran, of Albany, N. Y., shortly before his execution in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison late last night, today was ringing in the ears of Henry Judd Gray. With Mrs. Ruth Snyder, Gray is doomed to die in the same chair next week unless they are reprieved by Governor Smith.

Doran, only 21, was executed for the killing of Raymond Jackson, Albany World War veteran. Louis Mason, Buffalo Negro, was sent to the chair for killing David Karam in Buffalo.

Both the blonde self-made widow and the corset salesman were awake and excitedly pacing their cells when Doran's body received the first electric shock shortly after he passed through the "little green door" at 11:04 p. m.

Mrs. Snyder was not allowed to bid them farewell.

"God help them both!" she said.

OHIO BOY, 17, TO DIE TONIGHT FOR MURDER OF WOMAN, SON

CALM AS HIS DOOM NEARS

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 6.—With his last avenue of escape closed, Floyd Hewitt, 17, today calmly faced death in the electric chair at Ohio Penitentiary for the slaying of Mrs. Fred Brown and her 5-year-old son at Conneaut, O.

Hewitt will be the youngest murderer to be electrocuted in Ohio. In 1890 a Cleveland youth, one month younger than Hewitt, was hanged.

The youth's last chance for commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment was lost when Gov. Donahey yesterday announced his intention to follow the recommendation of the state board of clemency. The board, following a hearing, found "no grounds for intervention." Hewitt's attorneys and relatives contended he was feebleminded.

Hewitt confessed to the slaying of Mrs. Brown and her son at the Brown home, where he was an occasional visitor. He clubbed Mrs. Brown to death because she repulsed his advances, he said, and then killed the boy in an attempt to conceal his crime.

Hewitt seemed unmoved when told of his fate. "I have nothing to say," was his only remark. He immediately became occupied with things in his cell.

His execution has been set for some time tonight. Mr. Brown, husband of the slain woman, has been denied his expressed wish to be a witness in the death chamber.

WINTER TO DIE BRAVELY

for a respite in a letter to Governor Fisher, but received word that no further stay would be granted and that Winter must go to his death at Rockview Monday morning.

Winter received the word which finally sealed his doom coolly, but still protesting his innocence. He is one of the calmest men ever to face death in murderer's row at the county jail, according to Warden John McNeil.

It was revealed today that Winter was examined Christmas day and pronounced sound mentally by two psychiatrists. His sanity was established in their opinion, it is said, when Winter asked how long he thought he would live, counted on his fingers the exact number of days to the date set for his execution.

"An excellent entertainer and slight of hand performer," said Warden McNeil of Winter, who showed his tricks to inmates of the jail at Thanksgiving and Christmas entertainments. A few days ago, Winter, apparently convinced that he was to die, sent his paraphernalia home.

LA GUARDIA TALKS TO NAVY MEN

Congressman Fiorella La Guardia, one of the leaders in a demand for a congressional probe of the Navy's submarine rescue facilities, held a long conference with Commander Leland Jordan, Rear Admiral Andrews, commandant of the Boston Navy Yard, and Commander Holbrook Gibson, aide to Rear Admiral Brumby, in charge of the S-4 salvaging operations, when he returned from inspecting the disaster scene.

La Guardia boarded the S-8, sister ship of the sunken S-4, at Boston, for a detailed investigation of conditions for withstanding an enforced seige at the ocean bottom in S-type submersibles. The New York Congressman, in civilian attire, is seen in this photograph on the conning tower of the S-8 at the completion of his inspection. He has announced his intention of waging a relentless campaign in Congress to obtain improved submarine rescue equipment.

HELD UP AS HUNDREDS PASS

While hundreds of persons were passing in Wood street, two "shiek" bandits last night held up the confectionery store of Benjamin Corn at 301 Wood street and after forcing Corn and Dorothy Till, 17, a clerk, to lie face downward on the floor, looted the cash register and escaped. Checks and cash amounting to $60 were stolen from the cash register.

According to Corn, the robbers, both young and stylishly dressed, entered the store while he and the girl clerk were alone. After warnin the proprietor and the girl that they would be killed if they made an outcry, the robbers looted the cash register and escaped. They fled in an automobile parked in front of the store.

campaign goes vigorously on. Pot shots and volleys continue to resound at the gentlest drop of the figurative hat and much more of it is brought into prospect with introduction yesterday of the Wheeler resolution for a Senate inquiry.

The exact imminence of any new battle in the neighborhood of Quilali was not disclosed in last night's message to marine headquarters saying that Lieut. Hunt had led a second relief column into the former stronghold of Sandino. The message did not give the number of men in Hunt's detachment, or give any details of their march through the rugged country except that none of Sandino's men were encountered en route.

Another message, to the Navy Department, identified the four marines who were wounded in last Sunday's engagement. They were Corp. Wallace Henry of Oklahoma City, Pvts. Edward L. Pomorski of St. Paul, L. H. Hooks of New Orleans, and John T. Coyle, whose service record lists only the Weymouth, Mass., address of Mrs. Mary O'Leary, who was to be notified in case of accident.

Lack of sensational developments in Nicaragua failed yesterday to quiet the flow of criticism in Congress of the administration's policies concerning the little republic.

any plea, would terrify millions of fathers and mothers, and multiply crime, which needs no increase in this country, by offering additional hope of immunity.

PRISON for life, with no hope of reprieve, should be the punishment for such crime, sane or insane.

NEW YORK bankers plan a loan of $60,000,000 to Roumania, France participating by sending ammunition, army equipment and other material, this country sending cash.

IT WILL not be the cash of bankers making the loan. They will send abroad the savings of average citizens tempted by high interest rates, and the more or less worthless promise to pay of a little country that tomorrow might be swallowed by bolshevik Russia, or torn by revolution. Its bonds in either case would be worthless.

IT WAS indicated yesterday that Governor Smith of New York does not feel able to interfere with the execution of Mrs. Ruth Snyder.

Lawyers speaking for the condemned woman talked about "neurosis and psychosis" which Governor Smith said did not interest him.

THE question is not one of technicalities, but government imitating a murderer by killing more ingeniously than murderers kill, and killing a woman.

One thing is certain. If the Governor were compelled to fasten a woman in the chair, throw the switch and see her die, the switch would not be thrown.

She wants damages for the injury to her reputation and for the intense mental pain and anguish which she said she suffered.

Freedom Denied Remus

By International News Service.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 6.—George Remus today was ordered to remain in jail pending final settlement of the lunacy case against him, when Judge Charles Bell, of Common Pleas Court, dismissed an application for a writ of habeas corpus, entered by Remus' attorneys asking his release.

Remus, the "former king of the bootleggers," was ordered confined to the State Asylum at Lima from Probate Court after a sanity hearing which was made necessary when a jury which tried him for murdering his wife, Imogene, returned a verdict of "not guilty on sole grounds of insanity."

SAY MESSAGE SPURIOUS

who was one of the experts retained by the committee, testified today that in his opinion seven of the coded documents which were included in the Mexican correspondence also were spurious.

COULDN'T DECIPHER CODE

Struble told the committee that he and his aides had spent 10 days trying to discover the code used but without success.

"We tried every method known to us and we couldn't solve the purported code," he said.

"The seven documents alleged to be in cipher or codes appear to be fakes. There are a number of indications which make it appear that they are not actually coded or ciphered messages.

"The seven alleged translations do not appear to fit in any way either as they are or as paraphrases with the seven alleged coded messages that they are supposed to be translations of. In my opinion no inter-relation exists between the apparently coded messages and the so-called translations, and in my opinion the so-called coded messages are not actually coded or ciphered dispatches."

Then," asked Senator Reed, These purported code messages are just mere nonsense and not in any code?"

No, it's not a code."

LANE TAKES STAND

Arthur Bliss Lane, chief of the Mexican affairs division of the State Department and former first secretary of the American Embassy in Mexico, testified that John Page, writer of the Hearst articles, and Miguel Avila, who obtained the documents had offered to sell him some Mexican documents. Lane said the offer was refused.

"Did Avila ever bring you for sale any documents purported to be stolen from the Mexican government?" asked Senator Reed.

"Not any actual documents, but he offered to sell me some and I told him the American Embassy was not in the market," said Lane.

"Did he want some money?"

"Yes."

"Did you ever give him any?"

No."

Then Lane told of Page bringing him a copy of a document, purporting to come from the Mexican files, which contained an attack on Ambassador Sheffield.

"There were many documents for sale in Mexico City?"

"Oh, yes."

"Who offered to sell you the document relating to Ambassador Sheffield?"

"It was brought to me by Mr. Page," said Lane. "Avila came afterwards and offered to get the original from the Mexican files. He asked 200 pesos, but I wouldn't buy it."

Lane said he thought all the Mexican documents under investigation were spurious.

Lane also told of Page offering him in August, 1926, a memorandum purporting to tell what Ambassador Sheffield would discuss with Secretary of State Kellogg on his return to the United States.

"Was that a confidential document of the American embassy?"

"It was purported to be, but it was on obvious forgery."

"Where did he get it?"

"He said he got it from Avilia, who said it came from the confidential files of the Mexican President."

PAGE ANSWERS CHARGES

At this point Page demanded to be heard. He said he had never offered the embassy any documents.

On one occasion, he said, he had talked to Sheffield about a letter Calles was supposed to have written attacking Sheffield and the American government.

"The ambassador told me he had heard that Calles had written a letter to state governors attacking the United States," said Page. "Sheffield said it would be of advantage to him and to the United States government for him to get that letter, without asking me directly to get it. I agreed to try to get it."

Page said he talked to Avila about it later and the latter said he could get a copy of it. Page said it was this copy that Lane had told the committee about.

Page was questioned again as to where he obtained a copy of a forged letter, purported to have been written Calles by Senator La Follette (R) of Wisconsin, which he had turned over to the Philadelphia Public Ledger. Page said he couldn't recall the man's name but he believed it was a Mexican newspaperman who gave it to him.

"When did you first realize this letter was a forgery?" Reed asked.

"When I couldn't get the original."

Johnson asked Page why he didn't take some action against the Mexican newspaperman when he learned the document was a forgery.

"I didn't do anything because I didn't want to make an enemy in Mexico City," said Page. "I was disappointed, but I had a feeling of satisfaction because no story had been written about the letter and no injustice done anybody."

Senator Reed then produced a letter written Senator La Follette by Page a month ago. In it Page said he had seen the Mexican newspaperman four times. He also wrote that he was informed by the Mexican that Calles had destroyed the letter and that a clerk had recovered some scraps of it from the presidential wastebasket, but these proved "unintelligible."

Lane returned to the stand and said: "In justice to Mr. Page I can't say he brought me the copy of that embassy letter, but he first brought it to my attention."

SAY SIGNATURES FAKED

Reed then placed in the record a statement from J. H. Taylor, chief of the Navy's Bureau of Identification, declaring all signatures on the Mexican documents were "fraudulent and spurious." Taylor was not called in person because the Navy had sent him to Boston to identify bodies recovered from the submarine S-4.

Bert C. Farrar, a treasury department handwriting expert, also condemned the signatures as "spurious." Both men corroborated the opinion expressed by hand writing experts employed by William Randolph Hearst.

ASKS NO IMMUNITY—GOSSER

The warning given by the Philadelphia county courts that United States mail truck drivers "must obey local laws pertaining to automobiles or take the consequences," brought the answer today from Postmaster George W. Gosser, at Pittsburgh, that the government, in the operation of its mail trucks, claims no immunity from state automobile laws of municipal traffic regulations.

"The public labors under a wrong impression respecting mail trucks," said Postmaster Gosser, "and the charge of recklessness of our drivers is a libel on the rules of the postoffice department and the character of a group of faithful men. The regulations laid down for our drivers are just as strictly enforced as those of any firm operating a fleet of trucks. The postoffice department stands in the same position as the individual owner of a motor vehicle and is subject to the same local laws.

"In case damage is proved against the Government as the result of a mail truck accident, the claimant is reimbursed from a fund in the postoffice department for that purpose. These claims are paid promptly. On the other hand, if the Government is the injured party, steps will be taken to collect damages from the individual."

HOW S-4 MEN DIED SHOWN

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Into the musty files of the Navy Department, replete with tales of naval heroism since the time of John Paul Jones, there went today a simple, unadorned tale, told in short sentences, that constitutes one of the most moving and tragic stories in navy history.

It was the log of messages that passed between six men trapped in the steel hulk of the submarine S-4 on the floor of the ocean off Provincetown, Mass., and those fighting to rescue them on the storm-tossed ocean's surface.

The tale begins on the afternoon of December 18, with the S-4's sister ship, the S-8, establishing communication. This was nearly 24 hours after the S-4 had plunged, crippled and helpless, to the bottom of the ocean.

"Is the control room flooded?" asked the S-8.

Seven dull taps meaning "Don't know," was the response.

"Is water in torpedo room?" asked the S-8.

Three taps. That meant "Yes."

"Are you in torpedo room?"

Three more taps. "Yes."

From this communication the rescuers above correctly surmised that somebody in the steel prison below knew the international code, and the S-8 told the prisoners to use it. The S-8 and the Falcon thereafter conducted the exchange of messages, using oscillators.

Then followed this:

Q.—Is there any gas?

A.—No, but air is bad. How long will you be?

Q.—How many are there?

A.—Six. Please hurry.

Then after a lapse of time:

Q.—Will you raise us soon?

A.—We are doing everything possible.

Near midnight the rescuers asked:

Q.—Is water still coming in?

A.—Slow. Hurry.

Q.—We working fast as possible. Have you light?

A.—No light. Air very bad.

Q.—Can you tell us names of those with you? (Time, 12:02, December 19.)

A.—Names are Fitch, Short, Crabb, Pelnar, Snizek, Stevens.

Throughout the night the messages continued:

Q.—Have you tried removing gag from compartment salvage air line?

A.—Salvage air line flooded.

Q.—How deep is water in compartment?

A.—Water about 18 inches deep. Air very bad.

Silence for a few houhs, then at 6:09 a. m., December 19, the prisoners tapped out: "Oxygen bottle empty. Can you send down couple?" Again at 9:40 a. m. came "Can you send down a couple?"

The S-8 was having difficulty receiving the messages, and asked those below to make more space between the taps.

The conversation was then resumed:

"Two floating cranes on way now," messaged the S-8.

"Where are cranes coming from?" asked the S-4.

Q. From New York. Will air last until tonight?

A. It will last till 6 tonight.

The S-4 asked how the weather was, and the S-8 responded "choppy." This was at 11 a. m.

Q. Is there any hope?

A. There is hope. Everything possible will be done. How many torpedoes aboard and when sowed?

To this there was no answer. The S-8 repeated "There is hope" and asked if last message had been understood. At 5:45 p. m. came distinct taps from the S-4.

The S-8 continued to tap out messages, but reception conditions were difficult and no definite replies could be received. Finally, at 3:15 Tuesday morning, December 20, the S-8 messaged:

"Pontoons have arrived."

The S-4 responded by three sets of taps, indicating the messages was understood.

During Monday night, when reception difficulties were encountered, the S-8 tried incessantly to transmit this message to Lieut. Fitch, the officer imprisoned in the torpedo room:

"Your wife and mother constantly praying for you. If you receive this send taps till I stop you."

This was at 12:10 a. m. No response at 12:30. At 12:45 and at 2 a. m. the message was repeated. No answer.

Until 6:10 a. m. the message was repeated, but it was not until 6:15 a. m. that the listeners detected three taps from below, indicating "Yes."

At 6:20 a. m. the S-8 advised that a diver would try to connect air to the S. C. tube. Three taps came in response, again indicating the message had been received.

At 7:40 a. m. the S-8 messages below that the weather was clearing. There was no answer.

At 10:15 the S-8 signaled that the cranes had arrived. There came very faint tappings in response.

At various times from then on the listeners thought they heard faint tappings, but were unsure.

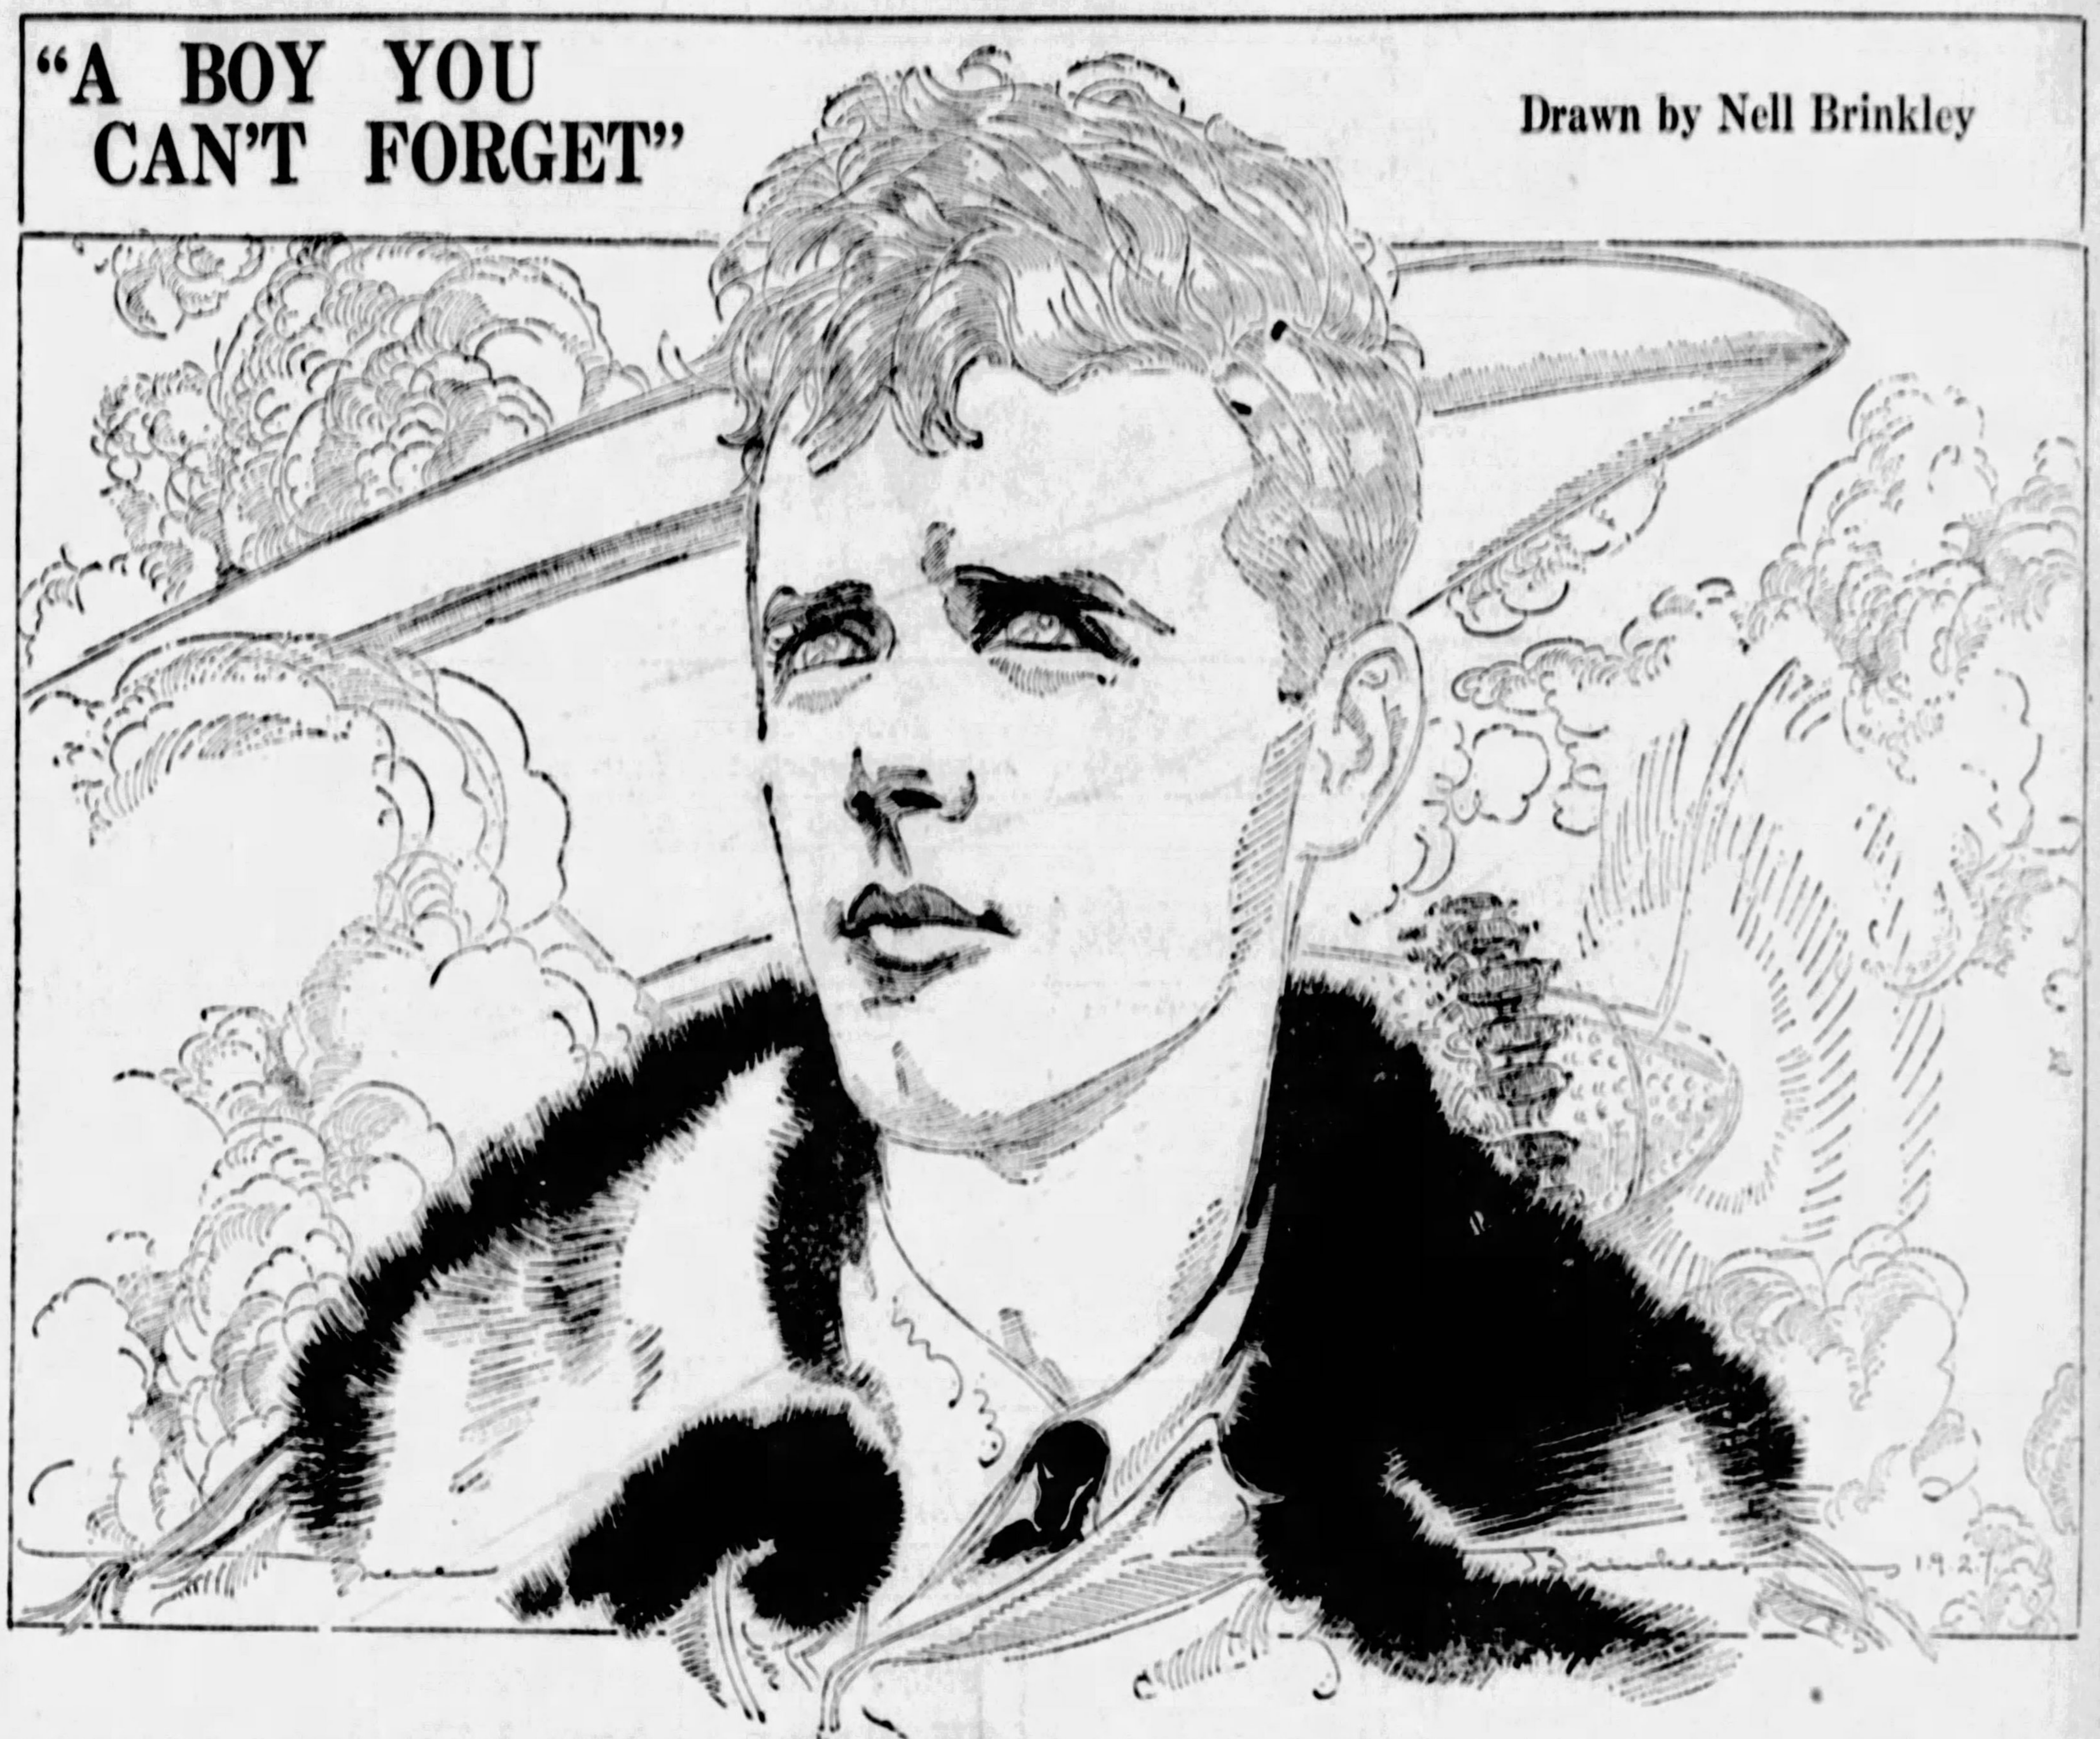
At 4:30 p. m. the S-8 asked "Are you all O. K." The listeners were certain they heard three taps, indicating "Yes."

Two hours later, at 6:30 p. m., the listeners thought they heard random tapping.

Repeated messages were tapped out from above after this hour, but there was only silence below.

"A BOY YOU CAN'T FORGET"

Drawn by Nell Brinkley



THERE is a shy boy, and a determined man, whose record is in the Militia Bureau of the War Department in Washington. And it says, "Intelligent, industrious, alert, quick of reaction, serious, stable, efficient, deliberate, modest, frank, congenial, a man of good moral habits and regular in all his business transactions.

There was an unwitting description of a HERO. Charles Lindbergh. To an admiring and affectionate America and an enthusiastic and cheering world he is "LINDY."

He is the world's hero, and our greatest national pride. Lesser heroes, worshipped yesterday, lose inches from their stature beside him. Front-page occupants of poorer character seem cheap when we see Lindy's face and think of what he is and has done. The most resplendent and the most worthy Motion Picture idols grow dim and feeble before the boyish, pleasant, terribly sincere countenance of the combination boy and diplomat who winged his way quietly and alone straight into the mighty dazzle of Immortality! With, in his simplicity, "letters of introduction" in his pocket! Other idols suddenly seem to have the veriest feet of clay beside him. What chance have they in the presence of a knight of the Sky, the Sun and the Stars?

There is something he has done—alone, as he dared the world's greatest adventure—by his personality to this country that is hard to explain, but deeply felt. His blue-eyed youth, his simplicity, his modesty, his bravery and his character have spiritually and emotionally done good to a bored and bitter world. The spectacle of youth that is both honest and good riding the elements like a god helped the world's belief in the beauty and success of good and honest things. It should show a young man of character, who is skeptical of his ultimate success because he leads what is popularly known as a "slow life," that "character" is the quality that will give him "speed" for the highest goal possible. The spectacle of boyish simplicity and ease, daring, and the ability to say the right thing to the greatest of the world, has inspired and enchanted young men and old ones alike all over the world. Here's to the boy we can't forget!

—NELL BRINKLEY.

[EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the "boy" whose own story, "WE," begins in the Sunday and daily Sun-Telegraph as a serial Sunday. The artist and author, Miss Brinkley, has not overdrawn the picture, as your heart tells you and "WE" will confirm.]

WINTER SORROWS FOR MOTHER

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

These are the words of a young man who has lost hope:

"If a man is born to die in the electric chair, he will die there. I will die Monday condemning no one—trying to meet my fate like a soldier. But, merciful God—if I could only save my mother from this grief and sorrow I would give my life over and over again."

It is the desperate cry of Raymond Winter, doomed to die in the electric chair early Monday.

The law says Raymond Winter, son of Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Winter, of 23 West Bellcrest avenue, Brentwood borough, murdered poor little Alexander Sabo, 5, and his sister, Helen, 6, a half-mile from their home at Castle Shannon in May, 1925.

But, yesterday, over and over again, Winter swore he was innocent. His attorney, Charles B. Prichard, who believes absolutely in the innocence of the World War veteran, plead with him for any last minute information that might help to ease the hearts of those who love him. Staunchly Winter denied he had ever even intimated that he might be guilty of such a heinous crime and smiled grimly as he declared he would not flinch.

And in the home of his father and mother the most hardened heart would melt with sympathy. The hair of Winter's mother has turned white as snow. Her eyes are pools of sadness and her sweet voice weighted with tears.

For God alone knows the sorrow of a mother who has been told that her son must die. A mother who watches the clock tick off every minute knowing that it brings him nearer to his ignominious death. Her hands tightened until the veins stood out dark blue as she cried desperately:

"Oh, God, they are killing my dear son and they aren't sure he did it! I am his mother and I know he didn't. The evidence is black, we admit. But he has told me all about it, time and again. There were witnesses who said they had seen a tramp near where the children were killed. Raymond saw him, too. Why don't they find him?"

Then fondly she went on to tell anecdotes of her handsome son's life, how he had spent several months studying painting in Paris. She went into another room and brought some of them—landscapes. They were beautiful. Raymond Winter exhibited some of them in the Carnegie gallery here.

And she showed the piano that she had taught him to play. He was exceptionally artistic and accomplished. When she came to the part of the story of how he went to France with the Eightieth Division, tears came to her eyes. He was wounded and gassed.

"It would have been better if he had died on the field of battle. Then he would have been a hero," she said sadly.

He was secretary of the car barn band, too. He had become a street car conductor to earn a living for his wife and increasing family.

His father would like to know how, with a child of his own, Raymond could murder the Sabo children. Winter's father can find no answer to the question. At the time of Winter's arrest he had one little son, 2 years old. Another, born six months afterward, is 2 now. His wife, who stood by her husband during the trial, has since divorced him.

WINTER, WAR VETERAN-CARMAN -:- SAYS HE'LL DIE -:- "LIKE A SOLDIER"

SUPPRESSED DESIRES

An accomplished pianist, a Paris-trained artist, gassed in the World War—Raymond Winter, now 33, was unable to support his family as he wished. Desire for things he could not obtain, his family said, turned him into a human fiend.

RAYMOND WINTER

Unable to follow his natural esthetic tendencies, he turned to work as a street car conductor.

VICTIMS

Luring Alexander Sabo, 8, and Helen Sabo, 6, away, Winter killed them.

DOROTHY WINTER

"If he did it, he simply went crazy. He was good to me," said his wife. She divorced him last April.

FATHER OF VICTIMS WILLING TO FORGIVE

Even after Winter had been convicted of the crime, the slain children's father, Charles Sabo, at extreme left, held no malice toward the slayer. "Maybe he's crazy; maybe he didn't want to do it," said the grief-stricken parent. The mother, shown in the inset, never forgave.

IN THE SHADOW

Now Winter stands in the shadow of the electric chair with the Grim Reaper just beyond. He is to die at Rockview Monday.

GAS EXPLOSION WRECKS TWO BUILDINGS

[illegible] were injured and two [illegible] Atlantic avenue, McKeesport, were wrecked yesterday by a gas explosion. Damage was estimated at $15,000. Mrs. Harry Glantz, wife of a tailor, who conducts a shop on the first floor of 324 Atlantic avenue, was overcome by fumes and Joseph Grigotshe of Versailles was cut and bruised and burned on the face and body, when blown from a store at 326 Atlantic avenue.

Windows in the two buildings were shattered. A passing street car was showered with debris and several windows in the car were broken. Grigotshe was working in the store at 326 Atlantic avenue, which was being vacated by Samuel Guttman, a butcher. A large ice box was being moved and in doing so workmen, it is believed, loosened a gas pipe. When a match was lighted a few minutes later the explosion followed.

No-Lipstick Club Organized by Schoolgirls

CAMDEN, N. J., Jan. 6.—(AP.)—Out of 500 girls between the ages of 13 and 16 enrolled in the Hatch Junior High School in Camden, 105 have joined a newly-organized non-lipstick club and pledged themselves not to use lipstick. The club was organized at the suggestion of Miss Verna Summerill, of the science department, in a health lecture to the girls on the bad effects of cosmetics. Any girl seen with the forbidden cosmetic on her lips is "reported." A second offense drops her name from the club. Only two girls so far have been dropped.

MINERS DISCUSS PRESERVATION OF UNION

"If the present coal strike is to be won and the unions are to be preserved the strike must be taken out of the stage of deadlock," John Brophy, for 10 years president of District No. 2 of the United Mine Workers of America, said yesterday, addressing a gathering of miners in Walton Hall, Stanwix street. The meeting, attended by 125 miners, was called to discuss the ways and means of saving the union.

Brophy advocated the nationalization of mines with democratic management as the only adequate remedy for the ills of the coal industry. The miners present expressed strong determination to continue the strike. Powers Hapgood also spoke and he was bitter in his denunciation of the leadership of John L. Lewis and Philip Murray, who he said were leading the miners in the wrong direction. Another speaker was Pat Toohay, a miner from Canonsburg, who asked the miners to spread the strike into unorganized fields and the hard coal regions.

APPEALS FOR SHOES FOR MINE SCHOOL CHILDREN

Mrs. Wallace Shako, president of the ladies' auxiliary of the striking coal miners at Russellton, today issued an appeal for funds with which to buy shoes for the community's school children, in many cases unable to go to school because of lack of footwear. She requested those desiring further information to telephone Curtisville 16-R4.

LADY MARVELS AT RELIEF OBTAINED

Was In Misery for Years; Ten Herbs Ended Stomach and Bowel Trouble.

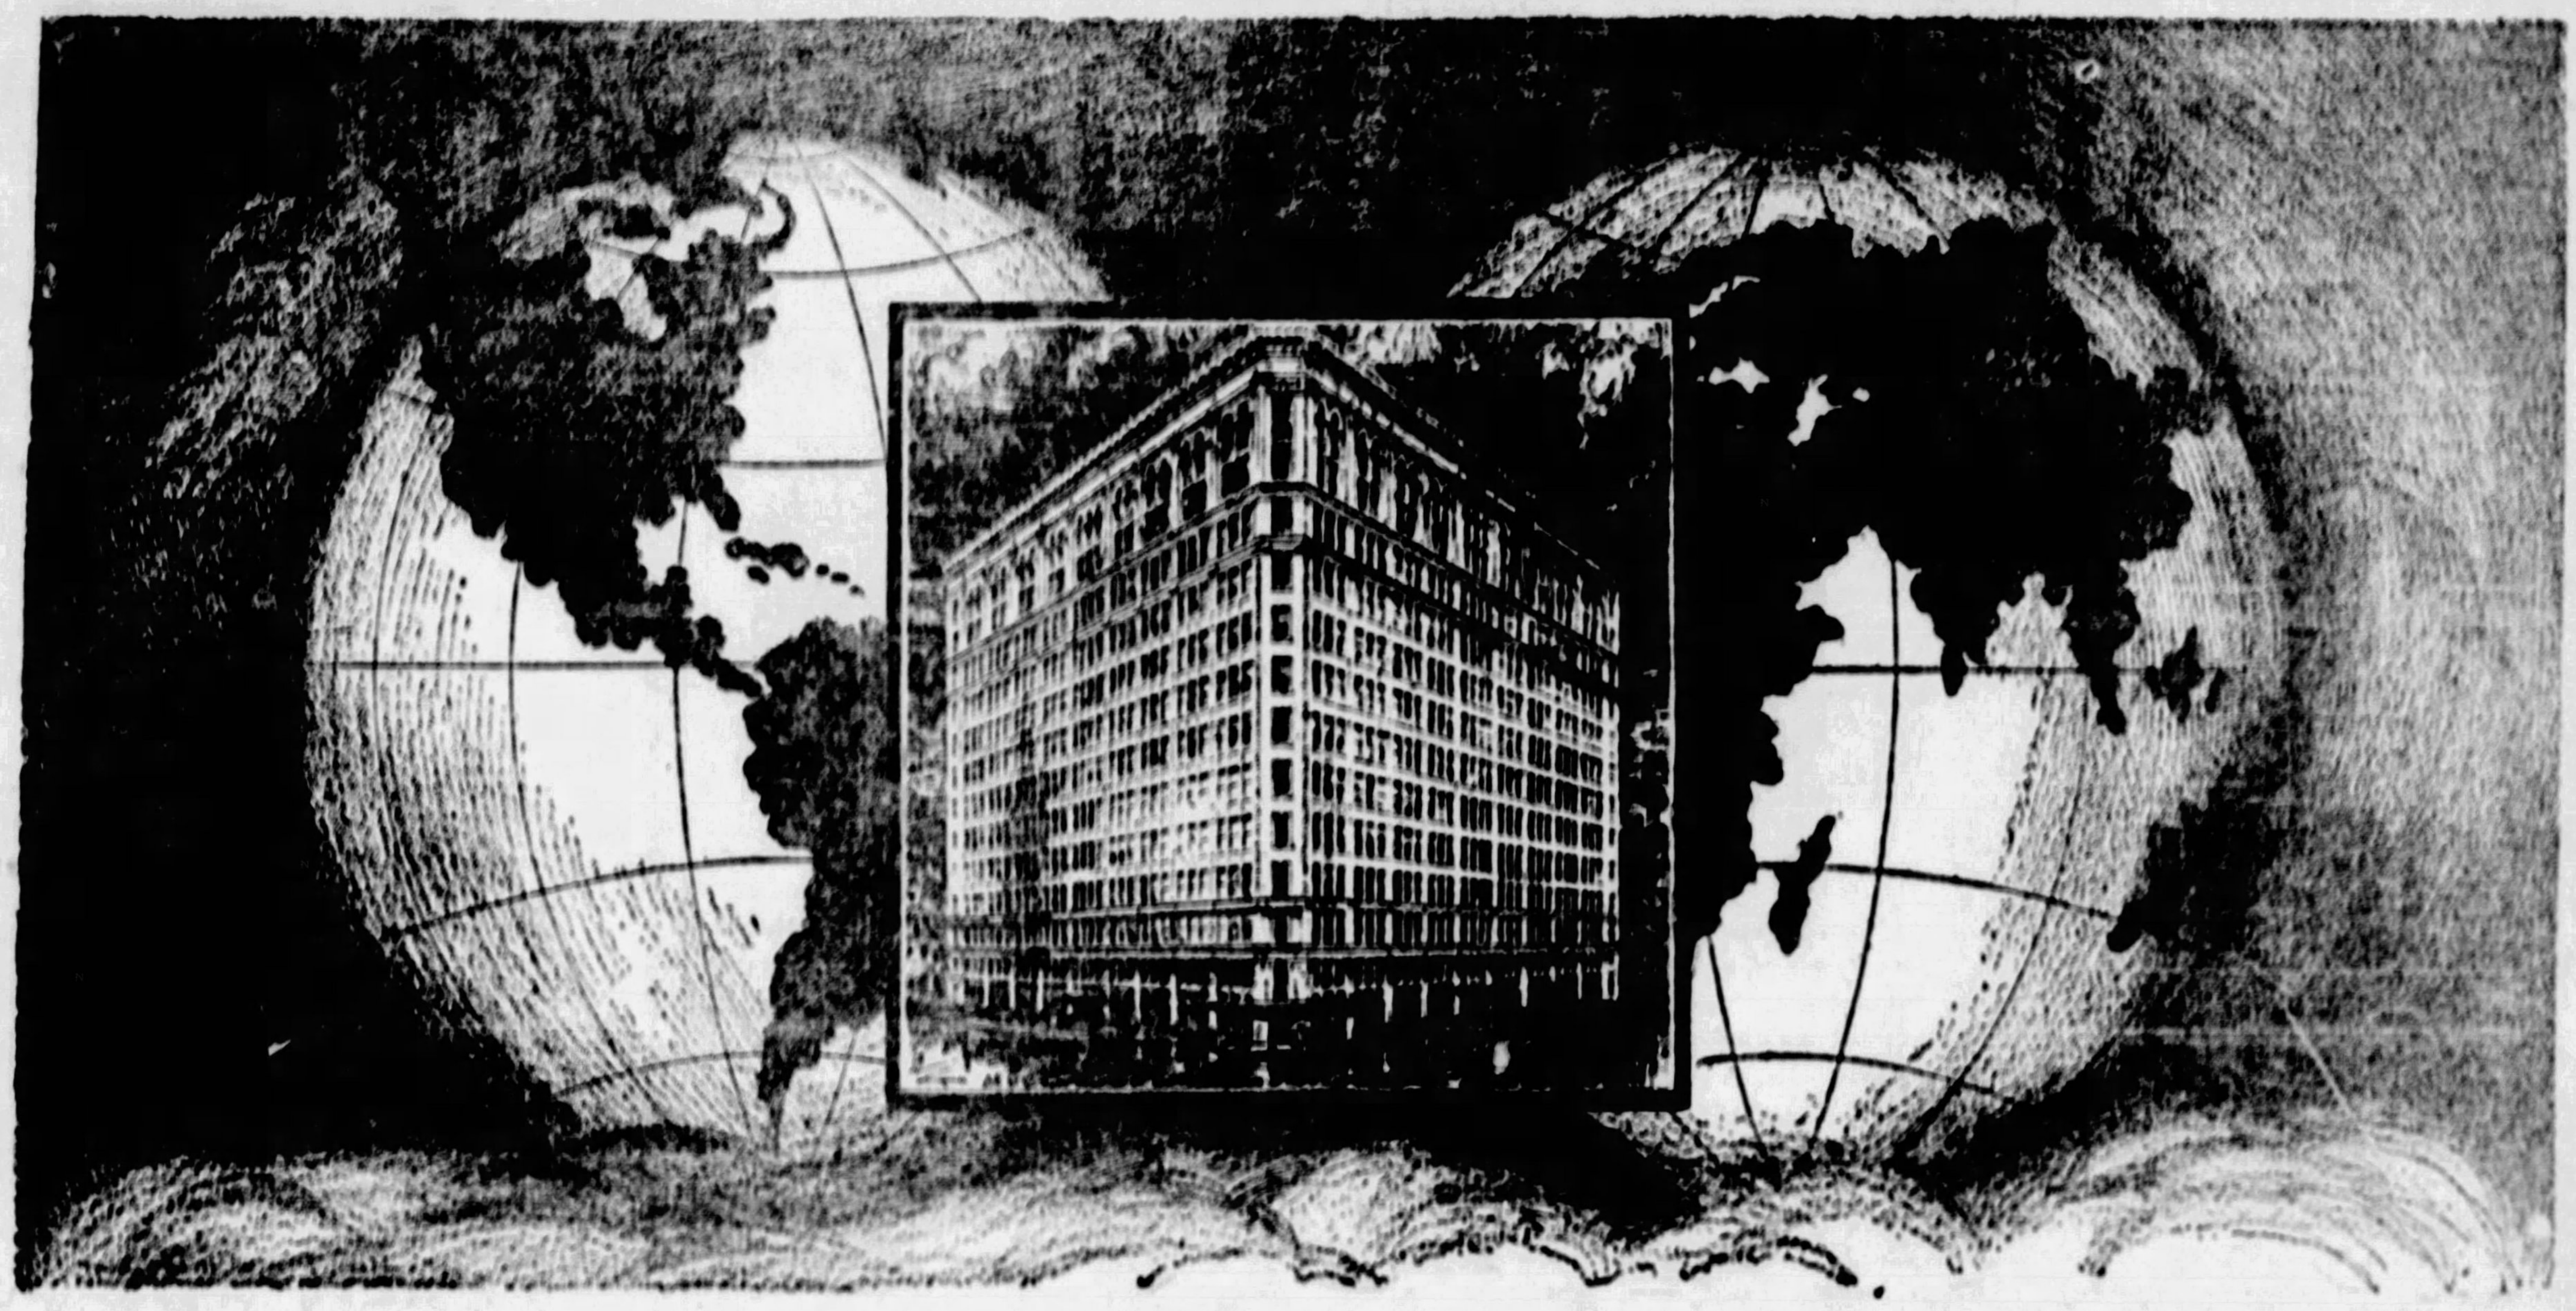
"I am feeling like a new woman since taking Ten Herbs," was the statement of Mrs. C. S. Klein, a popular Baltimore lady, living at 10 East Madison Street, that city, according to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at the May Drug Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this splendid compound. "The results I got from this medicine are nothing short of marvelous, and I know now the joys of living after years of misery." Mrs. Klein continued. "My trouble started in my stomach. It got so bad that just a few mouthfuls of food would seem to fill me up and cause a burning feeling all the way from the pit of my stomach up to my throat. I would fill with gas and have pains and headaches. My bowels were constipated, and my liver so out of order that I was often bilious. My complexion was very sallow. I had awful neuritis pains through my body and even lost feeling in my right arm—my hand often felt like it would burst open.

MRS. C. S. KLEIN

"I tried different medicines, but nothing relieved me, except Ten Herbs, which gave me real relief. I have a good appetite now and do not suffer from any of the disorders I have mentioned. I feel better and stronger in every way. I give Ten Herbs all the credit."

When you use this celebrated compound, Ten Herbs, and it begins to cleanse your system of the awful accumulations of poisonous waste matter and impurities; when it invigorates the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; when aches and pains in the back, biliousness, headaches, constipation and other distress are relieved—then you understand why people almost everywhere look with such favor on this new herbal preparation. See how you feel after taking a few doses of this successful medicine.

The Ten Herbs Man is at the May Drug Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. He will be glad to tell you how to take it to get the best results. Free sample given.



Gimbels-in-Pittsburgh is Eighty-Five Years Old

GIMBELS of Pittsburgh is no novice in shop-keeping.

Eighty-five years the Gimbel business has been in existence—continuously conducted by members of the Founder's family—each generation profiting by the experience of the preceding.

It has been a business characterized by an unusual willingness to learn from others.

Its active heads have always been ready to study—have inspected every retail establishment of importance in this country and Europe—have welcomed the advice of industrial leaders in other than retail lines—have sought and accepted the suggestions of their employees.

Gimbel Brothers brings to Pittsburgh—the accumulated experience of eighty-five years—the combined knowledge of six of America's great department stores—the merchandising wisdom of the greatest retail organization of its kind in the world.

With this background and thus equipped, Gimbels-in-Pittsburgh should be able to render a service such as few stores have been priviledged to achieve.

DELMAS JOHNSON

Mrs. Victoria Pierwaza, 34, of 549 Sixth avenue, Parnassus, aroused by smoke to find herself hemmed in by flames, climbed to the porch roof, smashed the window in the room where her four children slept, aroused them and dropped them into the arms of Delmas Johnson, a neighbor. Beside her are Aloysius, 2, and Eleanor, 12. Harry, 9, and John, Jr., 7, owe their lives to the bravery of their mother, who risked her own life in rescuing them from their burning home. Mrs. Pierwaza suffered a severe cut on the right arm at the elbow, which required six stitches to close, in shattering the glass, and was cut on the right hand. Delmas Johnson, 20, of 551 Sixth avenue, rushed from his home and caught the four children as they were dropped by the mother. Johnson then completed a hard task by catching the woman herself.

Smart New Dresses

For Daytime and Evening

The interim season calls for refreshing additions to the wardrobe, and this great collection offers unusual advantages for the selecting of dresses.

For Women:

Tailor-Type and semi-dressy models of flat crepe, crepe jolie, satin, and printed silks in small patterns.

Sports-type dresses of the new, colorful Miami crepe, (a heavy sports silk), with plain skirts and striped or checked blouses; also dresses of featherweight tweeds and wool georgette.

Dressy frocks of georgette crepe in lovely, soft colorings, including the very chic nail-head trimmed ones.

Dinner dresses of lace and chiffon combined, with or without sleeves.

For Misses:

Afternoon dresses of black satin, of flat crepe and georgette in new mid-season shades, and printed silks in an infinite variety of patterns and color combinations.

Sports-type frocks of featherweight tweeds, silk, and wool jersey combined with silk crepe.

Evening dresses of taffeta combined with tulle, in bouffant models.

Young Women Are Asking for Green Hats

Because green is a color of animation, perhaps also because it is suggestive of spring, green hats are in demand now as a brightening touch to mid-Winter costumes.

Here are hats of felt, bengaline silk, bengaline with braid applications, embroidered taffeta, and grosgrain ribbon, in light shades of green which fair young women wear so well, and in darker shades which are becoming to almost all types. Both brimmed hats and turban styles, at $5.00 to $10.00.

Hats with the new nose veils, $5.00 upward.

LAUNCH FIGHT TODAY ON RADIO TRUST CHARGES

UNLIMBER GUNS AGAINST R. C. A.

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—A vigorous fight on the nominations of Orestus Caldwell and Samuel Pickard to be members of the Federal Radio Commission was to get under way today before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

Caldwell is opposed by a large number of Senators because, they claim, his past association with the Radio Corporation of America renders him too friendly to that organization.

Pickard's appointment is being fought on the ground that he is not a resident of Kansas, from which state he was appointed by President Coolidge.

The proceeding before the Interstate Commerce Committee is in reality the first gun in an extensive battle covering the whole radio field which is to be fought out in the present Congress.

Several Senators are demanding a thorough investigation of charges that the Radio Corporation is dominating the whole field of radio broadcasting in addition to manufacturing and communication.

Others are seeking to set up a permanent commission to supervise radio, telephone, telegraph and all other communications agencies.

'NATION' TELLS OF COMBINE

[Charges of favoritism are made against the Federal Radio Commission in an article by Mauritz A. Hallgren, Washington newspaper man, in the January 11 issue of "The Nation." The main points in Hallgren's article are published through permission of Oswald Garrison Villard, editor, and the management of "The Nation."]

By MAURITZ A. HALLGREN.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Somnolent public opinion, lulled into that desirable state by pleasant radio programs and a smooth-running publicity machine, has continued in the last six months to keep the air cleared for an obedient servant of the people, the radio trust.

This providential combine has gathered in another group of independent manufacturers—at a minimum annual royalty of $100,000 each; and by deft manipulation, strictly in accordance with the law, has shaken choice plums out of the Federal Radio Commission, though that body was created to maintain the control of the United States over all channels of interstate and foreign radio transmission.

Among these plums have been a number of short wave-lengths, which recently have become exceedingly valuable in the field of long-distance commercial communication. Today the control of the wireless cabal over manufacturing and broadcasting could not be more complete; since July 1 its domination over commercial communication has been greatly strengthened, despite the gesture of opposition offered by the newly-created Postal Federal Telegraph Alliance in the far west.

PERMANENT CONTROL NEAR

Apparently all that remains to make permanent this control is to have the present session of Congress extend indefinitely the life of the Federal Radio Commission.

Early in 1927, several patent suits, initiated by the Radio Corporation of America, were pending in the courts. Later, after the RCA had won a preliminary skirmish, the majority of these suits were settled out of court, by which arrangement a number of independent manufacturers were brought into the trust's patent pool.

Included among these were Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company, Crosley Radio Corporation, Radio Reception Company, Inc., All-America Radio Corporation, American Bosch Magneto Corporation and Splitdorf-Bethlehem Electrical Company.

The settlement called for the payment of back royalties at the rate of 7½ per cent on the sale price of all radio devices sold, a sum "considerably more than $1,000,000," and the payment in the future of royalties at the same rate. Discussing the agreement reached with the first of these companies, the Radio Corporation said:

"Aside from the payment of royalties by Atwater Kent and the freedom which it gives his company to go forward without being hampered by the lack of basic patents or the distraction of litigition, the licensing agreement will have no other effect on the radio industry, which is on a vigorously competitive basis."

HOLDS A "JOKER."

Considering that most of the basic radio patents have expired or are about to expire and that competition is permitted only upon payment of tribute to the controlling syndicate, this statement appears somewhat faulty.

At least that is the view held by the independents, and particularly by The DeForest Radio Company, The Northern Manufacturing Company, The United Radio and Electrical Corporation, and certain individuals doing business under the name of the Sonatron Tube Corporation, who on November 29 filed suit in the United States District Court in Wilmington, Del., asking that the Radio Corporation of America be restrained from continuing its monopoly of the industry.

In the meanwhile, the trust has been handsomely aided by the Federal Radio Commission. When the Dill-White bill was before Congress at its last session, the General Electric-Westinghouse ring bitterly opposed the plan to set up an independent radio commission. In this it was supported by President Coolidge, who declared that an independent body would further complicate the growing governmental bureaucracy. The President wanted radio supervision placed directly under a cabinet officer, who would be responsible to him.

But Senator C. C. Dill, of Washington, insisted, and he was supported by independent radio interests. Eventually the contending forces compromised; Dill and the independents were to have their commission, but its life was to last only a year, no longer: the radio coalition could after that look forward to one-man supervision, which apparently was what it desired. Since the organization of the commission last spring, however, the opponents of the combine have become disillusioned and the trust amply repaid by the compromise.

The former had believed that the commissioners would be outstanding, liberal-minded men; instead, so they now allege, the Radio Commission was packed with men over-friendly toward the General Electric family or directly under obligations to the radio trust. . . . Under the radio act of 1927 the commission is given the widest possible latitude in granting licenses.

R. C. A. ROAD SMOOTHED

A review of the licenses granted in the last few months shows that almost without exception applications received from the R. C. A. group have been approved, while those from dissentient concerns have usually been listed for future hearing. It is not unreasonable to point out that the smaller applicants can rarely afford to attend these hearings in person, to pay an attorney to be on hand at all times to keep alive the commission's interest in their applications, or to pay the expenses of the large number of witnesses that would be needed to convince the commission that the broadcasting or commercial service contemplated is really in the "public interest."

Lately the Federal Radio Commission has put into effect a new wave-length reallocation scheme, under which as many as 300 of the 685 broadcasting stations in the country may be refused license renewals after the first of February. At the moment, the conflict is over the control of short wave-lengths. Until very recently the wave-lengths under 200 meters were considered worthless . . .

Further exploration disclosed that these short waves have immense commercial possibilities. Appreciating this, the General Electric combine has reached out for all the short wave-lengths made available by the Radio Commission, and has succeeded in acquiring half of them.

A total of 119 of these wave-lengths had, until December 1, been doled out by the commission, of which number 57 were assigned to members of the trust, 38 to the Mackay-Federal combination, and 24 to miscellaneous stations. At its Rocky Point, Long Island, station the Radio Corporation is using 15 or more of these frequency bands, and at its Bolinas, California, station several more.

Many wireless experts have pointed out that the business of the Radio Corporation at this time does not require the 44 short waves which have been assigned to it. It has been the position of the corporation, however, that it needs them all for emergencies or for future expansion. In the meantime other present or potential commercial operators are denied the use of these waves . . .

So far as trans-oceanic wireless is concerned the trust has frankly taken the stand that such service should be in the hands of a monopoly . . .

POSTAL MAKES HEADWAY

Nevertheless the Postal-Federal alliance, which has rounded up 28 short waves, seems to be having some success in competing with the Radio Corporation's monopoly on the Pacific. But a cardinal point of the trust's program is no wireless competition with the overland wire services—particularly the Western Union, a related member of the combine. The Postal Telegraph is making a feeble effort to break through this policy, but nowhere else is there to be found the slightest semblance of a threat . . .

Aside from the Postal-Federal licenses already mentioned, not one short wave has been assigned to a commercial radio company competing or planning to compete with the Radio Corporation in long distance wireless communication service or with the Western Union in overland telegraph service.

Clearly, then, it is to the advantage of the trust that the Radio Commission be continued as at present constituted . . .

The Interstate Commerce Committee of the Senate, with Mr. Watson of Indiana as its chairman, has been working on a bill which would continue the commission as an administrative body, although when reported out it may also approve that the commission's jurisdiction be extended to embrace supervision of the telephone and telegraph systems as well as radio . . .

Representative E. L. Davis, an authority on the subject and minority leader of the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, which has charge of radio legislation in the House, is understood to be in favor of extending the tenure of the Radio Commission, but he also wants the commission's power increased so that it would become a regulatory instead of a supervisory body . . .

URGE MILITARY RULE

Another proposal, not yet fathered by any one congressman, would set up a body to regulate and control all radio services, including peacetime and non-military service of the Army and Navy. At present, these latter systems are not under the jurisdiction of the Radio Commission. The suggested agency would be composed of civil and military personnel, assisted by a staff of technical experts, who would have virtually complete control over all wireless activities in the country.

But as this step is not far removed from actual government monopoly, it is doubtful whether it would make much progress in either house, particularly in view of the activities of the "seventeen billion dollar power industry" lobby in Washington. This lobby is intimately tied up with the radio trust not only through interlocking directorates and stock holdings, but more particularly because the electricity trust will presently find it necessary to control patents on the devices now being developed for the wireless broadcasting of power.

Quite apart from the question of the future supervision of broadcasting, Congress may be asked to investigate the past work of the Radio Commission. Many of the independent station owners who have been forced to quit the air, claiming that thereby they have lost hundreds of thousands of dollars which they had invested in broadcasting equipment, are threatening trouble.

THE DRUGGIST IS LAUDED AS HUMANITARIAN

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Druggists, as a class, are far more reasonable in charging for their professional services than are some doctors, according to Edmund P. Flynn, special investigator for the Pharmaceutical Bureau of Research, New York City, after concluding a national survey of the economic status of the average druggist.

"Despite the fact that conditions, many of them beyond his control and not of his choosing, have compelled the druggist to become a merchandiser of non-pharmaceutical wares, the pharmacist has held more closely to the ideals and traditions of his ancient and honored art than any other professional man," Mr. Flynn told a Sun-Telegraph correspondent. He added:

"Some doctors have increased their charges for sick calls to such a degree that, if it were not for the humanitarian spirit of the pharmacist, in supplying medicaments on credit and often free of charge when the patient cannot pay for them, all hope of relief from sickness would be lost to the poorer classes in the congested metropolitan centers."

He asserted that the average druggist makes no profit on his prescription work, notwithstanding the time and money invested in the technical training he must undergo before he can be certified to dispense medicines.

COUNCIL TELLS HEALTH HEAD TO MOVE

"It's the Doctor's move."

Council reached that decision after receiving a statement from Dr. R. G. Burns, head of the Department of Health, explaining why he is occupying quarters in the municipal hospital assigned to the superintendent of that instution.

The doctor's move will not be on a checker-board, but from his present quarters to any house or apartment he cares to rent or purchase.

When that move is made the next move will be up to Dr. P. E. Marks, whose official title is Superintendent of the Bureau of Infectious Diseases and of the Municipal Hospital. Dr. Marks will move from his present home to the quarters in the hospital, where both rent and board are paid by the city.

Dr. Burns, explaining his occupancy of the hospital rooms, said that when he held the position now held by Dr. Marks, he had been made head of the hospital by Dr. C. J. Vaux, then head of the Health Department. When he succeeded Dr. Vaux, he said, he continued to perform the duties as head of the hospital in order to be in immediate touch with the extensive improvements and alterations made there. As an additional reason, he said that the responsibility of the superintendent of the bureau of infectious diseases are such that his services should be confined to that work.

BUFFALO SEEKS MAN'S KIN HERE

BUFFALO, Jan. 6.—Officials of the Buffalo City hospital are seeking relatives of Joseph Connaway, a former Pittsburgher, who has become violently insane in that institution and can tell nothing of himself or his relatives.

Police took the man into custody on November 28, 1927. During the early days of his confinement he said he had a brother Howard Connaway, residing in Butler street, Pittsburgh. He also declared he had been working for a motor car company in Pittsburgh.

Efforts of the hospital executives to reach these men have failed. Connaway, who at times has given his name as Conway, also Kenneway, is 42, stockily built man, about five feet five inches in height, weighing 175 pounds, hair dark brown and eyes gray blue. Any one having knowledge of the man is asked to write to the social service department of the Buffalo City hospital.

COMMISSIONER JOB OPEN

Charles J. Helbert, postmaster of Perrysville, elected as township commissioner of the Third District of Ross township November 8, discovered that he could not hold both offices, and resigned as commissioner, according to a petition of 15 electors of the district presented yesterday to Judge James R. Macfarlane in Quarter Sessions Court, seeking to fill the commissionership vacancy by the appointment of William B. Held. A hearing was fixed for January 12.

Appointment of Edward Goldstein as constable of the Second Ward, Braddock, to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Andrew Katnik December 25, was asked in a petition of 35 electors of the district. A hearing was fixed for January 9.

LEADER, 72, REORGANIZES MT. MORRIS VILLAGE BAND

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 6.—The Mt. Morris village band will reorganize provided the musicians can find the instruments which they laid away more than four years ago when the old organization disbanded. Charles Fox, 72, bandmaster, is sponsoring the movement.

ICY PLUNGE OF AUTO INJURES TWO

WOODLAWN, Pa., Jan. 6.—Robert Nelson, 38, of 1344 Illinois avenue, Dormont, and Antonio Certo, 45, of 1413 Dagmar avenue, Beechview, were severely injured when their auto skidded on the ice on the South Heights highway, near the Ambridge-Woodlawn Bridge, and crashed down a 35-foot embankment to the Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railroad tracks.

An employe of the American Bridge Company, in Ambridge, saw the accident from across the river and notified police of Woodlawn and Ambridge. The men were lifted from the overturned auto and taken to Ambridge, where they were attended by Dr. A. M. Mellot and sent to their homes. Certo suffered several fractured ribs.

$2,000 LIQUOR "ORPHANED"

Two thousand dollars' worth of liquor seized by the police a week ago remains orphaned.

William Herman, 834 Vista street, in whose cellar the liquor was seized, December 29, and who maintained that he was not the owner, when charged with keeping a disorderly house, successfully maintained in Magistrate E. M. Hough's Police Court today that he was not the owner and was discharged.

The liquor, carefully guarded so that none might leak from the 12 sacks in which it was contained, has been transferred to the city property room, and North Side police are exhibiting a signed receipt for its safe delivery.

Death Roll

William Davies.

In the death of William Davies, 27, a policeman, at his home, 823 Spring Garden avenue, yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Davies, 1136 Western avenue, have lost the twenty-first of 22 children. The only survivor is Miss Louise Davies. All but William and Louise died before they were seven years old.

William Davies joined the Army in February, 1918, being assigned to the machine gun company of the Three Hundred and Twentieth Infantry, Eightieth Division, at Camp Lee. He took part in three engagements in France and was mustered out in June, 1919. Joining the police force in December, six months later, Davies had since been connected with the North Side Station.

Patrolman Davies was a member of Pittsburgh Lodge No. 2, I. O. O. F.; the Fraternal Order of Police, Police and Firemen's Insurance, Police and Detectives Protective Association and a member of the board of directors of the police pension fund. He leaves his widow, two daughters and one son.

Mrs. Eleanor Heiles.

Mrs. Eleanor Blum Heiles, 82, widow of Michael Heiles, died yesterday afternoon in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Christian Heim, East and North avenues, North Side. She was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church, the Ladies' Conference and the Christian Mothers' Society of the congregation. Besides Mrs. Heim she leaves three sons, two brothers, a sister, 19 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Baxmeier Funeral.

Funeral services for Henry C. Baxmeier, former secretary and treasurer of the Independent Brewing Company of Pittsburgh, who died Monday were held last night at 8 o'clock at his residence, 203 Bon Air avenue. The Rev. R. O. Eisele, of the German Evangelical Congregational Church of the South Side, officiated. Private interment was made this morning at the family plot in South Side Cemetery.

Mrs. Minnie Parry.

Mrs. Minnie Parry, 63, died in her home, 1715 Lillian street, Wednesday. She had resided in Pittsburgh all her life and was an active member of Lieutenant E. R. Geary Circle No. 7, Ladies' Auxiliary of the G. A. R. She leaves her husband, Charles Parry, a daughter, three grandchildren, a brother and four sisters.

Mrs. Jennie C. Webb.

Mrs. Jennie C. Webb, 77, widow of Joseph Webb, a resident of Pittsburgh for 52 years, died yesterday in the home of her son, George C. Webb, 1206 Pemberton street, North Side. Mrs. Webb was born in Ohio. She was a member of the Brighton Road Presbyterian Church. She leaves two sons, and a daughter.

Mrs. Elizabeth Espy.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ruhlandt Espy, 73, widow of Gustave Espy, died last night at her home, 208 Onyx avenue, Mt. Oliver. Mrs. Espy was a member of the German United Evangelical Church and Waukina Council No. 7, Degree of Pocahontas. She leaves four daughters, two sons and four grandchildren.

Mrs. Minnie Gredetarry.

Mrs. Minnie Gredetarry, 62, of 715 Lillian street, died at her home Wednesday. Mrs. Gredetarry was an active member of Lieutenant Geary Council No. 7, Ladies' Auxillery, G. A. R. She leaves her husband, one brother, four sisters and three grandchildren.

OVERCOAT SALE

Remarkable Special Purchase of This Season's Models

Probably the Finest Overcoats for So Little Money in Many Years—Every Coat a 1927-28 Model.

Herringbones, Chinchillas, Fancy Tweeds, Through-and-Through Plaids, Plaid Backs

The time was ripe, we thought, for a special selling of this sort—our buyer's hurried trip resulted far more advantageously than expected. Picture coats of remarkably good woolens from America's leading mills—coats as smart as the smartest in style—coats with satin yokes and satin sleeve linings, the majority quilted. Tube Coats, Chesterfields and Box Models (a very few with velvet collars). This season's good patterns and colors — blues, browns, heather grays, tans and oxfords. Plenty of winter weather ahead, and even buying for next winter would be profitable.

150 Men's and Young Men's Two-Trouser Suits

An Extraordinary Companion Selling at

$17.00

First of all we advise early choosing, for such values are rare enough to dispose of the entire lot in short order. Good, wanted single and double breasted models in worsted, serge, cassimere and fancy tweeds—all sizes 34 to 44, but not every size in every style.

IDENTIFY NEGRO AS ATTACKER

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 6.—Three Washington women yesterday positively identified Russell Thomas, aged 20, of Monongahela as the Negro who had insulted them on the streets of Washington. Thomas' arrest occurred in connection with a campaign started by District Attorney Warren S. Burchinal to arrest all such offenders when the probe into the brutal killing of Thelma Young, aged 17, last Thursday night disclosed serious conditions.

The prisoner was placed in a standing with other Negroes at the county jail, and the three women unhesitatingly picked him out of the group.

Thomas was an inmate of the Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza at one time, and also served 18 months in the Allegheny County Workhouse for such acts.

Fred Drew, Negro, aged 20, first arrested as a suspect in the Young murder, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Alderman J. F. Carmichael on a charge of immorality while a student at Trinity High School.

BROOCH CLUE FAILS

Relatives of Thelma Young, who was murdered last Thursday near Washington, Pa., early today failed to identify a bloody brooch found in an abandoned automobile in Sharpsburg, thus blasting the hopes of county detectives that it might be a clue to the murderer of the young woman. Romaine Young, sister of the murdered girl, was at the county detective bureau last midnight and said she had never seen the jewelry before.

The brooch and a blood-stained hammer were found in an automobile that was abandoned New Year's Eve in Sharpsburg. A young man was seen sleeping in the machine, when it was first noticed and he told police he was waiting for daylight to make repairs. The machine bore a Maryland license plate and efforts are being made to determine the ownership.

Relatives of the murdered girl told authorities that they believed she had been wearing several pieces of jewelry, when last seen. When the report was made yesterday of the find in Sharpsburg, police connected the two cases.

An Old Recipe to Darken Hair

By JANICE RANDALL

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

POISON VICTIM RECOVERING

Walter Ziekus, 8, of South Eighteenth street, who was found unconscious in his home last night, suffering from the effects of poison, was reported to be recovering today in the South Side Hospital.

The father told police the boy had accidentally secured the bottle of poison, and it was not until three hours later that it was discovered he had swallowed some of the contents.

FOSTER MUSIC PROGRAM TO BE GIVEN JANUARY 13

A program of Stephen Collins Foster music will be given by the Tuesday Musical Club on the sixty-fourth anniversary of his death, January 13. The concert will be given in Carnegie Music Hall and will be free to the public. Charles Heinroth and the Club Choral of 80 voices will participate.

MARINES, WARSHIPS -:- RUSH -:- TO NICARAGUA

Brig. Gen. Feland

COL. GULICK

Col. Louis Mason Gulick is in command of the marines now in Nicaragua. Brig. Gen. Logan Feland, shown in the insert, will have charge of the entire American force in Nicaragua when he arrives there with 1,000 reinforcements.

MAJOR ROWELL

Major Ross E. Rowell, of the Marine Corps aviation forces, has already proven the mettle of his men. Defying anti-aircraft guns, Rowells' flyers swooped down on Gen. Sandino's rebel camp, inflicting heavy losses.

WARSHIPS ALREADY ON WAY

Fighting craft of the U. S. Navy are already on their way to Nicaraguan waters. Destroyers, battleships and mine layers have been ordered into active duty off the southern republic's coast. The battleship Oregon, at right, and the mine layer Shawmutt, are shown as they haul anchor preparatory to leaving for the trouble zone. Below the ships is a photograph of the U. S. Marine camp at La Paz, from where the marines maintain their guard of important railroad trackage.

PENN TOWNSHIP ANNEXATION APPEALED

Annexation of a portion of Penn township to Pittsburgh was contested in an appeal filed yesterday in Quarter Sessions Court—from the ordinance passed by Council December 27 and approved by Mayor Charles H. Kline December 29, annexing the territory. The appeal was filed by William T. Cleland, M. Stewart Felmley, Louis A. Snyder and H. W. Humphrey, electors.

The annexation would have become conclusive, unless it had been appealed from within 10 days. Judge James R. Macfarlane signed an order directing City Clerk Robert Clark to certify all papers and proceedings to court. A hearing will be held January 17.

The appeal alleged that the annexation was illegal, stating that at an election in a larger area of Penn township, including the area subsequently annexed, the proposition to annex was defeated.

The petition for annexation was declared defective, chiefly for these reasons: All signatures were not in the proper handwriting of the persons purporting to sign; a great number signed without being fully informed as to the extent of the township area involved; the annexation petitions circulated did not contain a proper description of the area; the annexation petition did not contain the signatures of three-fifths of the taxables of the area, as required by law.

INVOKES OLD LAW FOR SUPPORT OF CHILDREN

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., Jan. 6.—An ancient and almost forgotten law has been invoked by Justice of the Peace S. K. Hunger, of Vandergrift, in filing informations against two Truxall men, Calvin Ridenour and James Ellwood, charging them with non-support of their grandchildren. According to an act of 18[illegible], grandparents are responsible for the support of their grandchildren if the father fails in his duty.

LEAGUE DEMANDS IMPARTIAL AUDIT

Resolutions asking the county commissioners to see that the proposed audit of county books be impartial and be conducted by a firm of accountants free from political influence, were adopted yesterday at a meeting of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, presided over by Mrs. R. Templeton Smith.

Speakers explained that an audit of the controller's books alone would not be sufficient, and they included in the resolution the demand that the audit include all the county offices, particularly those of the sheriff and treasurer. Forty leaders of the league were present at the meeting. It was pointed out that the public had been led to believe that contracts for the work would be open to bids by responsible firms, and they demanded that the contract be let on a competitive basis.

COUNTY TO PAY BY CHECK

County employes are to be paid by check in the future, Treasurer John Francies announced yesterday in making the first change in office since his installation last week. The change is to eliminate the danger of the paymaster making his rounds carrying cash and the chance of loss in handling large sums.

The first of the checks, those for employes of the fee offices, will be distributed today by County Paymaster R. S. Cain and as soon as possible the check system will be extended to all other county offices.

REM for coughs

the Doctor says:

Don't dope YOUR Cough

It is not wise to use remedies which depend upon "dope" such as narcotics, chloroform, cannabis or tar products. They may stop your cough temporarily by numbing the tissues, as most cough mixtures do, but this is not enough.

The inflamed air passages must be soothed naturally, the germ-laden mucus loosened and expelled in order to effect a lasting recovery. PERTUSSIN assists Nature to accomplish these results in a remarkably short time—and it is absolutely harmless.

Sold by all druggists in large and small bottles

PERTUSSIN Safe for Every Cough

William R. Rankin, late of Wilkinsburg, disposes of an estate estimated at $100,000, according to his will filed for probate today. He directs that George Rankin, Jr., be the trustee of three trust funds, one of $20,000, the income of which is to be paid to his mother, Catherine Rankin, during her life and at death to be distributed to the testator's two children in equal shares. The sum of $10,000 is placed in trust for the benefit of the testator's son, William Rankin, who is to receive the income for his maintenance and education until he reaches the age of 25 years, when he is to receive the principal. A trust fund of $10,000 is also established for the benefit of the testator's daughter, Geraldine Rankin, to have the income until she is 25 years old, when she will receive the principal. The residue of the estate, real and personal, is left to the widow.

CANADA DENIES APPEAL OF WOMAN STRANGLER

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 6—An application by California friends of Earle Nelson of San Francisco, sentenced to be hanged on January 12 at Winnipeg for the strangling of two women, to have a sanity commission examine the prisoner has been refused by the Department of Justice.

DONORA MILLS HAVE PLENTY OF WORK

DONORA, Pa., Jan. 6.—Local mills of the American Steel and Wire Company, Donora's chief industry, have sufficient orders on hand to insure fairly steady operation for months, officials say.

Why Razz Navy It's a Mourner, Will Asks

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 6.—Everybody is hopping onto the Navy as though they purposely had the submarine sunk. They blame the Navy for the bad weather, they blame the Navy for having a submarine in the water at all.

WILL ROGERS

The Mississippi flood happened last year, and nothing has been done about it yet by Congress. Yet, if a boat sinks they think the Navy ought to have it lifted to the surface by daylight.

Don't you suppose the Navy feels worse about it than we do—why pick on a mourner.

We would rather see it not investigated, then the causes will be remedied. But anything that is ever investigated, nothing is ever done about it.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

BOROUGH HEADS HIT RUM CASE AS FRAMEUP

Frank W. Fair, Frank Terasi and William Harris, police committee of the Sharpsburg Borough Council, accused of "salvaging" 76 quart bottles of confiscated whisky from the borough police station, characterized their arrest as a "frame-up" by Police Lieut. Rocco Belsito, in retaliation for failure to re-elect him at Monday night's meeting of the Borough Council.

Fair, chairman of the committee, pointed out that the acts set forth in an affidavit by Lieut. Belsito, were alleged to have occurred nearly 10 months ago, and inquired why the police officer waited so long before reporting to the Federal authorities. The complaint, filed before the United States commissioner by Joseph A. Frayne, assistant prohibition administrator in charge of prohibition enforcement, was based on Lieut. Belsito's affidavit and charged conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

The three defendants voluntarily appeared before the commissioner before the complaint actually had been signed, and offered bond. They remained until after the signing of the complaint, and then furnished bonds of $1,000 each for appearance January 12 for a hearing.

AIR CELEBRITIES INVITED HERE

This year's military ball of the Aero Club of Pittsburgh will be the biggest in its seven years' history, according to plans formulated by Capt. Thomas S. Voss, general chairman of the ball committee, and Lieut. Col. James M. Magee, chairman patrons' committee.

Several aviation celebrities, including Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the Army Air Service, and Lieut. Lester J. Maitland, pilot of the first airplane to fly from the United States to Hawaii, have been invited.

The ball will be held in William Penn Hotel ball room Friday, February 3. Plans are being made to entertain 2,000 persons.

DRY AGENTS GET BEER TANKS

Four 300-gallon tanks of beer and two pressure tanks were seized by prohibition agents who assisted Constable W. O. Finley in a raid last night on a residence at 619 Suffolk street, North Side. Otto Wenzel, 34, of the same address, was arrested.

Prohibition agents arrested Mrs. Mary McNeal, 67, of Glenshaw yesterday when they seized three 300-gallon tanks and malt in an outbuilding on her property. She said she leased the building to two men.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS IN STREET, MAN DIES

Paul Lankowicz, 47, of 3455 Penn avenue, found unconscious by police at Thirty-second street and Penn avenue last Monday evening, died this morning in West Penn hospital. Police reported Lankowicz had been drinking.

NICARAGUANS WELCOME LINDY, AMAZED AT YOUTH

FORGET REBELS TO GREET AIR ENVOY

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 6—(AP.)—Nicaraguans from peon to president, today took delight in honoring the Lone Eagle. They were amazed above all else at the youth of the air adventurer.

Soon after he had seen Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, President Adolfo Diaz said he "had no idea he would prove so young."

Many aged Nicaraguans shook hands with the flier. They were visibly affected by the meeting. "Que lindo muchacho y que joven"—"what a fine looking boy and so young"—was the general murmur.

Lindbergh's trip of more than 165 miles from Tegucigalpa, Honduras, was made against a hard wind. The flier said that conditions were perfect and the headwind did not bother him.

SKIRTS TROUBLE ZONE

Lindbergh did not follow the airline between the two cities, going instead by way of Leon. He did this in order to avoid any possibility of passing over the territory in the northwest where six marines were killed in battle against the rebel Gen. Augustino Sandino. In that section quiet prevailed today.

The recent fighting and the bombing of rebels by marine corps planes did not dampen the ardor of those who came to join with Managua in honoring the Ambassador of Good Will. All idea of revolution and politics was laid aside and one main item on Lindbergh's program today was a dinner in his honor by Gen. Emiliano Chamorra, whom the United States refused to recognize as a presidential aspirant.

Before the Spirit of St. Louis touched the ground, Lindbergh had learned that he was welcome. As he circled about, getting the feel of the ground for a landing, he saw the great air field of more than 100 acres beneath him marked with flags and banners and beautifully decorated. A huge sign in block letters stood out clearly: It read, "Republica De Nicaragua Bienvenido"—"Welcome to the Republic of Nicaragua."

SENORITAS RUSH LINDY

The crowd burst into cheers as the Spirit of St. Louis appeared. The shout, "There he comes," was picked up by all the small children who scurried about the field or tugged to get away from their parents. Modishly gowned senoritas forgot the dust of the sun-baked field and their fine clothes as they joined in the sprint to be near the plane when it landed.

The Spirit of St. Louis landed gracefully, the Nicaraguan band played "The Star-Spangled Banner," and as the familiar cry of "Viva Lindbergh" rose it was evident that another Central American country had taken this tall, smiling youth into its heart.

"FOX'S" ATTORNEY ON HUNT FOR ACCOMPLICE

COSTELLA WILL LOSE COUNTY POSITION

Col. James L. Costella, deputy county treasurer under Samuel D. Foster, will not continue that position under Treasurer John Francies. Costella, it was said today, did not apply for re-appointment, withholding his application when he received positive information that Francies would not re-appoint him. According to stories today, Costella is to be given another county position.

The former deputy treasurer is defendant in a case started by former Controller C. C. McGovern, who charged fraudulent entries against him in connection with the apparently non-existent "Nat Brown," who was listed as being on the payroll on the treasurer's office.

ARE YOU a "TOXIC"

—then the Break-down!

No warning except perhaps a persistent tiredness—then a sudden breakdown and an "old man" overnight! That is the fate of many men today who live at the twentieth century pace. One of the results of the killing pace is a weakening of the vital organs, especially the liver. The liver, "laying down," fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. Then an insidious poisoning of the system—toxemia—and a general undermining of health, with high blood pressure, kidney trouble, hardening of the arteries and premature old age.

If you would keep in A1 condition, physicians say keep the liver vigorous and active. Nothing better for this than a little ox gall. As the medical profession knows, ox gall is a remarkable natural stimulant for the liver, building up its strength and activity. The genuine pure ox gall is to be had in dainty and tasteless form in Dioxol tablets. Each tablet represents 10 drops of pure ox gall and costs less than 2c each, at good druggists. Be sure you get Dioxol, with the name and picture of an ox's head on the package.

NETLEY LUCAS MAY CHURCHILL

"Chicago May" Churchill, for 20 years known as the most notorious blackmailer on two continents, is shown with Netley N. Lucas, young crime expert and former confidential agent for the British government. His recent book, "Ladies of the Underworld," was inspired by the woman's career, which included four prison terms, and which brought many titled heads of European royalty under the influence of her blackmailing schemes. But now she wants the peace and quietude of domesticity and wifehood. They are to be married soon and start on a tour of the country.

GAS VICTIM IDENTIFIED AS CONNEAUTVILLE GIRL

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 6.—(AP.)—The body of a girl asphyxiated by gas as she slept in her rooming house here was identified as that of Helen Spisak, 19, Conneautville, Pa. The body had lain in the morgue until her cousin, Elizabeth Yohman, Cleveland, identified it. Police refused to allow seven others sickened by the gas to return to their quarters until the leak could be discovered.

DENY HICKMAN KILLED TWO

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 6.—The question of whether William Edward Hickman had an accomplice in the kidnaping and brutal murder of 12-year-old Marian Parker engaged the attention of Jerome Walsh, of Kansas City, attorney for "The Fox," today.

This was pursuant to Walsh's announcement that he would investigate the matter, which had been regarded as settled by Hickman's confession that he played a lone hand in the abduction and killing of the Los Angeles school girl.

Walsh's independent probe of the accomplice angle of the Hickman case is believed to have been prompted by Hickman's confession to participation in the holdup of a Los Angeles drug store, which resulted in the shooting to death of C. Ivy Thoms. Welby Hunt, implicated in the holdup by Hickman's confession has admitted his part in the fatal robbery.

Following their indictment on murder charges yesterday, both youths appeared in Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy's court for arraignment.

Hickman entered two pleas, "not guilty," and "not guilty by reason of insanity," the latter being the same plea he entered to the charge of kidnaping and murdering Marian Parker. Hunt was given until January 10 to plea.

Efforts on the part of A. Gray Gilmer of Oklahoma City, Hunt's attorney, to have his client's case transferred to the Juvenile Court, failed when Juvenile Court Judge Scott ruled that the case did not fall under the jurisdiction of his court.

While admitting his part in the holdup on Christmas eve, 1926, Hunt has steadfastly maintained that he did not fire a shot in the drug store. Hickman, on the other hand, asserts that the bullet which spelled death for Thoms was one from the revolver Hunt was using during the robbery.

To satisfy formal requirements, Judge Hardy set the date of Hickman's trial on the second murder charge for February 1. "The Fox" will be tried for the kidnaping and murder of the Parker girl on January 25.

"Hoot Gibson" to Take Chance In Vaudeville, Supported by Sombrero, Horse and Quartet

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6.

"HOOT" GIBSON, the pride and joy of every small-town exhibitor, is about to go into vaudeville. Mr. Gibson feels his public will enjoy a glimpse of him and his horse, "Hell Maria." Perhaps he is right. I know at every movie convention the calls for "Hoot" have been loud and furious.

In making his plans to tour the country on the Orpheum circuit for three months, Mr. Gibson has arranged not only for "Hell Maria" to accompany him, but for a quartet of Hawaiian players to be a part of his act. This quartet is the one that plays soft music while he emotes before the camera.

The sombrero, the chaps and all the cowboy paraphernalia will naturally be featured along with "Hoot's" activities. Perhaps it is right that they should be specialized, for they accompany him into the first run houses, where his last feature, released through Universal, will be shown.

"It's an ill wind that blows nobody good." If Percy Marmont hadn't decided to have his hair cut in Jim's Beauty Parlor and I hadn't decided to have a shampoo there, we might not have met. Percy is one of America's most popular English actors and is conspicuous in the beauty parlor because he was the only man present. Frenchy, who was shampooing me, was so busy watching him that she forgot and gave me an extra dose of soap. Calling between the partitions in the beauty parlor, Mr. Marmont told me that he is leaving for London in two weeks to make a series of pictures for the Gotham Productions. You are right, it is an American concern. But England these days seems to be popular as a production center with many of our American producers.

Mary Nolan, better known (thus far) as Imogene Wilson, has convinced Universal that she is not only beautiful but a capable screen actress. As a result of her work opposite Norman Kerry in "The Foreign Legion," Universal has renewed her contract. She is now Reginald Denny's leading woman in "Be Yourself." Miss Nolan was imported to this country from Germany by John Considine, Jr., United Artists production manager. She made one picture for that company when Herbert Brenon cast her as the feminine lead in "Sorrell and Son." Her contract with U. A. expired shortly after the completion of this film and she subsequently removed her make-up box to the Universal lot, where it is quite apparent she will remain for an indefinite stay.

Keep an eye on Maurice Murphy. Maurice is the lad who first attracted attention as the young Beau Geste in the picture of that title. He has again covered himself with glory as Little Pete in "The Shepherd of The Hills," giving not only one of the outstanding performances in the picture, but one of the best child characterizations of the year.

Janet Gaynor is preparing to pack her bags and return to Hollywood after holidaying with relatives in Macon, Ga. She is scheduled to begin work immediately upon her arrival in F. W. Murnau's new Fox production, "The Four Devils," playing part of the title with Charles Morton, Nancy Drexel and Barry Norton, the rest of the mathematical equation. Her trip South marked Miss Gaynor's first real vacation in almost a year, during which time she played in Mr. Murnau's "Sunrise," "Seventh Heaven" and "Lady Christilinda," another Frank Borzage picture in which she again shared stellar honors with Charles Farrell.

Meet Kathryn Landy. No, she isn't a newcomer to the screen. She is no other than Kathryn McGuire, whom, as you may remember, James Montgomery Flagg named as the most beautiful blonde in Hollywood. Three months ago she married George Landy, publicity director for First National, and liked the name of Landy so well she decided to use it professionally as well as in private life. This is a decided innovation as in these days of feminine independence most girls prefer to keep their maiden names, even after marriage. Here's to a happy and successful New Year for Kathryn Landy!

Among the amusing sights that marked the New Year: Gloria Swanson and her husband, Hank; Conrad Nagel, Johnny Hines, Raoul Walsh, Clara Bow and Bebe Daniels at a hot dog stand in front of the Rose Bowl, munching hot dogs and arguing with the vender over the exorbitant price of 15 cents. "One-Eyed" Connolly, world-famous gate crasher, attempted to crash the gate at Paramount and failing. A gate-crasher is not so unique around a movie studio. Thelma Todd starting the new year off right by paying her 1927 shoe-shining bill to Oscar, the bootblack at Paramount—(Total 30 cents).

Player Folk -:- Associated With -:- Future Shows

HOLBROOK BLINN bestows his artistry on "The Play's the Thing," which is to hold forth in the Pitt next week.

FRANCINE LARRIMORE comes to the Alvin January 9 in "Chicago," a lively play which has to do with our jazz age.

MRS. HOWARD THURSTON, wife of Thurston, the magician, who is headed this way, supervises the costuming and properties of the production.

ERNEST TORRENCE plays the role of Peter in "King of Kings," Biblical photoplay in the Nixon, which is to reman a second week.

Blinn, Larrimore In Play Bill of Next Week

Opening Monday for a week's engagement, with matinees Thursday and Saturday, Holbrook Blinn and his company come to the Pitt in "The Play's the Thing," a comedy by Ferenc Molnar, author of "The Swan," "Liliom" and other successes. Comprising Mr. Blinn's company are Martha Lorber, Hubert Druce, Gavin Muir, Harry Mestayer, Claud Allister, Wilson Reynolds and Kirby Hawkes.

Jacqueline Logan plays Mary Magdalene in Cecil B. DeMille's film tale of Christ, "King of Kings," which begins its second and last week in the Nixon with a matinee Monday, January 9. There are two performances daily, 2:20 and 8:20 p. m.

"Chicago," a satirical comedy, opens Monday, January 9, in the Alvin for a run of a week. Francine Larrimore appears as Roxie Hart, a pretty woman who "gets away with murder" in "Chicago."

Bob Hall, monologist, is coming to the Davis next week to contribute to the program of Keith-Albee vaudeville.

PHILHARMONIC GIVES CONCERT HERE TONIGHT

Willem Mengelberg, Dutch orchestra conductor, will appear tonight and tomorrow afternoon in the Syria Mosque, leading the New York Philharmonic Orchestra in the fourth pair of concerts, under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Orchestra Association. Mr. Mengelberg will return to Holland next week to take charge of his Concertgebouw Orchestra in Amsterdam.

Gary Cooper Gets Leading Role in "Lilac Time"

Enough film to make three feature-length motion pictures has been utilized in making tests of prospective players for "Lilac Time," Colleen Moore's new First National picture.

Twenty thousand feet were required to photograph more than a hundred players thus far by George Fitzmaurice, who is to direct the production—and there will be still others.

Carey Wilson scenarized this Jane Cowl stage success which was adapted by Willis Goldbeck. It calls for a big cast and the making of tests is in keeping with the policy of Fitzmaurice and John McCormick, producer of Miss Moore's pictures.

Thus far, however, the only supporting member of the cast named is Gary Cooper, and he will be seen as a young British ace. Miss Moore will be seen as the quaint and charming little daughter of a French family of middle-class farmers.

SIX ACTS ARE BOOKED FOR FLOOR IN SANDERS

Sanders', on the Freeport highway, Aspinwall, is to present six complete acts in a floor show Saturday night. In addition the Golden Gate Orchestra, making its initial Pittsburgh appearance, is booked to play for the dancers and entertainers Saturday night. There will be song and dance acts, impersonations, bits from current musical comedy shows and other diversions.

DIVORCE BILL ALLEGES BAD THROWING HABIT

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Jan. 6.—Claiming that his wife, Florence, hurled a chair, dishes, chinaware and a stove lifter at him, Frank C. Green filed suit for divorce.

Lois Moran Grows Green Roses In Garden

Lois Moran may realize fame in another field than motion pictures. In the garden of her Los Angeles home, the youthful Fox actress has been experimenting for months with a green rose. Through a system of grafting and forced shade-growth, she has produced a blossom that is attracting wide attention.

The rose is not yet perfectly formed, but there is reason for much confidence that it will be. The petals are a livid green with leaves and stem of a darker green hue. It is a development of the primitive type of flower. Some friends suggested it be given a name, but Lois has decided to wait until she is satisfied with her efforts before doing this.

MONONGAHELA GAINS 40 PER CENT IN POPULATION

MONONGAHELA, Pa., Jan. 6.—Monongahela now boasts a population of 12,163, an increase of 40 per cent in eight years, census statistics reveal. The greater Monongahela district has 20,000.

REPORT MOORE NAMED STEEL OFFICIAL

The New York News Bureau published today a rumor that Alexander P. Moore, former ambassador to Spain, had been elected vice president of the Pittsburgh Steel Products Company. It added: "In the absence of Homer Williams, president of the company, the report cannot be officially confirmed, although there is little reason to doubt its authenticity."

W. S. Linderman, president of the Duquesne National Bank, a director of the Pittsburgh Steel Company, of which the steel products company is a subsidiary, said, when questioned concerning the report: "I am sure it is incorrect. They have got the wrong company. But you should see Mr. Williams or his secretary about it."

Mr. Williams' secretary would neither confirm nor deny the story. He professed to know nothing about the matter. He would not tell where Mr. Williams is, and refused to transmit a message to him, declaring: "I would not disturb him for anything less than a life-and-death matter."

The secretary did say, however, that Mr. Williams was out of town and would return next week.

Mr. Moore is in New York.

THEATER ROOF FALLS; 22 HURT

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—Building inspectors and city officials began an investigation today of a theater collapse in Brooklyn last night in which 22 persons were injured. A section of heavy plaster fell 75 feet from the roof of the Kingsway Theater into the crowded orchestra pit. Three patrons were injured painfully.

A panic ensued when the pieces of plaster, about six feet square, smashed down into the dimly lighted theater. Screams rent the air and the 2,500 persons in the audience rushed for the exits.

Joseph Hanley, manager of the theater, turned on the lights and calmed the crowd. After the injured were removed, most of the patrons returned and saw the remainder of the show.

Police reserves dispersed a large crowd which gathered outside the theater.

FIRE MENACES BEAVERDALE

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 6—Fire breaking out in Abe Krantzler's clothing store at Beaverdale late yesterday threatened to wipe out the entire business block on Main street. The damage amounted to $100,000. Water plugs were frozen and the flames were fanned by a high wind. Much excitement prevailed and state police and special coal company police were called to keep spectators from interfering with the firemen.

Firemen ran hose lines to a creek half a mile away to get water.

The Cuppy Grocery and the Valley Hardware and Supply Company stores were destroyed. Three other stores, a barber shop and a shoemaker's shop were damaged. Two families were rendered homeless. A number of petty thefts occurred during the fire.

FIGHT LOOMS IN SENATE ON ESCH APPOINTMENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—A bitter fight over the confirmation of John J. Esch of Wisconsin for renomination as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission will be waged in the Senate. Esch was one of the authors of the present transportation act and was chairman of the commission during the last year. His reappointment is being fought by Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, and representatives of Southern bituminous coal producing states.

KIN WHO COULDN'T BURY WOMAN OUT $837 ESTATE

DOVER, O., Jan. 6—Relatives who pleaded inability to bury Mrs. Mamie Hummell, 50, will not be permitted to claim $837 in dollar bills found in a suitcase in the woman's apartment after her death. She was believed penniless and the city was asked to bury her. Judge J. M. Lanneck will appoint an administrator to dispose of the money.

GIRL, ACCUSED AS RUNAWAY, FREED

Weary of wandering, Ella Eicher, 18, McKeesport High School girl, who recited a strange tale of abduction after being found unconscious at Friendship and Millvale avenues, December 20, wants to go back to school and be graduated.

Miss Eicher so told Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court today. A charge of being a runaway was dismissed and she was turned over to her aunt, Mrs. M. H. Eicher, 3009 Atcheson street, McKeesport.

Modishly attired, the girl, who was discharged from the West Penn Hospital yesterday, gave little evidence of the troubles she said she encountered. Despite a searching quiz by Magistrate Brandon the girl stuck to her story of having been lured away last September 6 by two men who took her in an automobile to Akron where she says she was held captive until December 19. Her memory was hazy on many details.

SNATCH 6 TOTS FROM FLAMES

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Jan. 6.—Aroused by the crying of the children, Ignatz Gleba, 35, rescued his wife and six children, when fire destroyed their two-story frame dwelling in East Kensington at 2:45 o'clock this morning. Escape down the stairway cut off by smoke and flame, Gleba marshaled his family in the front bedroom, then slid down a porch column and got a ladder, which he placed against the porch roof and assisted his family down. The family consists of Gelba, his wife Pauline, 21; Stella, 13; Edward, 12; Frank, 9; Jennie, 8, and Henry and Mary twins, 5.

The family lost all their possessions and were cared for in the home of Tony Marsh, a neighbor, while Joe Gleba, brother, furnished clothing. The damage amounted to $3,000, partly covered by insurance.

Pat and Lily Talk Over Their Wedding Plans With Mrs. France

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Lily Lexington is the spoiled and only daughter of the Cyrus Lexingtons, who have always lived far beyond their means. She realizes her highest ambition when she becomes engaged to Staley Drummond, a rich bachelor older than herself. Downtown to meet her chum, Sue Cain, she is attracted by Pat France, a taxi driver. She asks him to drive her home. On the way she learns that he is cab-driving to raise money to finance a new kind of piston ring he has invented. Pat tells her that he is selling the cab to raise money for the piston ring, and she miserably wonders how she'll see him after that. Staley tells her the age-difference between them doesn't matter and tenderly kisses her. Lily realizes that she hates his love-making. Mrs. Lexington announces the engagement just as Lily's made up her mind to tell Staley that she doesn't want to marry him, and she feels like a mouse in a trap—helpless. The Lexingtons get a chauffeur, who turns out to be Pat. Lily confesses to her mother she loves him and leaves home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

PAT told her in his simple, straightforward way. "I've quit my job, and Lily's made up her mind to marry me—tomorrow," he said, as quietly as if he were reading a weather report in a newspaper.

Mrs. France hung her towel over a hook, and turned to the table that was covered with pans and spice tins and flour. "Well!" she cried, breathlessly. She was frowning in a puzzled yay, as if it were hard for her to take all this in. "Now, then, let me get this straight—is Miss Lexington going to marry you? Pat, you told me she was engaged to another man, and that newspaper clipping up in your room says she's going to marry another man. It even tells his name—"

"Yes, it does," Pat agreed with her. "But she's made up her mind to marry me instead. I think she's crazy to do it"—he grinned at Lily with affection as he said that—"but she says she's going to wait until tomorrow to be sure she really wants to do it."

His mother shot a curious look at Lily, who smiled back at her from under her pink-and-orchid hat that had been bought for Staley Drummond's bride.

"Aren't you sure you want to marry Pat now?" she asked, sharply, and Lily nodded.

"I'm sure as can be," she said, and felt Pat's arm go around her as she said it. "But Pat's never been sure of me, and my mother thinks I don't know what I'm doing, too. So I've promised both of them that I would wait until tomorrow before I go with Pat for a license."

Mrs. France began to cut a fluffy white mound of biscuit dough into strips and squares. "Well, I was going to say that if you weren't sure of yourself you'd better go back home," she remarked, with a nod of her head. "Getting married is nothing to shilly-shally about! It's something you either ought to want to do with all your heart, or something you ought not to do at all. There are no ifs and ands about getting married. . . . This surely is a surprise to me!"

And as if she suddenly realized just how surprising it was, she sat down suddenly on a wooden chair behind her, holding a piece of fluffy dough in her hands. She shook her head, staring at the pair of them.

"I hope you both know your own minds," she said after a few seconds. "Pat, you've been going 'round with that Ertz girl for a long time, and you've liked her pretty well—and Miss Lexington cared enough for that other young man to promise to marry him. I wonder if you really like each other as much as you think you do—you two."

Lily nodded her head at her. "We've talked all that over—dozens of times," she answered, calmly. "Pat and I have argued this thing back and forth for a long time — I know he once thought a great deal about the Ertz girl, and he knows I still like the man I thought I could marry a while ago. I know he's poor as Job's turkey, and he knows that I'm lazy and selfish and good for nothing, don't you Pat?" She looked up at him, her head, in its wide hat, tilted back against his shoulder.

He only pressed his red-brown, lean cheek against her white one for answer.

"Can you fix up some place for her to sleep tonight, Ma?" he asked. "I'll run over to the garage and see Roy about getting a job, while you two are getting acquainted."

He smiled at them both, his blue eyes twinkling under their heavy straight brows. There was a little shadow of anxiety under that twinkle. He wanted them to like each other, and to understand each other. These two women he loved more than any other human being in his life.

But when he was gone, Lily began to feel chilled and strange in the friendly little house. Silence fell upon her as she followed Mrs. France upstairs to a little bedroom at the back of the house—a little white bedroom, all dotted Swiss curtains and pale-blue ribbons. The furniture was painted white, and it was simple and old-fashioned—a big bed, a wide dresser, a little table, and two chairs.

"This is Florence's room. You can sleep here with her tonight," said Pat's mother. "Now, you just change into something that'll wash and you can come downstairs and help me get lunch."

She trotted down the stairs, and Lily began to look through the suitcase that Pat had brought up for her, for "something that would wash," although she knew perfectly well that the three dresses she had packed were the kind that have to be sent to the dry cleaner's—hand-made, silky things of many pleats and ruffles and bits of delicate embroidery.

The plainest one of the three was a sleeveless yellow crepe-de-chine that buttoned down the front with pearl buttons. She slipped into it and started down the stairs.

As she passed the open door of the room next to her she saw a picture of herself tucked into the mirror of the chiffonier—a newspaper clipping. The one that told of her engagement to Staley Drummond.

She remembered how she had torn up the clipping that he had had in the cab that long-ago day when the story had been printed. . . . He must have bought another newspaper afterward and kept this piece from it!

"He cared for me, even then, just as I did for him—and I didn't know it," she said to herself. "How close we came to spoiling both of our perfectly good lives!"

On the top of the chiffonier were Pat's military brushes and a tin of pomade for his dark, unruly hair, that never lay smooth and shiny, no matter how much he brushed it. Beside these things was a package of cigarets and a box of matches.

When Lily opened the door of the kitchen a second later she had a lighted cigaret between her beautiful, painted lips, and carried the package in her hand.

She sat down on a chair just inside the door, crossing her slender legs in their pale yellow stockings and blowing clouds of blue-gray smoke towards the ceiling.

"Let's see," she said, musingly. "I suppose I ought to call up Sue Cain and ask her to come to my wedding. She's my best friend."

Mrs. France opened the oven door and took out a pan of the biscuits, golden brown and shining with butter. She set them on the top of the "hot closet" of the big white-enamel stove, and put a pan of unbaked ones into the oven.

"Is that the Sue Cain who rides so much?" she asked, giving Lily and the cigaret smoke-clouds a look that Lily did not see. "I often notice her name in the paper."

"Yes, that's the Sue Cain," answered the girl, absently. She was wondering how Sue Cain would take this marriage of hers . . . Would she still be her best friend, or would she think that she ought to be loyal to Staley and drop her? . . . Sue's Jack and Staley were great friends.

Quick footsteps came around the house and Pat opened the screen door.

"Well, I'm all set!" he announced, tossing his hat up on the hooks beside the door. "Roy's given me a job in the garage—and he and Sadye are going to stand up with us when we're married. They're going to give us a little blow-out at their house tonight, too. Isn't that kind of them? They're the salt of the earth, Lily."

"Yes, they're very nice people," his mother said quietly. "But Mrs. Jetterson wears her skirts too short. It doesn't look right for a grown woman to show that much of her body—she wears them almost to her knees."

She glanced at Lily's skirt that was just above hers, as she looked in the kitchen chair. But Lily did

MARLAND TO WED FOSTER CHILD

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(AP.)—The Romance of a 53-year-old oil magnate and his 28-year-old ward was disclosed today with announcement that they would marry within a month.

E. W. Marland, president of the Marland Oil Company, and one of the wealthiest oil men of the southwest, adopted Lydia Miller Roberts when she was 16 years old. At the same time he and his wife adopted her brother, George, three years younger. His wife died in June, 1926.

It was the devotion of his foster-daughter after the death of his wife, said Mr. Marland, that convinced him that he wanted her for his wife.

Word of the approaching marriage, however, came as a surprise to the young woman's mother, Mrs. George F. Roberts of Philadelphia. She refused to discuss details of the adoption of her son and daughter and said she knew nothing of the wedding plans.

Mr. Marland said that the wedding would take place at the bride's Philadelphia home.

Born in Pittsburgh, where he practiced law when he was 21, Mr. Marland soon turned his attention to oil and went to Oklahoma, where he developed extensive interests in the vicinity of Ponca City. From a one-building plant one of his ventures developed to a business valued two years ago at $85,000,000.

Two years ago he commissioned 12 sculptors to submit models for a statue in honor of "The Pioneer Woman," to be erected on a bluff overlooking Ponca City. The design chosen, that of Bryant Baker of New York, depicted a sun-bonneted woman, Bible under her arm, accompanied by her son.

NAB WOMAN AS CHURCH THIEF

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Jan. 6.—Said to have attempted to rob collection boxes in three local churches, Mrs. Catherine Rogers Willoughby, 33, Sewickley, was taken into custody by Police Chief Fred Kirkpatrick. Police were notified that the collection boxes in St. Mary's Church, Beaver Falls, St. Joseph's Church and St. Cyril's Church, here, had been broken open. Probation Officer Cora I. Blackledge telephoned Sewickley police and reported that the woman was a drug addict paroled from the Allegheny County Home at Woodville. She was turned over to Allegheny county authorities.

To Wed Girl He Adopted

ERNEST W. MARLAND

Ernest W. Marland, 53, millionaire Oklahoma oil magnate and a former Pittsburgh attorney, announced that he will, within a month, wed Lydie Miller Roberts, 28, whom he adopted when she was 16. His wife died in June, 1926.

BOY DROWNED SKATING

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., Jan. 6.—Firemen and citizens here are searching the waters of the Bridgeport reservoir for the body of Ellsworth Keefer, 18, who failed to return to the home of his uncle, William Keefer, of Hammondsville last night and it is feared that he was drowned while skating. One of the boy's gloves was found on the bank and this seemed to indicate that he had gone through a hole in thin ice near the spot. The reservoir covers 37 square miles and is from 10 to 15 feet deep.

SAVE THREE CHILDREN, AUNT IN FIRE AT LATROBE

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 6—Police and firemen rescued three small children of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Anton and their aunt trapped by fire on the second story of the Anton home, Ligonier and Chestnut streets, Latrobe. Anton and his wife are visiting relatives in Greece. The building was destroyed.

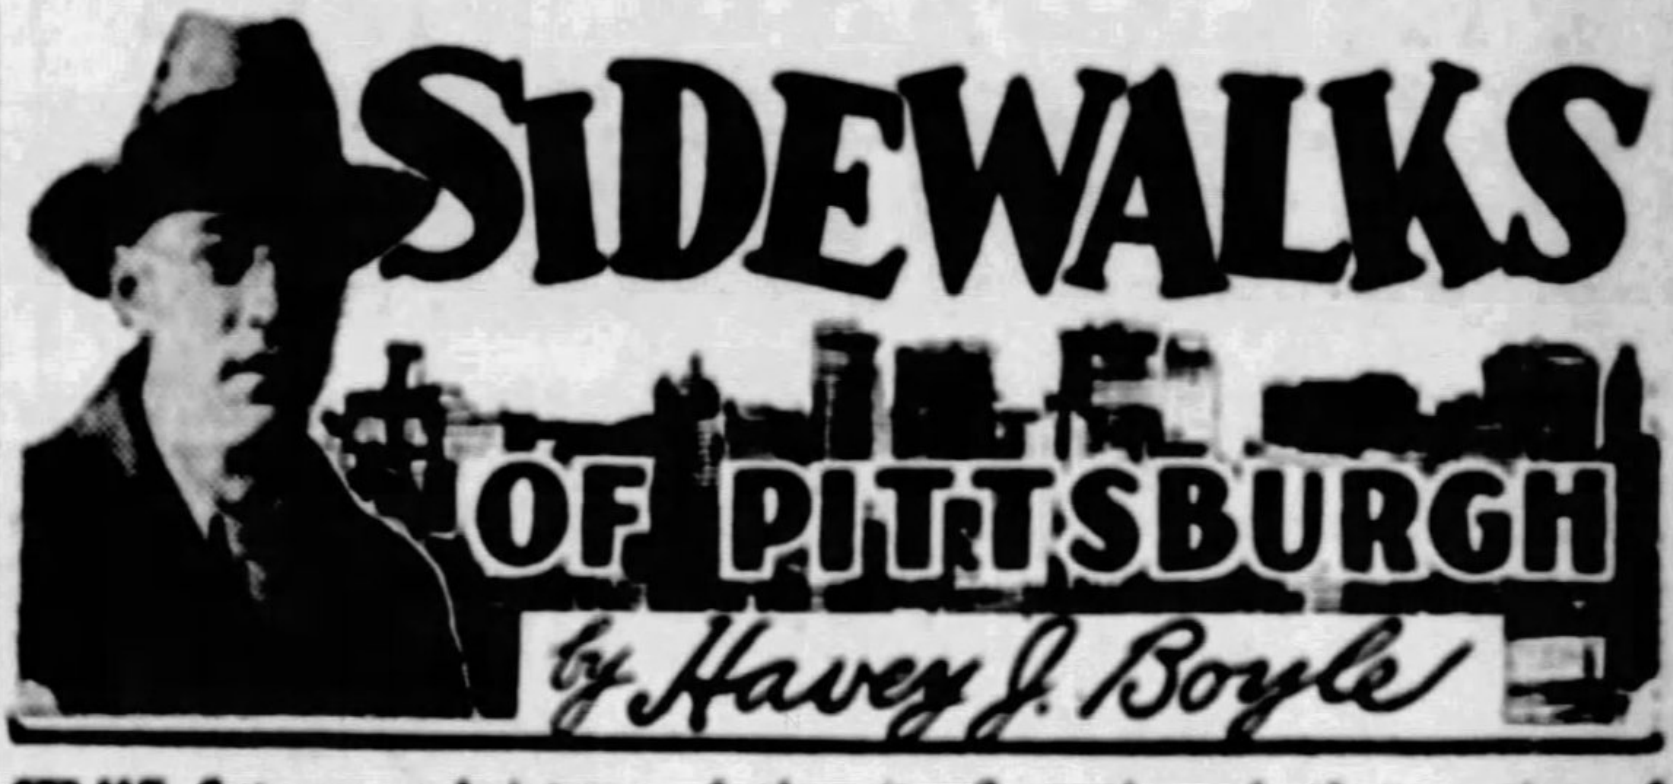
GIRL HE ACCUSED SUES GAMMON

Elizabeth Fair Schablik, known as Betty Fair, filed suit for $50,000 today against Ross L. Gammon, restaurant keeper, by whom she formerly was employed as cashier.

She avers that Gammon had her arrested, confined in a police station, and indicted on the charge that she had stolen $3,000 from him, but that on December 13 she was found not guilty.

She accuses Gammon of having treated her with gross cruelty at the time of her arrest. He tried, she alleges, to extort a confession from her by threats, and called her a "dope" addict and had her stripped and her body examined for evidence of the habit. Another charge is that Gammon tried to obtain $3,000 from her by promising to drop the prosecution if she would deliver the money to him.

Miss Fair declares she suffered intense mental pain and anguish, and that her reputation was damaged by Gammon's accusations, which she says are false and malicious.



SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by Havey J. Boyle

THE flotsam and jetsam of the city float through that section of Grant street between First and Second avenues. The district is spotted with cheap restaurants, cheap lodging houses and labor agencies. Through this section move the permanent down and outers, the temporary backsliders from a safe economic scheme, and the remnants of bodies that were sound until booze took its toll. A small band of miserables of a new league of nations and races could be recruited from these shuffling figures. Such signs as "Beef stew, five cents," "Coffee, three cents," and "Lodging, 25 cents a Night," tell eloquently of the economic state of the blue nosed, red-handed, and insufficiently dressed wanderers who move back and forth. They look upon the world that passes with a disinterested attitude. For them the colorful pageantry of life is nothing but a field of gray.

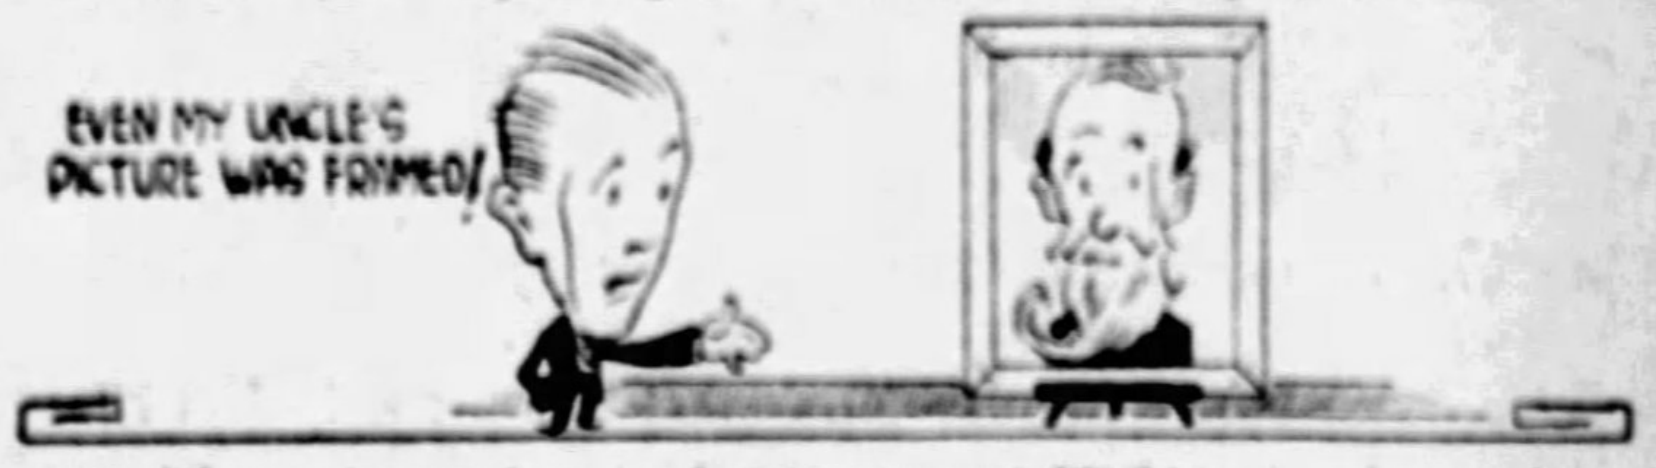
At the present time Milt is interested in improving the citizens of our city in the art of terpsichore, operating a downtown establishment where the blades of the day go into a huddle with the flappers. Milt has original and unorthodox views on nearly everything. It is his pet theory, for instance, that everything in the world of sports is "in the bag," except wrestling.



EVEN MY UNCLE'S PICTURE WAS FRAMED!

IT WAS Milt Crandall who a few years ago in collaboration with Harry Grelle sold "Mickey" to the city. Until Mr. Grelle purchased the rights of "Mickey" the picture was considered by the movie men as a flop. Milt took off his coat, gave his belt a hitch, and before long Pittsburghers were eating "Mickey" sundaes, singing "Mickey," listening to proclamations about "Mickey" from state and city officials, and watching parades, featuring a girl dressed as Mickey. The picture, which at first was considered a flop, grossed $400,000 in this territory.

"SPEAKING of naturals, as I believe you were," writes Constant Reader in a letter addressed to Harvey Doyle, "consider the completeness of the appropriate in Spick and Span, tailors and cleaners of Beechview."

M. K. writes from Johnstown: "I agree with you in your Sidewalks of January 1 where you suspect that art leaves most people cold. It does me, although I like grand opera and like to hear Mr. Heinroth's organ recital. When you say Sacred Heart Church is beautiful . . . . . ! The coloring inside gives me a shock. I found it difficult to pray. Perhaps those colors will be eliminated in time."

IN SOME of the big apartment houses tenants are forbidden to keep pets. A woman applicant, asking permission to keep a dog in one of the apartments, was refused. She then asked if she could at least keep her bird. She could. So the next day she startled the whole apartment by walking into the building with an ostrich.

THERE is a pleasant little book in the Pittsburgh stores, just off the press, discussing in minute fashion the various forms of committing suicide. The book stirred a reviewer so much that he recalled the man who first drank carbolic acid, took an overdose of strychnine, and then jumped off a bridge. It was further reported his widow could not get a new mate for three years.

Pat and Lily Talk Over Their Wedding Plans With Mrs. France

not notice her glance. She was looking at Pat and frowning . . . She didn't want to go to the Roy Jettersons that night. She didn't want to be friends with that fat-faced, pink woman who was such a great friend of Elizabeth Ertz.

She opened her lips to say so when she remembered something she had said to Pat only a day or two before: "I shall love your friends just because they ARE your friends."

She had said that and she must stick to it . . . for a while at least.

"All right. What time do they expect us?" she asked, docile and sweet as an obliging and obedient child. "And what shall I wear?"

CHAPTER XXII.

THERE was nothing fashionable about the France family.

They were simple, comfortable people, who lived simply and comfortably and did not put on airs.

Mrs. France set the kitchen table at 1 o'clock, with a colored cloth, set cold meat and fried potatoes and hot rolls upon it, and announced that "dinner was ready."

Afterward Pat wiped the dishes for her, and then went across the lawn to the grocery store to take charge of it while his father came in to have his "dinner."

He ate it in his shirt sleeves, with a white linen grocer's apron tied around him, and his smile that was so like Pat's smile flashing at Lily as he talked to her.

"Sure you aren't going to miss all your friends in this new life?" he asked very sensibly. He was too clever and honest to pretend that they lived the same kind of lives.

"If they're my friends I won't have to miss them, will I?" asked Lily, smiling back at him from over the cigaret that she kept pasted on her lower lip while she talked. "If they really like me they'll still be my friends and Pat's, too, won't they?"

Mr. France shook his head. "Money makes a difference in this world in 'most everything," he said. "Your friends may think it doesn't, and you may think it doesn't—but it does, even in friendships. For instance, you and Pat won't have the money that the people you've always known have. And things like that raise a wall between people, in spite of themselves."

"I don't care," the girl answered. "I don't want anybody else while I have Pat."

But while she was speaking the thought of Sue Cain flashed through her brain . . . She wanted Sue, and not Sadye Jetterson, to "stand up" with her when she married Pat. She wanted someone from her old life to be with her then . . . It would sound better, somehow, to people, when they heard that she had married her mother's chauffeur, if Sue Cain was with her at the time. Sue Cain was "somebody," she figured, still a snob at heart.

She got up from her kitchen chair, tossed her cigaret into the sink-strainer, and went into the narrow little hall of the house to telephone Sue.

She was not at home. "She's at Miss Ann Barney's," the voice at the other end of the wire informed her, and Lily remembered that this was the day her bridge club met.

"I think I'll call up Ann and give her the news," she said to herself, and gave Ann's number to Central.

"I'd give a farm to see her face when I tell her I'm not going to marry Staley, after all," she thought. She could imagine how Ann would enjoy that piece of news—quiet, self-contained Ann, who had been in love with Staley for so many years that everyone knew the state of her heart. Ann was the type that gives herself away, when she is in love with a man, not by ever speaking of it, but by the way she looks at him and flushes up when he comes near her . . . Poor old Ann!

"Maybe she'll get Staley on the rebound," thought Lily, standing in the little hallway with its faded Brussels carpet and its wall paper that was cracked in places, although it was spotlessly and beautifully clean.

Ann, herself, answered the Barneys' telephone.

"This is Lily Lexington," Lily told her. "I'm sorry, Ann, that I won't be at your house for the card game today—and I should have let you know about it before this, but I never thought of it until just this minute."

"That's quite all right," answered Ann, who never seemed annoyed and ruffled. Her voice sounded cold and far away. She never had particularly liked Lily and Lily knew it. And since the day she had told her about her engagement to Staley Drummond, Ann had been slowly backing into her shell, so far as Lily was concerned.

She had not even telephoned to let Lily know about the meeting of the card club at her house that day, and Lily would not have heard about it except through Sue Cain, who was always good friends with everybody.

"Is Sue there?" Lily asked. "May I speak to her, please?"

Ann said she would call her, and in a moment Sue's high, eager voice came over the wire: "Hello, Twin! What's on your mind?"

"Plenty," said Lily, with a laugh, and then she told her what she had done.

There was a long silence. At the end of it Sue gave a little gasp.

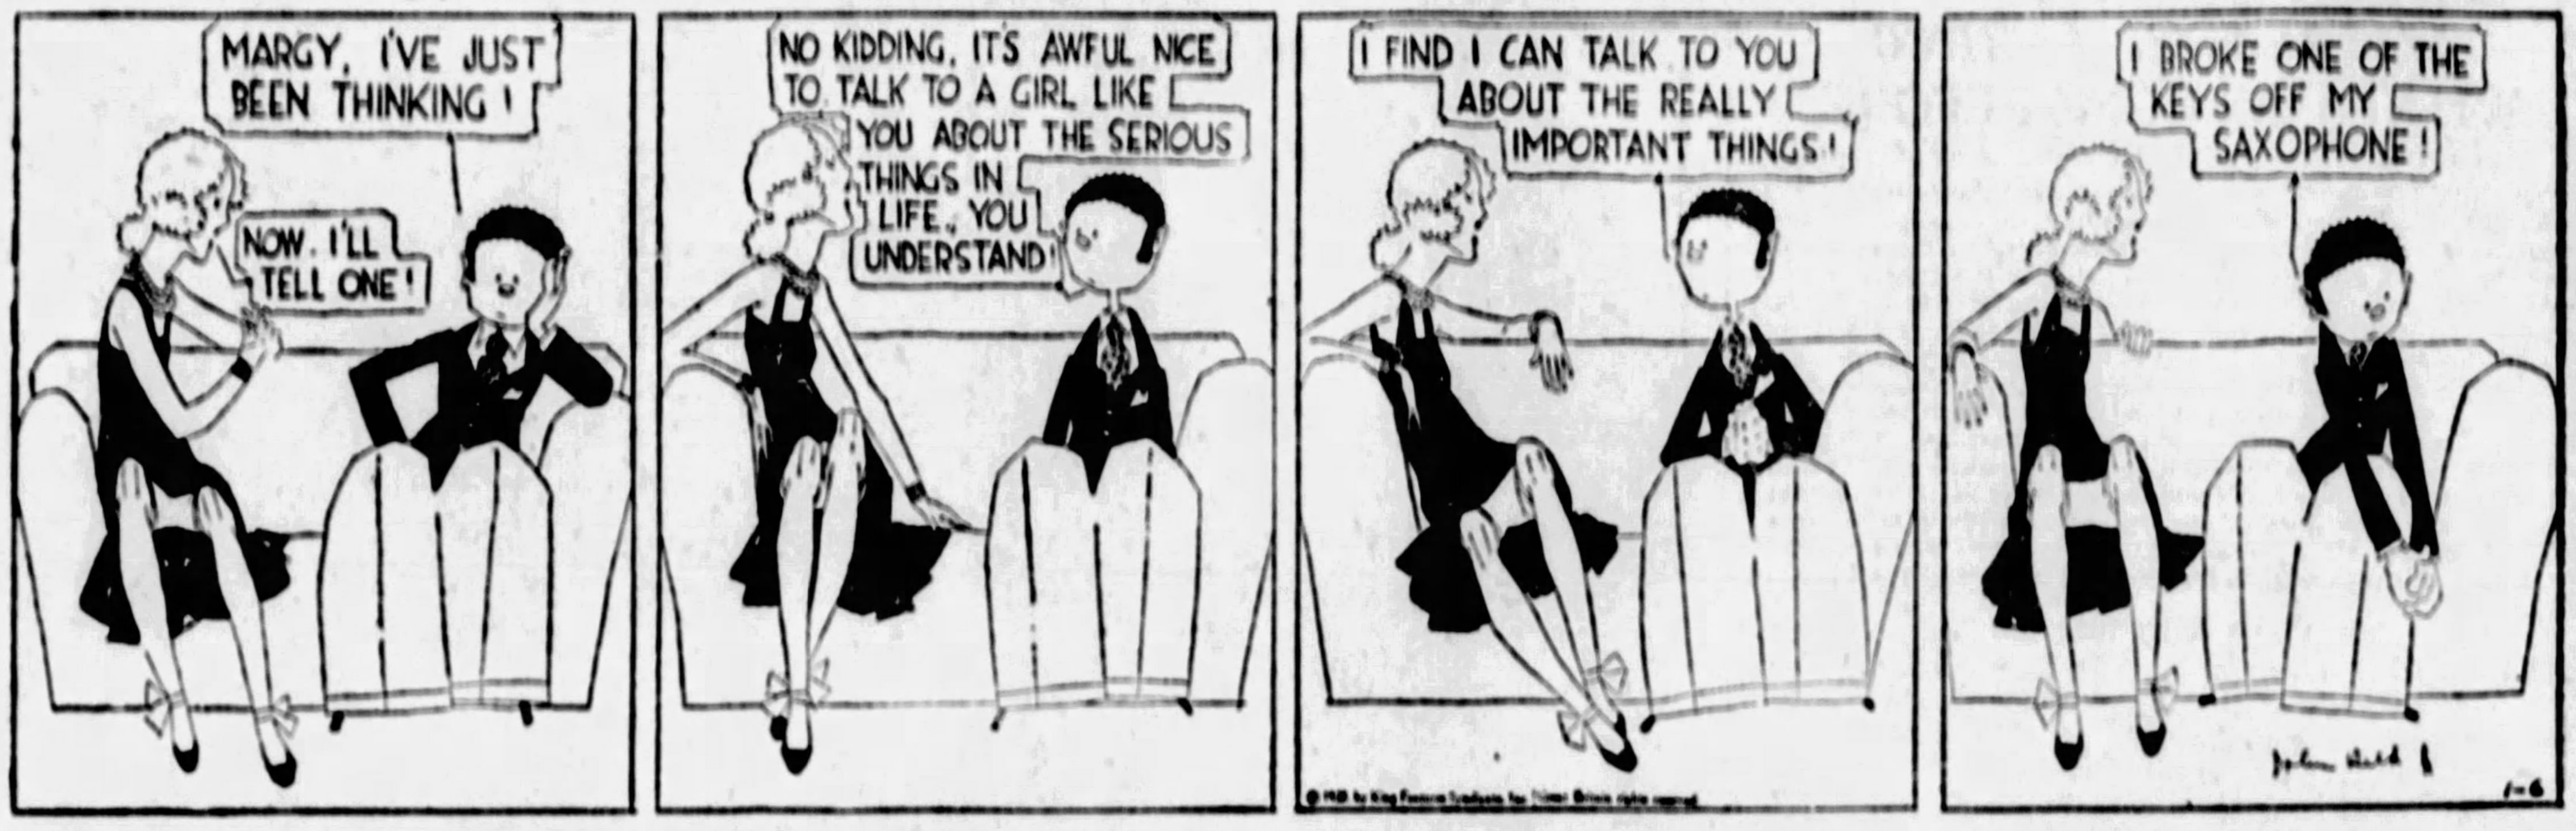
Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.



MARGY, I'VE JUST BEEN THINKING!
NOW, I'LL TELL ONE!
NO KIDDING, IT'S AWFUL NICE TO TALK TO A GIRL LIKE YOU ABOUT THE SERIOUS THINGS IN LIFE, YOU UNDERSTAND!
I FIND I CAN TALK TO YOU ABOUT THE REALLY IMPORTANT THINGS!
I BROKE ONE OF THE KEYS OFF MY SAXOPHONE!
1-6

"My dear, I REALly feel TERribly SORry for ARab at this point, because I HONestly think he REALizes his MENtal limiTAtions or something, because he was REALly too paTHETic the other DAY, my dear, because he was trying TERribly hard to imPRESS me with the fact that he thought I was a treMENdous reSOURCE for him, because he could TALK to me about really imPORtant things and the SErious side of LIFE and all—can you BEAR it, my dear? I was ACtually too imPRESSED for a while because I HONestly thought he knew what he was TALKing about, until I SUDdenly discovered that his IDEA of what is SErious in life is something perfectly TRIVial and riDICulous. GOSH, I was SUNK about it, my dear, because I'm REALly terribly FOND of ARab and all, only I don't think he'll EVer make a sucCESS in life or become the TYPe of a man you can sort of look UP to and adMIRE and all, because he simply has NO idea of the great PROBlems in life that a GIRL has to face, f'r instance. I mean he's not sympaTHETic and underSTANDing about anything but his OWN troubles, my dear, which are NEVer important or INT'resting to anybody ELSE—do you know what I mean?"

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

Philip Veritzen as a Lover Looms Startlingly Before Madge's Vision

NEVER since my first association with Lillian, in the days when I so sorely misjudged her, has anything which she said or did repelled me. I have come to look upon her as one whose wisdom is only equaled by her goodness, and I rarely have doubted the soundness of anything she said.

But there was something in the nonchalance with which she told me of her belief that Philip Veritzen "would fall for me hard if he ever saw me" which turned me fairly cold with the apparent callousness of her viewpoint. Yet experience has taught me never to judge Lillian's attitude until she has entirely finished with a subject. She is so abrupt, so forceful, as well as so careless in her manner of speech, that [illegible] often camouflages—pu[illegible] her real meaning.

That she saw my bewildered resentment I realized when she came over to me, took me by the shoulders and gave me an exasperated little shake.

"Let me remind you of an old and trite, but most pertinent, aphorism," she said, and there was that in her voice which made me think of the flick of a whip. "It concerns the impossibility of possessing one's cake and eating it at the same time. If you wish to lead a life where no problem of this sort ever will come near you, resign your position at once and go nowhere, socially or on business, unless you are strictly chaperoned by Dicky or your mother-in-law. After the years have passed over your head and you are comfortably in your fifties, with a waistline to correspond, you may return to any profession you choose, with the assurance that you will be troubled by no emotional problems.

"But as long as you have that combination of good looks and gray matter above your ears, which an inscrutable Providence has decided to bestow upon you, let me assure you that if you stray beyond the little home nest into the great crowded spaces of the professional world you can't escape meeting an occasional gentleman with a roving eye who has to be taught more or less gently and firmly, according to his type, that the aforesaid roving eye is not to come to rest on you."

I stirred uncomfortably under the gibing little tirade and under the mocking eyes which pointed it. Lillian changed her tone immediately.

"Don't misunderstand me, girl," she said, a pleading note in her voice. "If you were going to face any real problem, one which would leave an unpleasant memory behind, I should have very different advice to give you. But Philandering Phil — you know that's what his few close friends call him—is so adroit and artistic in his attentions that outsiders never know what he's up to. He is as harmless as Mary's little lamb, if you know how to be gentle with him. I don't need to give you any lessons in that art. I've seen you at work on one or two occasions. You're an expert, and I don't mean maybe.

"So look at things from a sensible viewpoint. Just remember you're living in the twentieth century, with radios and airplane commutation to Europe, and television, an' everything. You're not going to throw up a contract which means your future career and independence of the Dicky Bird—incidentally, the most salutary lesson that lad ever learned—because your employer fancies himself in love with you. If you were just out of school it wouldn't be fair to put you up against such an experience, although thousands of young girls have had to figure on similar problems.

"But if you can't turn Phil Veritzen from a romantic admirer into a comradely friend I shall be much disappointed in you. Don't look so frightened. Nothing unusual is going to happen. Go along just as you have been going. As for me, I'm going to bed. Thus endeth the evening lesson, and—I'll not bother you any more with it. If you take that early train in the morning, you need your beauty sleep and so do I. Ready for the light and the window?"

At my assent she turned out the one and opened the other. But long after she was asleep I lay pondering with troubled mind the strange things she had told me.

How To Relieve Cough or Cold In 2 Minutes

To cut short a cold or cough due to a cold and prevent complications, nothing gives such quick and delightful relief as Aspironal, a liquid cold remedy, medicated with the latest scientific remedies that are used and endorsed by the highest medical authorities.

Every druggist is authorized by the manufacturer to refund your money while you wait at the counter if you cannot feel relief coming in two minutes. Relief means: clears the head; relieves the congestion in the nose and throat; checks the excessive flow of mucus; banishes the dull, frontal headache and that chilly, creepy, achy feeling that attends a cold.

Quickest and best relief for catarrhal croup and children's "choking-up" with phlegm at night. Price 50c and $1.00. Get relief or get your money back.

It's Time YOU tried one!

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS
F. A. Stuart

For that INDIGESTION

For 33 years, men and women by the million have settled all stomach disturbances with a Stuart tablet. A reliable remedy; a real relief. And you have never tried it! In 1894 a druggist sold his first package of Stuart's. Today, it's a drugstore staple. The first thing that comes to mind when the stomach needs a sweetener. No burning soda; just a happy combination of magnesia and calcium carbonate and other soothing things. In ten minutes—or less—acidity is overcome; all that sourness dispelled.

Wherever you find a drugstore, you'll find Stuart's. The handy metal box to carry in purse or pocket, is a quarter. The large size for 60 cents, and the family size, $1.20. A sweet stomach for twenty-five cents.

HARD WATER PLUS MELO MAKES SOFT WATER

Lots of soap won't take out blood stains!

Nor if you're using hard water. Hard water will form a dirty ring around the edge of the basin. The soap combines with the hardness of the water and makes scum. No, you can't have lots of suds with hard water. But you can with soft water.

Add Melo to hard water. There is the soft water! And suds! my, what suds! Enough to clean anything. Blood stains on clothes, for instance, will come off in a few minutes. Soft, soft water. Made soft by Melo. Get Melo at your grocer's today.

Always Thin: This Happy Woman Must Tell How She Quickly Gained 11 Pounds

Underweight Men and Women the World Over Ought to Profit by the Experience of This Well Known Chattanooga Woman.

Read It Twice

To McCoy's Laboratory

This is from Mrs. W. E. Looney—I just must tell you that McCoy's Tablets are the finest things I have ever tried. I have always been thin and never found anything to do me so much good. I was disappointed in the beginning.

I weighed 104 when I began—now I weigh 115½. I praise them. I can't be without them. My limbs are picking up fine. I am singing their praises to everyone I see. I didn't have any faith in them to start.

Signed (Mrs. W. E. Looney),
Chattanooga, Tenn.
Oct. 16th, 1927.

How can any woman or man either for that matter look superbly attractive with deep hollows in chest and neck and with limbs scantily covered with flesh?

In every drug store in America you can find McCoy's Tablets, sugar coated and as easy to take as candy. They are recommended not only to put on weight but to improve the general health.

One sickly man in New Jersey regained his health and energy and added 28 pounds of much needed flesh.

But read McCoy's generous offer—it tells the whole story to every fair minded person.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at May's Drug Stores or any drug store in America.

The phrase that fools: "Only a sore throat!"

Don't underestimate the danger of a cold or sore throat. Neglect of both leads hundreds to serious illness or death every year.

In your own circle of friends no doubt you can recall one such case . . . perhaps a child you loved, gone in a twinkling . . . or a robust friend taken in his prime.

Sore throat is usually a warning that you are in for a cold—or worse. First gargle repeatedly with Listerine used full strength and if immediate improvement is not apparent, consult your physician.

Often Listerine is sufficient. Time and time again it has checked such ailments before they got the upper hand. It is effective because it is antiseptic; immediately attacks disease-producing germs that develop in the mouth.

During "flu" and pneumonia weather, who can gainsay the wisdom of using Listerine systematically every day? Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

ITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

THE average woman can keep "everything in its place" around the house—except her husband.

Half of the middle-aged men in the world are spending their days worrying themselves to death about their flapper-daughters—and the other half are spending their nights playing around with other men's flapper-daughters.

* * *

One love, like a cigaret, is easily lighted from another. There is nothing like the gleam of admiration in another man's eye for rekindling the spark of devotion in a cooling lover's breast.

HELEN ROWLAND

All these charming husband-slayers are young—or youngish. Apparently, after a woman is forty or fifty, she doesn't care enough about what happens to her to marcel her hair, much less to shoot her husband.

* * *

A woman gives up a love-affair with the same reluctance with which she takes down the Christmas tree, tenderly laying away each glittering memory and tarnished illusion—until the next time.

* * *

Most lovers go into marriage with the idea that it is going to be a long series of holidays, like Christmas and New Year's—and are naturally disappointed to discover that it is just a series of wash-days, cleaning days and rent day.

* * *

The ultimate proof of a man's love, these days, is his willingness to refrain from flirting with another woman over your head, while he's holding you in his arms.

When a man settles down after the honeymoon, he fondly imagines that he can "bank" his wife's love, like any other fire, put on his office coat and go off about his business.

There is nothing like a wife's absence to make her husband's heart grow fonder—of his stenographer.

What's the Answer?

1. In what country is the seat of the Hague Tribunal?
2. Walden Pond figures prominently in whose works?
3. What great German poet and dramatist died in 1805?
4. In a law-suit, what type of question is ordinarily decided by the judge?
5. What Roman emperor first persecuted the Christians?
6. What city is the center of the world's diamond trade?
7. The production of what staple is limited in British possessions to keep up the price?
8. In the armies of what great power are "Sikhs" found?
9. What American naval vessel of the Revolutionary period is still afloat?
10. What was the amount paid by the United States for Alaska?

The answers to these questions may be found in tomorrow's paper.

Here are the answers to yesterday's questions.

1. Electric locomotives furnish the motive power to ships going through the locks of the Panama Canal.
2. South America is the native habitat of the armadillo.
3. Samuel Butler wrote "The Way of All Flesh."
4. A divining rod is made of hazel or witch hazel.

FAY KING

By FAY KING

ONE of the secrets of success is making the best of everything.

It has sometimes taken years before successful people have found themselves placed just where and how they wished to be.

It is not what we do, but how we do it, that makes the difference between success and failure.

The person who slumps into a state of despair because he is not happy in his present surroundings is heading for failure. The person who makes the best of things and rises above his surroundings is heading for success.

The thing to do is to work as if you were in the most ideal place. In that way you make the most of yourself and are preparing for a better place.

I recall a man who hailed a shabby taxi. He was so impressed by the courtesy and good driving of the young man that he immediately thought that he would like to help that young man reach the place he was worthy of. He asked his name and address. Later he engaged him for his own private chauffeur.

I know a bellboy who in serving an important guest at the hotel where he worked so impressed this man with his ability and brightness he was given a position in their Chicago firm and is more than making good.

Earnest effort, in no matter what capacity, cannot fail to make a good impression.

Every step we take can be a forward one if we make the best of whatever comes our way!

The Real Danger That Lies in Freak Dieting

A SENSIBLE doctor down in Alabama has decided that candy and other sweets are proper additions to the diet even if you want to reduce. He advises that they be taken at the end of the meal and made a part of the meal.

DR. COPELAND

The trouble with cake, ice cream and other pastries is that too many times they are taken after more than enough food has been consumed. They are added to a meal already big as it should be. In that case the dessert will spoil the meal. It is too much for the already full stomach to manage.

The doctor I have mentioned spoke about the relation of sweets to the reduction diet. "The main thing in reducing," he said, "is to keep the patient satisfied and to spare him the pangs of hunger. A bit of sweet at the end of the meal gives him a feeling of satisfaction."

This is correct teaching, as I see it. To reduce the intake of food is almost sure to leave an unsatisfied feeling, a painful urging for food. This is sure to be the case if great quantities of sweet things have been indulged in every day. And most fleshy persons are fond of sweets. To take them away entirely results in real misery.

This doctor advises against what he calls "freak diets." These are to be avoided, he declares. "One can reduce on milk, meat and eggs in scientifically regulated quantities as well as anything else, at the same time protecting the body protein."

What the doctor means by "protecting the body protein" is this:

The most precious of all of our foods is the protein we eat. This is the material which builds the muscles, the skin, the framework, the cells, the substantial portions of all the tissues. We would fall apart without the proteins.

We get this building and repair material from lean meat, the white of eggs, from the fluid part of the milk we drink, cheese, and to some extent from the vegetable world. We must have at least four ounces of pure protein every day. Since it is mixed with other substances, it takes a lot more than four ounces of meat, for instance, to supply the needed element.

If we go on too rigid a diet, our protein supply is taxed. The tissues wither because the body protein is not protected and replaced. Real harm comes to us.

The reducing fads have been overdone. They are apt to result in physical harm. That is why there is a cry against "freak diets."

I don't know what will happen to the young women who are denying themselves sufficient food for their actual needs. They are weakening their bodies and preparing the way for illness against which they will have little resistance.

The greatest mistake made in a dietary way is to eat a lot of stuff between meals. That is when candy and other sweets do harm. For that matter, all foods are out of place between meals. The blood should be left free part of the time to cleanse the body and carry away waste. It cannot do this if it is all the time loaded with food.

A reasonable amount of sweet food will be quite all right, even for one who wants to escape overweight, if it is included in the makeup of the meal. And, as has been suggested, it does add to the satisfaction of the meal.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Saturday, January 7.

Look up not down at all this little life's mistakes.—Holbein.

ACCORDING to the predominant sidereal activities, this may prove to be a time of inharmony and disaffection in many matters, both personal and business. The leaning will be toward the quick and flighty, with snap judgments militating against the best interests. Employment is also in jeopardy. With balanced mind and care to observe all business rules with integrity, all may be well.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which quick and irresponsible judgments may cause trouble in employment and in business affiliations. With careful procedure and reflection as to moves the situation may be safely maneuvered. Also strive for harmony in personal affairs.

A child born on this day may be clever in many ways but may be prone to volatility and flightiness. Its visionary outlook may cause it anxiety and personal inharmony.

OCTAGON TOILET SOAP

QUICK CLEANSING LATHER in cold water means a perfect soap in warm

YOU WASH in warm water—certainly! But the way to find the best soap for warm water is to test it when the water is cold. You'll get instant, generous lather from Octagon Toilet Soap—even in cold water. Its cocoanut oil content assures a rich lather in any water—and a cleansing lather too. Your skin is left clean—and it feels clean. For Octagon lather removes not only surface soil but washes out each tiny pore as well. To be so fine a soap even in cold water, Octagon must be a perfect soap in the warm water you use daily. Octagon is just that! Use a glistening white cake of Octagon a few days on your hands and face—in any kind of water. See what joy this delicately scented toilet soap really is. Remember, too, that each Octagon wrapper carries a coupon that can be redeemed with your Fab coupons for valuable premiums. Yet the large, long-lasting Octagon cake costs only ten cents. PLANS AIR LINE HERE

D. BARR PEAT, WILLIAM B. STOUT, C. E. BALL

The air above Pittsburgh will be cluttered with airplanes within 10 years after an adequate airport is in operation here, declared William B. Stout, head of the Stout Air Service and designer of the Ford all-metal plane, in Pittsburgh today to talk on aviation and lay plans for his Cleveland-Philadelphia line to start through here in the spring. He is shown with D. Barr Peat, manager of Bettis Field, McKeesport, and Clifford E. Ball, air mail contractor, between Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

OUR AIRPORT IS CALLED BACK LOT

Five aerial transportation lines will be operating through Pittsburgh within a year after the proposed municipal airport is opened to traffic, William B. Stout, designer of the Ford all-metal airplane and head of Stout Air Service, said at William Penn Hotel today.

The Stout Air Service, he said, plans to open a line from Cleveland to Philadelphia, via Pittsburgh, in the spring.

"But we will not come in here and risk landing our $45,000 planes in a back lot which is everything Pittsburgh has in the way of an airport today," he said.

Mr. Stout came here to address the McKeesport Chamber of Commerce, the Homestead chamber and the Traffic and Transportation Association of the Pittsburgh chamber. He will speak before the Pittsburgh business men at 8:45 tonight.

The recent trip to Mexico City, when a tri-motored Ford plane carried Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh to spend Christmas with her illustrious son, demonstrated, Mr. Stout declared, the value of aviation, particularly to Mexico.

"We flew from Brownsville, Tex., to Mexico City in four and a half hours," he declared. "By train this is a 43-hour trip. Just imagine what an air line delivering mail and passengers would mean there."

A new model tri-motored Ford, 400 pounds lighter than the present model, will be out within the next two weeks, according to Mr. Stout. The Ford and Stout airlines, he said, have flown 7,000,000 passenger miles without injury to a single passenger.

28 ARE HURT IN TROLLEY CRASH

UNIONTOWN, Jan. 6.—Twenty-eight persons were injured, none seriously, when a West Penn Railways car ran through a derailing switch at a railroad siding near New Salem, about six miles southwest of here, this morning. The passengers were mostly workmen.

Dr. Lee Herrington, of New Salem, was called to administer first aid. Nobody was hurt seriously enough to go to the hospital. According to reports of witnesses to the crash, Motorman Edward Ritenour collapsed over the controls a few seconds before the car went through the switch and across the railroad tracks. Railways officials, however, denied this.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folk Plan Last Minute Affairs Before Fleeing Chilly Blasts for the Southland

A FEW last-minute affairs are yet to be given before the society folk start "flitting" to the South to escape the chilly blasts of Pittsburgh winters.

Today Mrs. Harry E. Sheldon of Beechwood boulevard and her daughter, Mrs. William M. McKelvy of Kinsman road, are giving a luncheon in the Twentieth Century Club, which has been the scene of many an interesting part this season.

The guests include friends of the hostesses, the debutante set and a number of the younger society folk who came out several seasons ago. The affair, as you know, is in honor of charming Elizabeth Lewis, whose marriage to John Follansbee on February 2 will be one of the important events of the social year, and of Anne Louise Marshall, popular debutante daughter of the Lee Holmes Marshalls of Dunmoyle place.

As at nearly all the parties given since the first of the year, there is a hint of spring in the decorations. The tables are most attractive with their centerpieces of delicately tinted spring flowers and cibotium ferns. Covers are laid for several hundred guests.

Anne Marshall will share honors at yet another January entertainment. Mrs. William T. McCullough of Bennington avenue, I hear, is giving a luncheon and matinee party for Anne and a sister debutante, Mary Mellon McClung, daughter of the Samuel Alfred McClungs, on January 11.

This entertainment will probably be about the last honoring the buds of this season. Many of the debbies are already planning trips to the South or to Europe.

Elizabeth George, debutante daughter of the W. D. Georges of Sewickley, will be here until late February. Then she expects to sail for Europe to spend the winter and spring. Quite a nice ending for one's first season out, you'll agree.

Eunice Parrish DuPuy, who came out, you remember, in Pittsburgh this season, is planning to leave in a few days for her home in Indianapolis. She has been the guest of her grandparents, the Herbert DuPuys of Morewood avenue, who entertained for her.

The DuPuys are leaving next week for the South. They'll be in Palm Beach, where there will be, as usual, quite a Pittsburgh society colony.

The Joseph W. Marshes and their attractive daughter, Katherine Modisette Marsh of Llanfair Lodge, are also interested in the South. They will leave Monday for Ormond Beach, Florida. They expect to be there the remainder of the winter, and will stop at the Hotel Ormond.

During the second social season of the year, always enjoyed by society folk who go South after the first of the year, Mr. and Mrs. Marsh will be joined by their other daughters, Mrs. J. S. Payton, Mrs. E. F. W. Salisbury and Mrs. James Ingraham Marsh.

Not long ago, you will undoubtedly recall, the Marshes announced Katherine's engagement to William Clarke Fuelhart, son of the William O. Fuelharts of Endeavor, prominent folks in the northwestern part of the state.

Although Mrs. W. Harry Brown, one of Pittsburgh society leaders both in this country and abroad, is spending the season in the city for the first time in several years, she does make frequent trips to New York. She is expected back today from Gotham.

* * *

Mrs. Walter Cockrill Carroll of College avenue, mother of that likeable debbie, Florence Carroll, is visiting relatives in Springfield, Mass. Mrs. Carroll herself is a New Englander by birth. Since her marriage she has made her home in Pittsburgh with the exception of five or six years, during which the Carrolls lived in Chicago.

Most news is travel news just now. It seems that the Bahamas have attracted quite a group of Pittsburghers, among them Mrs. J. Hartwell Hillman and her family, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Laughlin III, the junior Reuben Millers, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vining Davis and Thruston Wright, while there from Sewickley are the Ledlie Watt Youngs.

From Pinehurst comes word that Henry C. Fownes and his son, Charles B. Fownes, are at their cottage there, and Mrs. William Clark Fownes, Jr., and her daughter, Louise, are expected to join the Pittsburgh colony there soon. Mrs. Norwood Johnston has gone back to the Carolina resort after spending the holidays at her home here, and with her is her daughter, Mrs. S. Davidson Herron. Judge and Mrs. William Way and Dr. and Mrs. DeWitt Nettleton of Sewickley, who have spent the winters for a number of years at Knollwood, are also at Pinehurst, and Mr. and Mrs. George Phelps Rose will leave for the same place in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cohen, of Hobart street and Waynesburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mildred J. Cohen, to Earnest Frank Slessinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Slessinger, of this city. Miss Cohen is a graduate of Darlington Seminary and Mr. Slessinger was graduated from Oberlin University in 1924.

* * *

Mrs. J. Slater Crawford and Mrs. Dora W. Yohn are giving a tea this afternoon in the home of the former in Forbes street. Pink and yellow roses, palms and bamboos are used in decorating the home, with the roses centering the tea table, lighted by yellow tapers in crystal holders. The aides include Mrs. H. L. Cratty, Mrs. M. W. Lytle, Mrs. Jacob Weinman and Mrs. Joshua Weinman.

Allegheny Chapter, No. 106, O. E. S., will hold a card party Monday afternoon in Oppenheim-Collins' auditorium. Bridge, "500," euchre and Old Maid will be played. Mrs. Sara E. Killen is worthy matron.

Court Allegheny, No. 664, Catholic Daughters of America, will give a program Sunday night in the Sharpsburg K. of C. building, Main street, and officers are to be installed January 17. The Court is to hold a Leap Year dance early in February with Mrs. Margaret Dietz Claney as chairman. A card party and luncheon will be given February 7 by the married members for the single members of the court. Mrs. Mary Hahn is in charge.

Court East Liberty, No. 665, Catholic Daughters of America, will hold a card party tomorrow afternoon in Oppenheim-Collins' auditorium, with Miss Irene Dunn in charge. The court will hold its winter initiation Sunday afternoon in the William Penn Hotel. Miss Margaret L. Kennedy, grand regent, will be assisted by the other officers and a team composed of Miss Nell Cavanaugh, Miss Gertrude Geary, Miss Jane Burke, Miss Catherine Farrell, Miss Hazel Miller and Miss Gertrude Parish. A banquet will follow.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Mary Genevieve Merrigan, daughter of Mrs. Charles T. Merrigan, of West Orange, N. J., and Richard Duff Gribben, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Roy Gribben, of Bloomfield, N. J., which was solemnized New Year's Eve in New York. After a motor trip through New England, Mr. and Mrs. Gribben will be at home in Bloomfield. Mr. Gribben formerly lived in Pittsburgh.

* * *

Mrs. J. C. Reilly and Miss Bertha M. Reilly, of this city, have left to spend the remainder of the season at their winter home in Miami, Fla.

CONDITIONS IN SOUTH AMERICA TOLD CLUB

South America as a country of magnificent, almost overwhelming beauty, a country cursed by peonage, void of social conscience, but full of great promise because its vices are largely those of environment and because the people are critical of themselves, was pictured yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Albert Edward Day at the Outlook Alliance's literary luncheon. Dr. Day's knowledge of the country was gleaned while on a study tour of the southern continent, of whose beauties and vastness he spoke most eloquently. "The Scarlet Letter" could not be written in South America; there the dominant interest of males is sex and fathers early lead their sons into paths of licentiousness, he said.

The Rev. Dr. J. W. Claudy was another speaker. His talk had to do with the workings of the Better Magazine Council of Allegheny County, the organization which is the outgrowth of the altruistic committee of the College Club, formed to suppress obscene literature. There has never been such a stream of pollution and debasing literature released from the press as in the last 10 years, Dr. Claudy declared. The object of the Better Magazines Council, he said, is to promote good literature and to suppress the bad by legislation; to put men who would debase the minds through such publications in a place where they can do no harm. No city in the United States is as clean in this regard as Pittsburgh and this is due to the public conscience developed in the women of the city, Dr. Claudy stated. Mrs. M. D. Stark presided at the luncheon. Mrs. E. B. Heyser introduced Dr. Day and Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky, Congress president, was an honored guest. The somewhat unusual decorations consisted of a snow scene on the officers' table.

More hobbies of the Epoch Club members were revealed yesterday to the members when Mrs. Edwin J. Stockslager talked on "Bridge" and Mrs. Clark Hammond on "Birds." Mrs. Stockslager gave a history of the 200-year-old game and brought it up to date, even including a discussion of contract bridge. The many varieties of birds which she has seen in and near Pittsburgh were interestingly described by Mrs. Hammond in her talk. Completing the program was a review of Lawrence Gilman's biography of Edward MacDowell, which Mrs. Frederick W. Winter contributed as her part of the program. Mrs. Edward E. Phelps of North Homewood avenue was hostess.

Her impressions of Germany, Czecho-Slovakia and Austria as she saw the three countries last summer were described yesterday by Dr. Mary Bidwell Breed at a luncheon given by the current interests committee of the Twentieth Century Club. "You can feel the moving shadow of the next war in Berlin, and in Czecho-Slovakia all reminders of Germany have been abolished," she said. She told of her experiences during the riot and strike in Vienna. Miss Mary Maloney gave a dramatic review of Ludwig's "Napoleon."

All classes will resume next week at Central Branch Y. W. C. A., Chatham street. Harvey Gaul will be the speaker at the forum supper Tuesday at 6 o'clock, and will talk on the outstanding musical events to be heard in Pittsburgh during January. In the course on general knowledge, Dr. Alfred E. Emerson will speak on "Animals, Their Evolution and Life," on Tuesday at 8:15 o'clock.

* * *

Mrs. Vergil W. Thomas, president of the Women's Club of Grove City College, her daughter, Miss Lucile Thomas, and her mother, Mrs. M. S. MISS BETTY CLUGSTON

START NEW YEAR RIGHT

MR. AND MRS. GERALD D'ERLANGER

Undaunted by disapproval of the young husband's family over their marriage, Edyth Baker, American actress, and Gerald D'Erlanger, son of Baron D'Erlanger, English financier, were on their honeymoon in France today. They wed after a whirlwind courtship, which started when D'Erlanger saw Miss Baker on a London stage and obtained an immediate introduction.

FIREMEN USE GAS MASKS

Gas masks were used by firemen early today in fighting a fire in the basement and first floor of a three-story brick building at 118 Sixth street, downtown. Dense smoke drove the firemen from the building several times and they finally were forced to use the masks. Damage was estimated at $2,000 by Battalion Chief Frank Jones.

The fire started in the basement and spread to the first floor occupied by the Pitt Shoe Repair Shop, the John Bright Shoe Store and the Allen-Calman Company. The cause of the fire is undertermined.

The second floor office of Walter Mayer, optician, and the Manufactures and Merchants Exchange, and the third floor headquarters of the Pitt Tailoring Company and the Samuel Morrison Company were damaged slightly by smoke and water.

FIRE DISCLOSES MASH IN ATTIC

Bruno Switalski, 46, of 1408 Reedsdale street was visited by both the firemen and police yesterday. After he had suffered $2,000 damages to his home by fire, he was taken to the Woods Run Police Station to explain the presence of eight barrels of mash in the attic of his home.

Lieut. John J. Lynch says he believes it is to be put through a "traveling still" which is moving about the neighborhood.

POISON LIQUOR VICTIM DIES

Poison moonshine whisky was the cause of the death last night in the West Penn Hospital of Paul Lokowitz, 45, of 3737 Penn avenue, according to a report to the morgue. Lokowitz was found in Penn avenue near Thirty-fourth street the night of December 7, and was taken to the hospital where he had been confined ever since.

BRIDE, FUGITIVE, TAKEN BACK TO INSTITUTION

CUMBERLAND, Md., Jan. 6.—A stylishly dressed girl, her white wrists manacled by heavy handcuffs, won sympathy here when she was led away today by Mrs. Francis L. Kelley, of Lewistown, Me., state probation officer. The girl, Jeannette Savigny, 19, French Canadian, told the police that she had been married in Hagerstown, Md., when she was arrested in Frostburg, where she was known as Betty Dodge. It is charged that she is a runaway from a state institution in Maine.

ROBINS TO TALK AT MEETING

Col. Raymond Robins of Chicago will speak Sunday afternoon, January 15, at a mass meeting in Memorial Hall under the auspices of the Pennsylvania State Adult Bible Class Federation, with the Anti-Saloon League and the Women's Christian Temperance Union and other dry organizations co-operating. His subject will be "The Constitution—Shall We Scrap It?"

A committee of 100 met last night to complete arrangements for the meeting. A musical program will be presented by the Mt. Washington Methodist Protestant Sunday School orchestra.

FALLS INTO BONFIRE, GIRL DIES OF BURNS

Burns suffered when she fell into a bonfire caused the death in the Homestead Hospital early this morning of Mary Baksie, of 461 Fourth avenue, Homestead. The accident occurred Wednesday in the rear of the child's home.

ASKS DIVORCE ON CRUELTY

Discovering that she had bobbed her hair, her husband tore a hat from her head and refused to go to work for three days, until she had promised to let it grow again, Mrs. Gertrude E. Lofgren, of 1721 Scott street, McKeesport, sets forth in her divorce bill.

Other charges made by the wife were that, when her sister became ill in their home the husband ordered her removal and backed up his demands with a revolver, and that he drove her out of the house and compelled her to remain at a hotel over night, and that he burned all her clothing, with the exception of what she was wearing.

HIKING CLUB TO WALK THROUGH SANDY CREEK

The Pittsburgh Hiking Club will walk Sunday from the end of the Lincoln avenue car line, through Sandy Creek, a distance of about six miles. Take car No. 82 to end of line, leaving Sixth street and Liberty avenue about 1:45 p. m. The leader will be J. J. Hommel.

DUGGAN CHOSEN TRAFFIC BOARD PRESIDENT

Frank L. Duggan was elected vice chairman of the Better Traffic Committee of Pittsburgh, succeeding the late F. R. Babcock, by the unanimous vote of the committee yesterday afternoon. Duggan is president of the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade, vice president of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, member of the municipal affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce, secretary of the Pennsylvania Ice Producers Association, manager of the Consolidated Ice Company, director of the Consolidated Storage Company, and Republican committeeman of the Fourteenth Ward.

Gen. Albert J. Logan accepted the chairmanship of the committee for another year.

Other officers of the committee, who will continue to serve in 1928, are: W. H. Stevenson, vice president; F. J. Kress, treasurer, and Burton W. Marsh, city traffic engineer, secretary.

Walter Rosenbaum will continue as chairman of the educational subcommittee; John M. Rice, as chairman of the engineering sub-committee; Edwin C. May, chairman of the laws and enforcement subcommittee; and Duggan as chairman of the sub-committee on traffic flow.

Members of the committees are as follows:

Education—Walter Rosenbaum, chairman; George E. Clarkson, Edward Snodgrass, Jr., Prof. L. W. McIntyre, C. H. Roth, Harrison Nesbit, William J. Morris and F. J. Kress, ex-officio.

Engineering—John M. Rice, chairman; Prof. L. W. McIntyre, vice chairman; A. N. Fraser, Winters Haydock, C. H. Roth.

Laws and enforcement—Edwin C. May, chairman; George P. Kountz, Fred C. Schatz, and Paul C. Wolff.

Traffic flow—Frank L. Duggan, chairman; Thomas Fitzgerald, W. H. Heselbarth, W. J. Moore, John O'Neil, Herbert Sander, Director B. L. Succop.

Director James M. Clark, of the Department of Public Safety; Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works; Traffic Inspector Benjamin R. Marshall, Traffic Engineer Burton W. Marsh, and Magistrate John A. Staley, Jr., are ex-officio members of all committees of the Better Traffic Committee.

FAILS TO RETURN

Because she would not consent to sell their home which is owned jointly by her and her husband, Delmar J. Byers, her mate left her and has failed to return. Mrs. Byers testified yesterday in divorce proceedings. She charges desertion.

WOULD NOT MOVE

His wife accepted the $1,000 he sent her with which to move herself and household goods here from Portland, Ore., but she did not do any of the moving, Paul Growdon, of 633 Clyde street, testified against his wife, Estelle Growdon, in his divorce proceedings. He is represented by Attorney William H. Eckert. Growdon, an engineer for the Aluminum Company of American, charges desertion. The husband also said that the wife did not use the money to pay her expenses here as he had directed.

SERVICE SERVES!

When over 200 prominent families of Pittsburgh—discriminating people—are satisfied and complimentary about the service that is provided at Schenley Apartments, it is necessary to employ words only to mention a few of the features that cause this satisfaction.

There are 125 employees in the service corps of Schenley Apartments, providing a 24-hour service that is deft, silent, efficient.

By the system that is maintained, every requirement is met with instant response. Doormen prevent confusion of motorcars and insure privacy; mails are delivered as received from a government sub-station on the premises; passenger elevator service is express, day and night, with additional elevators to kitchen doors and also extra freight elevators.

Beneath the gardens are subterranean garages for the cars of all tenants, which are brought up or taken away by garage attendants.

The Schenley Delicatessen and Coffee Shop, open until 11:30 p.m., is not only a convenience, but is extremely popular for shopping or luncheon.

Then, too, there is the adjunct dining service of the Hotel Schenley, whose reputation for excellence of cusine is based on 30 years' of popularity.

To conduct a great residence apartment group to the entire satisfaction of all tenants is a large undertaking but it is done here, to perfection.

DEATH LAID TO 'ONE-ARM' DRIVER

Charles Gerwig, of 406 Hemlock street, on trial in Criminal Court yesterday charged with involuntary manslaughter, was driving with one hand, the other arm around a girl, when he struck Melvin Hackett, 8, of Hodgkiss street, at Brighton road and A street July 24, fatally crushing the boy against a pole, according to state testimony.

The boy was crossing the street when struck by the car, traveling between 25 and 30 miles an hour, without the horn being sounded, according to the evidence.

Gerwig and his companion at the time, Gertrude Fromme, of Arch street, North Side, denied the charge of one-hand driving, and declared the car was going between 15 and 20 miles an hour.

The pole was broken off because it was rotten, Gerwig said. The case is being prosecuted by Assistant District Attorney J. E. Kalson and will go to the jury today.

PANAMA CANAL HITS NEW TRAFFIC HIGH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—All previous traffic records for the Panama Canal were broken in December when 589 commercial vessels and 14 launches, paying tolls of $2,298,569.75, passed through the canal, the War Department announced. The previous high record was in October of last year, when 567 vessels passed through the canal, paying $2,380,115.97 in tolls.

ROBBERS LOOT TWO MIFFLIN TWP. STORES

County detectives and Mifflin township police are searching for robbers who last night took $200 and a large quantity of provisions from Andrew Stenner's and William Hall's stores, where, in addition to taking a load of foodstuffs, they scattered $300 worth of goods about the floor.

LOCAL FLOOD HEARING JAN. 14

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Pittsburgh's plan for the solution of the national as well as the local flood problem will be presented to the Committee on Flood Control at a special hearing to be held Saturday, January 14. Arrangements for the hearing were made here today by Chairman Frank R. Reid, after conferring with Wilmer M. Jacoby, executive secretary of the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh through Congressman Stephen G. Porter, who looks after the waterway legislation of the Pittsburgh district.

George S. Davison, president of the Flood Commission, who is a past president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, will make the principal argument. He will be supplemented by Morris Knowles, Pittsburgh engineer, Congressman Porter and Mr. Jacoby. The latter, in addition to representing the Flood Commission, is the Pittsburgh member of the board of advisors of the Inland Waterways Corporation of the United States, and the Pennsylvania member of the executive committee of the Chicago Flood Control Conference.

Considerable additional interest attaches to Mr. Davison's appearance because he obtained his first engineering training as a civilian employe of the Mississippi River Commission.

It is understood that the Flood Commission, while advocating its adopted plan for the construction of 17 storage reservoirs in the headwaters of the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers, will not urge that these detention basins will have a material effect upon the flood stages in the Mississippi River, but will show positive benefits from the standpoints of navigation and flood control to portions of Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Ohio. In view of the several states involved, the commission will declare that its problem should be solved by the federal government. It is believed, however, that the representatives of the Flood Commission will not ask Congress to provide all the funds required for constructive works, but will indicate a willingness to attempt to raise part of the funds from the specially benefitted local interests. Such a policy would be at variance with that adopted by the Flood Control Committee, but would be in line with that advocated by Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of the United States Engineers.

'WALKING HOUSE' PERMIT BARED

"The House that Walked Away" did not start its 40-foot hike until it had obtained permission.

The house, a three-story brick apartment at Brighton road and Irwin avenue, which "disappeared" after it had been taken by the city through condemnation proceedings and for which $25,000 is being asked by J. M. Young, the original owner, was moved on a permit issued by the Bureau of Building Inspection.

Records of that bureau, examined today, showed that the structure was moved from 1818 Brighton road to 1824 Brighton road on Permit No. 2657, applied for May 23, 1927, and issued the same day. The permit lists Harry E. Young, a brother of the original owner, and to whose lot the building was moved, as the owner of the apartment on that date. The permit was applied for by R. T. Young, another relative. Fred Thuborn is listed on the permit as the moving contractor, and $10,000 as the total cost of the operation.

Council Wednesday will continue its hearings on the claim of J. M. Young that he is entitled to the $25,000 award for the "total destruction" of his building and press its investigation of his contention that he knew nothing about the structure being moved by his brother to the latter's lot a few feet away.

Yellow Cab

Mary had a little car,
She drove to see the show,
And every time she tried to park
The copper made her go.

And every time she tried to go
The traffic made her stop—
She reached the play-house just in time
To see the curtain drop.

Now Mary leaves the little car
At home within the shed,
And Mary goes to shops and shows
In Yellow Cabs instead.

The Secretary of the National Association of Taxicab Owners produced the above rhyme and we are giving it further publicity. If you are having the troubles "Mary" had, we can solve them.

LOUGHRAN MEETS LOMSKI IN TITLE GO TONIGHT

As They Said to Wales, That's a Horse on You

★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★

Notes of the Boxers

By HARRY KECK,
Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

PHIL SCELLO, who is a fighter and not a musical instrument, returns to the fistic wars after a long layoff to meet Nick Susnell, of Rochester, Pa., in the second bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Maxie Rosenbloom and Garfield Johnson are the main-bouters and Frank Gordini and Johnny Michaels do the honors in the eight-round semi-final. Young Radley, of Monessen, and Tony Phillips of the Hill, 140-pounders, round out the bill in the opening bout.

Scello is a McKeesport lad who showed great promise a couple of seasons ago, but began to accumulate weight so rapidly that he dropped out of the racket. Now he's back as a welterweight and wants us to watch him go.

Garfield Johnson probably will get a kick out of reading today's papers, which tell of a one-round knockout victory scored by George Gemas at Philadelphia last night. Gemas tried to "take" Johnson in the first round of their battle here Christmas afternoon and wound up on the receiving end of a beautiful pasting. It is as a result of winning so handily in that bout that the Black Thunderbolt has been matched with Rosenbloom.

Tommy Loughran figures to neat Leo Lomski in their biffing bee for the light-heavyweight title in New York tonight. Leo is a bundle of dynamite, but Loughran's boxing skill should tame him as it tamed Johnny Risko, Cleveland's rubber man, who was shellacked all over the ring for all of his determined rushing.

Pinky Mitchell, former claimant of the junior-welterweight title, now is off on a campaign as a full-fledged welter. Any objections?

Jack Barry boxes Joe Trippe of Rochester, N. Y., in the main bout at Erie tonight. Jay Novak meets Freddie Fitzgerald, George Perotta boxes Jack Reilly, Tug Phillips opposes Maxie Strub and Young Denbola engages Tommy Murphy in other battles on the card.

Pick Champ As Winner

By FRED KEATS,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—If Tommy Loughran, the light heavyweight champion, is as good as he thinks he is, boxing bugs will be raving about a new fistic genius after Tom's 15-round go in Madison Square Garden with Leo Lomski tonight.

In his mind's eye Tom already is far ahead of Lomski and the rest of that crowd and aims to become a rival of the highbrow heavyweight champ, Gene Tunney, by next summer.

Recalling that Tunney once held the post of light heavyweight champ, Tom says he can match anything that Gene accomplished and have plenty left over at that. Loughran thinks he is a heap smarter than the erudite Tunney in a fistic way.

The lads who set the prices have made Tommy favorite tonight at odds of 7 to 5, and there are plenty of alleged smart folks reaching for the short end.

K. O. Phil Kaplan, New York middleweight, meets Babe McCorgary of St. Louis in the eight-round semi-final tonight. Jimmy Byrne of Louisville meets Jake Warren, Chicago heavyweight, and James J. Braddock of Newark tackles Paul Swiderski, Syracuse light heavyweight, in other eight-rounders.

champion at the end of tonight's bout.

AS FAR as the records of the two teams for the season may be trusted as an indication of what the outcome will be when they meet at the Panther stadium tonight, Pitt's basketball stars would appear to be in no great danger of defeat at the hands of the Syracuse University team in their attempt to ring up their seventh straight victory and keep their slate clean for the campaign.

Sykes Reed.

For whereas Captain Sykes Reed and his mates have piled up 28 points in six games and averaged 47 to a contest, holding their foemen to 203 points or an average of 33 5-6, the Syracuse passers, in four games against much weaker opposition, have registered only 99 points in four encounters, an average of 24 3-4, and have held their opponents to 65 points, or an average of 16 1-4.

IT WILL be seen that Syracuse has made a better record than Pitt in holding down the scoring average of opponents, but the teams that the orange has meet are not rated in the same class as those faced by the locals.

Following are the records of the teams to date:

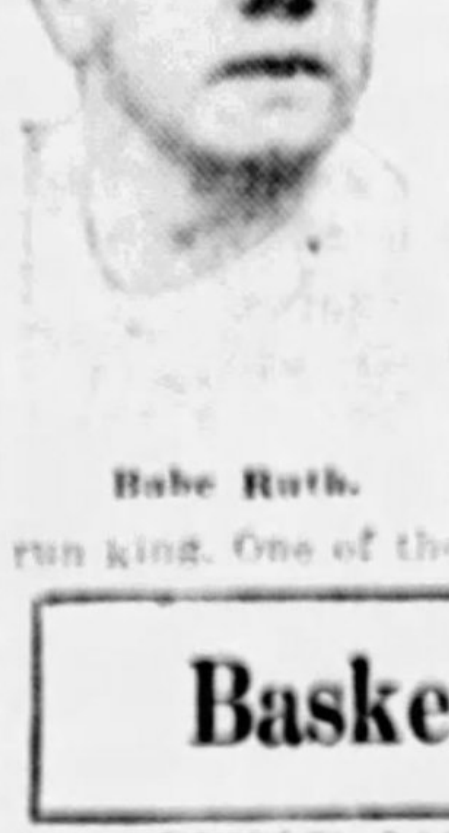
PITT.

Pitt	49	Michigan	39
Pitt	36	Chicago	26
Pitt	39	Northwestern	34
Pitt	44	Iowa	40
Pitt	62	Dartmouth	33
Pitt	52	Ohio State	31
Totals	282	Opponents	203

SYRACUSE.

Syracuse	22	Hobart	19
Syracuse	34	Alfred	9
Syracuse	20	Rochester	19
Syracuse	23	Toronto	18
Totals	99	Opponents	65

NOW THE baseball fans of the country are beginning to speculate on Babe Ruth's possibilites of surpassing the wonderful record he made in 1927. Most diamond followers are inclined to believe that the Bambino has no chance to approach his mark of 60 home runs made last year, but it will be recalled that after the 1921 season many of the experts predicted he would never again come close to the total of 59 made that season.



Babe Ruth.

Besides, Babe has already begun training for the 1928 race, and it will not be due to lack of fitness if he fails to put the home-run mark even higher.

Eastern dopesters are looking for Ruth to have plenty of opposition for the title of home-run king. One of them, Thomas Holmes, points out that the crown-prince of the home-run industry, Lou Gehrig, has constantly improved. His record of 47 homers last season was a mighty performance. Babe may be pressed even harder this year by his junior partner, and may even be beaten out by the young first baseman.

HARRY STOVEY, a pennant hero in Boston 35 years ago, and one of the greatest base runners of all time, was discussing bag-stealing with Paul Shannon.

"Some years ago," explains Stovey, "I had a short talk with Ty Cobb before one of the games began at Fenway Park. Naturally we drifted into a conversation about base running and sized the situation up precisely as I have always regarded it. And Cobb, to my mind, is the greatest base runner that baseball has known in years.

"Every pitcher has a peculiarity; we both agreed. The whole secret lies in knowing your man and becoming acquainted with his motion. Fleetness of foot doesn't cut such an awful figure though it helps a whole lot. Look at old King Kelly, one of the best base runners of his day. Mike always weighed over 200 pounds, wasn't at all fast, but his ability to size up the pitcher and get a good lead off the bag made him a pretty hard man to head off.

Ty Cobb.

"It isn't any harder to steal now than it was 30 years ago—that is if the base runner is keen witted and allowed to use his own judgment.

The party visited both the University of California and Leland Stanford before leaving San Francisco last night and as has been the case in every pleasure jaunt taken since their arrival on the coast last week, were royally treated.

It is understood that in addition to the Panther team, that Bill Amos, captain of the Wash-Jeff eleven, the only team to tie Pitt in the regular season, will also be invited to attend the Philadelphia affair. Other eastern football heroes and coaches are to be present. The Pitt party is to be headed by Chancellor John G. Bowman.

PITT, SYRACUSE MEET TONIGHT

BEST IN PITTSBURGH FRIDAY, JANUARY 6, 1928

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

THE first world championship contest of the year in any line of sport will take place tonight at Madison Square Garden in New York, with Tommy Loughran entering the ring in defense of his light heavyweight fistic crown against Leo Lomski.

Tommy Loughran.

From this distance it looks as if Loughran will retain his scepter by either getting the decision on points at the end of the scheduled 15-round route, or by being awarded a draw. The latter appears to be the worst outcome possible for him.

Some of the New York boxing men did not like Tommy's work recently and have been hailing Lomski as his successor on the throne, but no matter what Loughran may lack in punching power or other respects, when you consider his boxing skill he shapes up as being entirely too clever for Lomski to beat.

NOT that the title-holder will have an easy time of it, or is going to enjoy a pleasant, unruffled evening, by any means.

On the contrary he is likely to have his hands full all the way. Lomski may not be the "second Ketchel" that some of his boosters have been calling him. There never has been a second Ketchel and there isn't likely to be for a long time to come. Imagine what Ketchel would have done to the four men Lomski has beaten since he came East.

But just the same Leo is a rough boy who is capable of making plenty of trouble for any of them. He showed that first out on the coast, and he has given new evidence of uncommon fighting qualities since he came East and slugged his way to wins over Harold Mays, Maxie Rosenbloom, Yale Okun and Tony Marullo—none of them a near-champion, it is true, but the manner in which Lomski trimmed them all was not lacking in impressiveness, though he didn't show the knockout punch which coast experts had said he possessed.

Leo Lomski.

HOWEVER, who would venture to say that Loughran would not have given the same quartet even worse beatings than did Lomski? He may not carry as much punching power as Leo, but he is so far superior to him as a boxer that, while admitting that the challenger is a dangerous customer, there seems to be no reasonable ground to doubt that Tommy will still be

Time of game—8:00 p. m.
Place—Pitt Stadium Pavilion.

By JESS CARVER.

THE Universities of Pittsburgh and Syracuse will open 1928 athletic relations in a brave fashion here tonight, the Orange and Blue and Gold basketball teams, both undefeated in a matter of half a dozen games this season, clashing on the Stadium Pavilion floor. The relations will be resumed next fall when the football teams of the two institutions meet on the Stadium gridiron.

This game tonight is probably the most important collegiate sport event of the week-end, locally at least. Carnegie Tech opens its 1928 cage season with a game at Elkins, W. Va., against Cam Henderson's Davis-Elkins five this evening and Westminster and Grove City play an important game at Grove City. The Dukes of Duquesne will rest up in preparation for the first Conference game of the season tomorrow night at Greenville with Thiel.

Tonight's contest, for Pitt, is a "come seven" game. The Golden Magicians, under the sage tutelage of Dr. H. C. Carlson, have romped through six consecutive major engagements, winning 'em all and already rating half the Western Conference championship, by virtue of having dumped five of the 10 Big Ten quintets. And the five toughest, too. Dartmouth, last year winners of the flag in the Eastern Intercollegiate League race, and therefore the official Eastern champ, was riddled under a 64-33 score here two weeks ago.

Syracuse is also undefeated, with victories over Hobart, Rochester, Toronto and Alfred.

Last night another New York state college team invaded Pittsburgh, and while defeated, played Chick Davies' Dukes to a standstill for the entire first half and remained a threat until the final gun. The Dukes beat St. Canisius, a clever little five, 33-25, but they knew they were in a ball game.

Duquesne still lacks polish, though improvement in the work of Losman and Capt. Reich was noticeable. Ganzy Benedict blossomed out as a star in his own right in last night's contest, turning in 14 points for his evening's work and holding the

Donahoe Saints' Coach

LORETTO, Pa., Jan. 6.—St. Francis College is awaiting the opening varsity basketball game with the Alumni with increased interest due to the acquisition of Bill Donahoe, former Carnegie Tech gridiron star, who was secured as basketball coach by the Saints this week. Donahoe took charge of the squad Monday.

The ex-Tartan star signed a one-year contract, calling for his services as basketball coach only. It is planned to offer him the football job next fall as well by St. Francis officials, and efforts will be made to induce him to accept the post.

Big Bank Roll Only Lure To Cobb

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(AP.)—It will take an "unusual offer" to lure Ty Cobb back to a player's uniform.

Here to adjust some personal income tax matters, the "Georgia Peach" reminisced freely on his 23 years of big league baseball and indicated clearly that it would take a big bank roll to make him change his mind about playing again.

The veteran outfielder also let it be known that he was considering buying a club of his own some day, but said he never would manage a club again.

"Being a manager is a lot of grief," he said. "You never know when someone is going to chop your feet out from under you."

FIGHT RESULTS

At Independence, Mo.—Biddy Dixon knocked out Joe Gibbs, 6 rounds; John Pavola knocked out Frank Walker, 2 rounds.

At Grand Rapids, Mich.—Chuck Wiggins and Roleaux Saguero drew, 10 rounds.

At Philadelphia—Charley Arthur and Bobby Brown drew, 10 rounds; George Gemas knocked out Jack Rozier, 1 round; Jess Stringham knocked out Alex Bader, 1 round.

At New York—Richie Martell and Mickey Diamond drew, 10 rounds; Eddie Covington defeated Peewee Ross, 10 rounds.

Bucs Tie Americans; Break Old Jinx

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Though they failed to gain a decision themselves, the Pittsburgh Pirates escaped the defeat they have been used to taking from Shorty Green's New York Americans and held the Gothamites to a scoreless draw in a National Hockey League contest here last night. It marked the first time in two years that the Bucs and Americans have clashed that the Americans have not come off victors.

The Pirates wound up a two-game road trip with the tie last night.

The teams battled furiously for 70 minutes, both putting up fine hockey at times. For a time, in the second period, it seemed as though the New Yorkers would certainly punch across a score, for they were playing with six men to the Pirates' four. But the defense of the Bucs was too strong to be pierced by Green's men and the day was saved for Pittsburgh.

RESULTS LAST NIGHT.
Pirates 0, Americans 0.
Maroons 2, Maple Leafs 1.
Canadiens 2, Cougars 1.

The Pirates are to battle the onrushing Detroit Cougars on their own ice in Pittsburgh tomorrow night. The lineup:

PANTHERS TO ATTEND EASTERN GRID FETE

By Sun-Telegraph Special Correspondent.

EN ROUTE TO SALT LAKE CITY WITH PITT SPECIAL., Jan. 6.—The sting of the Stanford defeat, suffered by the Pitt Panthers New Year's Day at Pasadena, was considerably lightened today as the Pitt party, well started on the first leg of the journey home, learned that the Panthers had been selected by the Veteran Athletes of Philadelphia to receive the Joseph H. Jolley trophy, emblematic of the Eastern grid championship, and that the entire team would be present at the association's banquet in Philadelphia on February 4.

The Panthers were tendered the invitation last Saturday by Wilmer G. Crowell, noted official, who is chairman of the invitation committee of the association. Yesterday he wired the association from Albuquerque, N. M., that the Pitt officials had accepted the invitation and that the team would be in at-

MORE than 400 followers of basketball were treated to an exhibition played under the old rules at the Young Men's Hebrew Association last night, when the Y. M. H. A. varsity team defeated an all-star aggregation composed of players that represented that institution on the floor 20 years ago.

That the old national rules speed up the game considerably was the unanimous opinion of those who witnessed last night's unique contest. The oldtimers, no longer possessing the speed that marked their play in the days of the old national rules, nevertheless, gave the present-day stars a good battle that was thoroughly enjoyed by the capacity house.

The veterans were permitted to play the game under the old rules, while the youngsters played under the present amateur code. The score was 27 to 21, with the veterans on the short end.

Before the opening battle, two quintets of veterans played a five-minute exhibition of the old national rules. An impressive and solemn tribute was paid to the oldtimers who have passed into the "great beyond" in recent years.

THE J. J. Mieles last night suffered their first defeat in the P. & O. League, losing out to the McKeesport Junkers, 25 to 20, on the McKeesport floor.

Forced to play without their star, Phil Aiello, who is a member of the Pitt Freshmen, the P. & O. League champions extended their opponents to the limit before they bowed in defeat.

That Aiello is the main cog in the Miele machine was easily shown last night when the champions were stopped after winning 11 games in a row.

The Mieles, now that they have been beaten, will be able to function without working under a strain. The defeat should do the club more good than harm. With their comfortable lead in the first-half of the P. & O. League, the Mieles should win the title with points to spare.

YANKEES' BENCH
LYNN LARY

HERE'S ONE OF THE REASONS

The New York Yankees are faced by quite a problem for the 1929 season. They have just purchased Lynn Lary, sensational shortstop of the Oakland Club of the Pacific Coast League, and his playing mate, Jimmy Reese, second baseman, for $150,000 and players, for delivery in 1929. This is more money than the Yankees, lavish spenders in the purchase of playing talent, ever have paid out in one deal, the former record having been the $135,000 paid the Boston Red Sox for Babe Ruth. But what to do with Lary and Reese after they get them will agitate the Yankee minds, for the world champions have a nifty young combination around second base now in Mark Koenig at shortstop and Tony Lazzeri at second and the pair should be good for some years to come. Lou Gehrig, with his fence-busting proclivities, is a fixture at first base, and about the only hole open in the infield for the new pair appears to be at third base, where someone will be needed shortly to fill the shoes of the ageing Joe Dugan. Thus, if Lary and Reese are kept on the bench, the hardwood there will be worth plenty per square inch, and if Koenig and Lazzeri are benched to make room for the newcomers the situation will be just about as tough. Lary and Reese are reputed to be a great keystone sack combination and stellar double play artists. Lary is 21 and Reese 22. The latter last season set a Coast League record for second basemen by handling 1,273 chances.

Two Stocks Have Declined For Every Three Gaining.

By B. C. FORBES

OF the 1,070 stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange how many, do you think, advanced and how many declined last year?

You have heard so much about the wonderful bull market that you perhaps have been misled into thinking that practically all issues have been improving in price.

The plain truth is that 620 stocks rose and 450 fell.

Not only so, but 349 of the gains ranged from only a fraction to $10.

Thus it is clear that we have been witnessing both a bull market and a bear market at the same time, two stocks went down for every three that went up.

IT is to be noted, however, that that the gains were more spectacular than the losses. Thirteen issues rose $100 or more per share, two advanced more than $90, one more than $70, ten more than $60 and 14 more than $50 per share, as is shown by the compilation made by Eugene F. Hartley of the International Business Machines Corporation, to whom this column is indebted for these figures.

I HAVE had compiled four tables, showing the star performers on the bull side, including railway, industrial and utility issues, and some of the issues which suffered severe declines.

One noteworthy feature is the record made by mining and allied companies. Manufacturing companies also are conspicuous, as the following table reveals. The figures give the year's low quotation, the closing quotation on December 31 and the gain achieved:

INDUSTRIALS.

ALTHOUGH railway stocks have attracted extraordinary attention, the records show they have not scored as sensational gains as numbers of industrials. The best performers among the rails and the utilities include:

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(AP.)—The cotton market opened steady today at unchanged prices to an advance of 5 points and sold about 6 to 10 points net higher in early trading on covering and trade or commission house buying.

The advance was accompanied by reports of a steady spot situation with somewhat improved demand in the South, and also seemed to be influenced by the continued large sales of spot cotton reported in the Liverpool market, which for the second day in succession, amounted to 15,000 bales.

The bulge met realizing and the market was comparatively quiet, but steady, at the end of the first hour, prices showing reactions or 5 or 6 points from the best.

MARKET TURNS STRONG AFTER REACTION

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(AP.)—An impressive demonstration of strength took place in today's stock market following the sweeping reaction of yesterday. All classes of stocks pointed higher with violent advances of 6 to nearly 12 points taking place in a few volatile specialties. The rally was accompanied by a marked reduction in the volume of trading.

Fears of higher money rates which developed as a result of the unusually large increase in brokers loans, apparently had been allayed by the lowering of the call money renewal rate to 4 per cent. Operators for the advance marked up their favorites on the theory that a substantial portion of the January dividend and interest disbursements would find their way back into the securities markets.

Weekly mercantile reviews showed a fairly cheerful tone and new building construction was reported as unusually large for the first week of the year. Recent stiffening of crude oil prices and merger rumors also have had a tendency to draw speculative attention to those issues. Activity of Texas Corporation and California Petroleum was directly attributed to reports that negotiations were pending for the consolidation of those companies.

Christie Brown, Coty, Midland Steel Products preferred and American Shipbuilding scored spectacular advances of 8⅛ to 11¼ points. International Nickel, General Asphalt common and preferred, American International, Montgomery-Ward and International Match preferred sold 4 to 6 points higher. New high prices since 1926 or longer were registered by Transue & Williams, Sweets Company of America, Jones Bros. Tea and Coca Cola. U. S. Steel common, which had dropped to 148 yesterday, sold today around 151½.

The closing was strong. Investment shares of the caliber of Adams Express, Delaware and Hudson and Canadian Pacific were in the van of the upturn in the final hour, indicating the reinvestment demand was becoming more of a factor in the market's rise. A number of specialty stocks also rose in a particularly forceful manner, notably Radio and Union Carbide. Total sales approximated 2,800,000 shares.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Market Position Improved.

Yesterday's shake-out improved the technical position of the stock list materially. Money opened for the week-end borrowing at 4 per cent and there was a generally better feeling all around. The $341,000,000 increase in New York Stock Exchange members' loans for the month of December was regarded as representing a lot of buying throughout the month in anticipation of dividend and interest payments to be received at the year-end. Observers are inclined to believe that a considerable portion of the year-end distributions will go to liquidate the debt against the December purchases and automatically adjust the loan position. First grade industrials received strong support today and while prices did not reach the highs of Tuesday afternoon, there were indications of good buying in many leaders. The weekly loan total covering borrowings on stocks and bonds by all dealers at the New York Federal Reserve member banks was up $92,000,000, but the same theories applied to this expansion were thought to have affected the monthly figures of the stock exchange members.

Weekly Loans at Peak.

Loans to brokers by New York Federal Reserve banks totaled $3,810,023,000 January 4, an increase of $92,401,000 over December 28 and a new high record, the Federal Reserve board announced.

November Rail Net Off.

Net railway operating income of Class 1 railroads dropped to $86,474,255 in November, compared with $113,940,403 in the same month of 1926, the Bureau of Railway Economics announced. This showed an annual rate of return on property investment of 3.71 per cent, against 5.29 the previous year. The gross revenues dropped from $542,255,000 to $503,819,000. For the first 11 months of 1927 net railway operating income was $1,023,142,000, against $1,112,872,000 in the same period of 1926.

New York Bank Rate Unchanged.

Rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York remains unchanged at 3½ per cent.

Reserve Ratio Higher.

New York Federal Reserve Bank ratio was 65.9 per cent January 4, against 61.4 per cent last week and 75.4 per cent a year ago. The Federal Reserve system ratio was 61.3, against 66.8 and 71.9.

Blast Furnace Activity.

At the close of the year, 176 of the country's blast furnaces were active, representing 47.6 per cent of the stacks now available for the manufacture of iron. The same number of furnaces was in blast at the end of November but they represented a smaller percentage of the total capacity, as two furnaces were scrapped in the interval. A year ago 55 per cent of the country's capacity was active.

Record Bank Clearings.

Bank clearings in December, as reported to Bradstreet's from 127 cities, totaled $51,191,792,000, an increase of 8.8 per cent over the preceding month of 11.4 per cent over the like month a year ago, and the largest total for any month on record. For the 12 months ended with December, clearings aggregated $546,375,036,000, also a new high record and an increase of 6 per cent over 1926, the previous record year. Reflection of the high rate of speculative activity is had in the fact that New York City's clearings gained 19.4 per cent in December and 10.6 per cent for the year 1927, whereas the gains by the 126 cities outside New York for the like period were only six-tenths of 1 per cent and one-tenth of 1 per cent, respectively.

Americans Aid Foreigners.

Americans loaned $1,547,979,575 to foreign borrowers in 1927, the largest sum in the history of foreign financing, the Commerce Department announced. This total of foreign securities publicly offered in this country was 8.29 per cent more than the previous record figure of 1926. The total of new capital—$1,376,592,575—showed a much larger increase, topping the 1926 record by $342,000,000. A new high record of $534,375,500 was set for the three months from October to December. The department recorded 244 issues of foreign securities during the year, the largest number ever known. Europe was the largest buyer, with Latin America next. Four British concerns came to America for funds. Large loans predominated in the latter part of the year, 13 during the last quarter amounting to $15,000,000 or more. Private and direct investments and credits aggregating more than $450,000,000 were reported by the department for the year, in addition to the security issues.

Structural Orders Larger.

Structural steel orders during the past week are estimated at 36,000 tons, comparing with 24,000 tons in the week preceding. New inquiries totaled 12,000 tons, against 26,000 tons.

Timken $4,000,000 Expansion.

Timken Roller Bearing Company has appropriated approximately $4,000,000 for additional steel mill and bearing plant equipment, according to J. F. Strough, secretary treasurer.

Beech-Nut Packing.

Beech-Nut Packing's recent rise to its best prices since 1921 at 79¾ was accompanied by reports that the company was considering a merger with Postum Cereal or Life Savers. These rumors are denied by Bartlett Arkell, president of Beech-Nut, who says the company is not contemplating consolidation with, or absorption of, any other concerns. "We prefer to paddle our own canoe," President Arkell says. "We are doing very well as the statement for 1927 will show. Our general business is materially better."

Gulf Oil Record Year.

Crude production of Gulf Oil Corporation, domestic and foreign, in 1927 made a new record, estimated at 70,000,000 barrels, or an average close to 190,000 barrels daily. Of this 145,000 was domestic, 12,000 Mexican and balance in Venezuela. Gulf's production is exceeded only by that of Standard Oil of New Jersey and the Royal Dutch-Shell group. In 1926 Gulf produced 44,000,000 barrels of crude, an average of 120,000 barrels daily. Production at the end of 1926 attained much higher levels, close to 190,000 daily.

1927 Equipment Orders.

Domestic orders for equipment in December totaled 149 locomotives, 14,111 freight cars and 113 passenger cars, according to the Railway Age. No export orders were received by American makers during the month. Total domestic orders for 1927 are estimated at about 700 locomotives, more than 70,000 freight cars and about 1,600 passenger cars. Export orders are expected to approximate 50 locomotives, 410 freight cars and 45 passenger cars. Due to the buying movement which took place in December and also to some revision of figures for the first 11 months, the year's totals will make a better comparison with 1926 than had been anticipated.

Speaking of Nest Eggs.

One banker asserts public guessing on the wealthiest families in the United States names the Ford family as first, with the Rockefeller, Mellon and Baker families following in the order given. But the banker differs. He says that based on actual value of securities and asset value of other property owned, the Mellon family might head the list. He cites the Gulf Oil Company as one reason for his contention. The 4,399,718 shares of stock of Gulf Oil are selling in the market for the equivalent of $569,935,000, and the Mellon family is credited with owning more than 50 per cent of the stock. And this is only one of the big industries in which the Mellon family is interested.

Pennsylvania Carloadings.

In the week ended December 31 the Pennsylvania Railroad handled 105,810 cars, against 118,081 for the previous week and 121,891 in 1926. For the year the road moved 8,376,151 cars, against 8,903,734 in 1926.

Arbuckle Raises Sugar.

Arbuckle Brothers have advanced refined sugar 5 points to 5.90 cents a pound.

Simmons Denies Shut-down.

President Simmons of the Simmons Company, today denied a report that the company was to close down one of its important plants. He stated that business was now being carried on at the highest level for this period in the history of the company.

Bellas-Hess Receipts Down.

Net cash receipts of National Bellas Hess Company for 1927 were $11,917,052, against $14,519,335 in 1926, a decrease of 17.9 per cent.

Arkansas Enjoys Mild Flurry

Stocks were stronger in the early dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today with United Engineering recovering to the high mark of the previous session and Arkansas Gas enjoying a little flurry of more or less obscure impulse.

Engineering came into sudden demand yesterday morning, but the bad crack in the New York market halted the advance and there was a subsequent decline of more than a point from the best price. This morning's buying closed up the gap. Engineering is said to have certain valuable rights in connection with installation of the new four-high mills under American Rolling Mill's patents and there is also a pronounced feeling that when dividends are inaugurated on the new Engineering shares they will be at an attractive rate.

Arkansas Gas bulged a fraction, but the street's only explanation was that the "deal may be on again." There have been rumors for several months that Arkansas will sell its gas properties to Cities Service interests.

The Board of Directors of Duquesne Light Company has called a special meeting of Stockholders to be held at the chief office of the Company, No. 435 Sixth avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on Saturday, March 10th, 1928, at 11:00 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of voting for or against authorizing Common Capital Stock of the Company to consist of Two Million (2,000,000) shares without nominal or par value;

Also, for the purpose of voting for or against changing or converting Two Hundred Fifty Thousand (250,000) shares of the Participating Preferred Stock 8% Cumulative, Series A, of the Company, of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) each, of an aggregate par value of Twenty-five Million Dollars ($25,000,000), and being all of the Participating Preferred Stock of the Company now outstanding, into One Million (1,000,000) shares of Common Stock without nominal or par value, included in the aforesaid Two Million (2,000,000) shares of Common Stock without nominal or par value; and for the purpose of voting for or against changing or converting Two Hundred Fifty Thousand (250,000) shares of the Common Stock of the Company, of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) each, of an aggregate par value of Twenty-five Million Dollars ($25,000,000), and being all the Common Stock of the Company now outstanding, into One Million (1,000,000) shares of Common Stock without nominal or par value, included in the aforesaid Two Million (2,000,000) shares of Common Stock without nominal or par value;

Also, for the purpose of voting in favor of or against the adoption and approval of a plan for the exchange of shares of said Common Stock and Participating Preferred Stock, 8% Cumulative, Series A, each having a nominal or par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) a share, being Two Hundred Fifty Thousand (250,000) shares of Common Stock of an aggregate par value of Twenty-five Million Dollars ($25,000,000), and Two Hundred Fifty Thousand (250,000) shares of Participating Preferred Stock, 8% Cumulative, Series A, of an aggregate par value of Twenty-five Million Dollars ($25,000,000), for Two Million (2,000,000) shares of Common Stock without nominal or par value; that is to say, for each share of Common Stock of a par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100) and for each share of Participating Preferred Stock, 8% Cumulative, Series A, having a par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100), there shall be issued four shares of Common Stock without nominal or par value; and upon the surrender by the holders thereof of the certificates for the Common Stock and Participating Preferred Stock with nominal or par value, there shall be issued for each share a certificate or certificates for four shares of the said Common Stock without nominal or par value;

Also, for the purpose of voting for or against an increase in the authorized common capital stock of the Company from Two Million (2,000,000) shares without nominal or par value to Four Million (4,000,000) shares without nominal or par value;

Also, for the purpose of voting for or against the creation, out of the One Hundred and Fifty Million Dollars ($150,000,000) par value First Preferred Stock authorized at the meeting of stockholders of Duquesne Light Company held June 4, 1923, of Fifty Million Dollars ($50,000,000) par value of 5% Cumulative First Preferred Stock having the following general characteristics: It shall have a par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100) per share; it shall be entitled to [illegible] at the rate of five per cent (5%) per annum [illegible] as to dividends over every class of stock other than First Preferred Stock; dividends shall be payable as and if declared, quarterly, on the fifteenth days of January, April, July and October in each year for the three months' period ending on the last day of the preceding month to holders of record at dates to be fixed at the time of each declaration by the Board of Directors; it shall be redeemable as a whole or in part at any time upon thirty (30) days' notice at One Hundred and Ten Dollars ($110) per share and accrued dividends; in the event of any voluntary distribution by the Company of capital assets among stockholders (except in dissolution or liquidation) it shall be entitled to receive One Hundred and Ten Dollars ($110) per share and accrued dividends and no more, for which it shall have preference over all other classes of stock, except First Preferred Stock; in case of involuntary distribution by the Company of capital assets among stockholders and in dissolution or liquidation it shall be entitled to One Hundred Dollars ($100) per share and accrued dividends and no more for which it shall have preference over all other classes of stock, except First Preferred Stock; while any of the 5% Cumulative First Preferred Stock shall be outstanding, no stock shall be created superior to it, and no stock shall be created ranking equally with it except First Preferred Stock, which may be issued in series of varying characteristics, including dividend rate, redemption price and preference as to assets, ranking equally with the 5% Cumulative First Preferred Stock; no First Preferred Stock whether 5% Cumulative First Preferred Stock or First Preferred Stock of any other series may be issued unless net income, (as defined in the resolutions to be submitted for adoption at the aforesaid meeting), for twelve (12) consecutive months ended not more than ninety (90) days prior to the date on which it is proposed to issue the additional stock, has been equal to at least three (3) times the annual requirement for the payment of dividends on all First Preferred Stock then outstanding, including the amount to be issued; except as required by the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 5% Cumulative First Preferred Stock shall have no voting power on any question unless and only so long as dividends aggregating five per cent (5%) shall have accrued and be unpaid upon it, in which case the holder of each share thereof shall be entitled to one vote; the holders of said stock shall not be entitled to subscribe for capital stock or for securities convertible into capital stock of Duquesne Light Company;

Also, for the purpose of voting for or against the removal of all provisions and restrictions relating to First Preferred Stock, 7% Cumulative, Series A, upon the redemption on March 15, 1928, of the Thirty Million Dollars ($30,000,000) par value thereof now outstanding;

Also, for the purpose of voting upon the fixing of the "stated capital" of Duquesne Light Company upon the redemption of Thirty Million Dollars ($30,000,000) par value, First Preferred Stock, 7% Cumulative, Series A, the issuance of Twenty Million Dollars ($20,000,000), par value, 5% Cumulative First Preferred Stock and the change or conversion of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand (250,000) shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100) each, of Participating Preferred Stock, 8% Cumulative, Series A, and Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand (250,000) shares of Common Stock of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100) each, into Two Million (2,000,000) shares of Common Stock without nominal or par value, all of which shall be accomplished on or after March 15, 1928;

Also, for the purpose of voting on any question or questions which may be brought before said meeting germane to the foregoing.

Stockholders of record at the close of business January 9, 1928, will be entitled to vote at the meeting.

OFFICE OF THE COMPTROLLER OF ALLEGHENY COUNTY.
Pittsburgh, Pa., January 5th, 1928.

Sealed proposals will be received at this office until 11:00 o'clock a. m., Eastern Standard Time, Monday, January 16th, 1928, for interest on daily balances of the deposits of funds collected by the Pension Board of Employes of Allegheny County.

Cashier's check to the amount of $500.00 will be required with each proposal, said check to be forfeited to the County Pension Board unless the bank or banking institution named as depositories shall enter into a contract accepting the naming of it as one of the depositories and give bond for the amount named by the Employes Pension Board as security for the full amount of the deposit awarded. Said bond from time to time shall be increased, or may be diminished pro rata, to the amount of deposit in depository on notice from the Pension Board.

A certified statement of the financial condition of the banking institution as of December 31st, 1927, must also accompany each bid.

Any information desired, together with rules under which depositories will be governed, will be furnished on application at the office of the County Controller.

The board named by the Act of Assembly, 1919, P. L. 158, reserves the right to reject any or all bids. Attention is called to section 9, of said act, whereby said banks or banking institutions, shall have a paid-in capital and surplus of not less than $500,000.00.

All proposals must be addressed to the "Pension Board Employes of Allegheny County," and filed in the office of the County Controller.

ROBERT G. WOODSIDE, County Controller.

FARMERS DEPOSIT NATIONAL BANK.
Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 9, 1927.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of this bank to elect directors to serve for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting will be held at the banking house, corner of Fifth avenue and Wood street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Tuesday, January 10th, 1928, between the hours of 11:30 a. m. and 12:00 noon.

At this meeting the shareholders of the bank will also be called upon to elect a trustee to serve as one of the three trustees holding the shares of stock of the Farmers Deposit Trust Company in trust for the stockholders of the Farmers Deposit National Bank, this election being necessary to fill the vacancy among such trustees caused by the death of J. H. Reed. Under the resolution of the board of directors appointing three trustees for this purpose, the vacancy must be filled by a vote of a majority in interest of the holders of shares of stock of the Farmers Deposit National Bank at a meeting called for that purpose.

Yours very truly,
J. H. JONES, Cashier.

THE BANK OF PITTSBURGH, National Association.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF PENNSYLVANIA.
In the matter of ALBERT SMITH, individually and trading as SMITH'S FUR SHOP. No. 15821; in bankruptcy.
ORDER OF COURT.

And now, to-wit: This 3rd day of January, A. D. 1928, the within petition having been presented in open court and upon due consideration thereof and upon motion of I. A. Melnick, attorney for petitioner, it is hereby ordered, adjudged and decreed that a meeting of the creditors of Albert Smith, individually, and trading as SMITH FUR SHOP, be called and held at the office of Watson B. Adair, referee in bankruptcy, Room 24, St. Nicholas Building, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on the 19th day of January, 1928, at 10:00 o'clock a. m., for allowance of claims, examination of bankrupt, the preservation and conduct of his estate and offer in composition, at which meeting the said referee shall preside. The said referee shall report to the court within four days after such meeting the claims of the creditors allowed by him, the action of said creditors upon the offer of composition, his findings and conclusions of the same and any other proceedings had before him in the said case; and shall give notice to the creditors at such meeting that the terms of composition, if accepted by the requisite amount of claims as prescribed by law, will be presented before this court for final confirmation on the 24th day of January, 1928, at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

It is further ordered and decreed that notice shall be given by the clerk by mailing a copy of this order to each of the creditors and by publishing a copy thereof in the Pittsburgh Legal Journal and in The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, as prescribed by law.

It is further ordered and decreed that all other proceedings in this case shall, in the meantime, be stayed until it shall be determined whether such composition shall be confirmed.

PER CURIAM.

ASKS P. & W. VA. LINK DENIAL

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The proposal of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad to construct 38 miles of new line between Connellsville and Cochran's Mill, Pa., at a cost of $12,800,000 received a staggering blow today when C. V. Burnside, assistant director of finance of the Interstate Commerce Commission, recommended that the application be denied.

Burnside's recommendation said that such denial should be "without prejudice to renewal of the application in connection with proceedings properly involving the general questions of railroad consolidation in eastern trunk line territory."

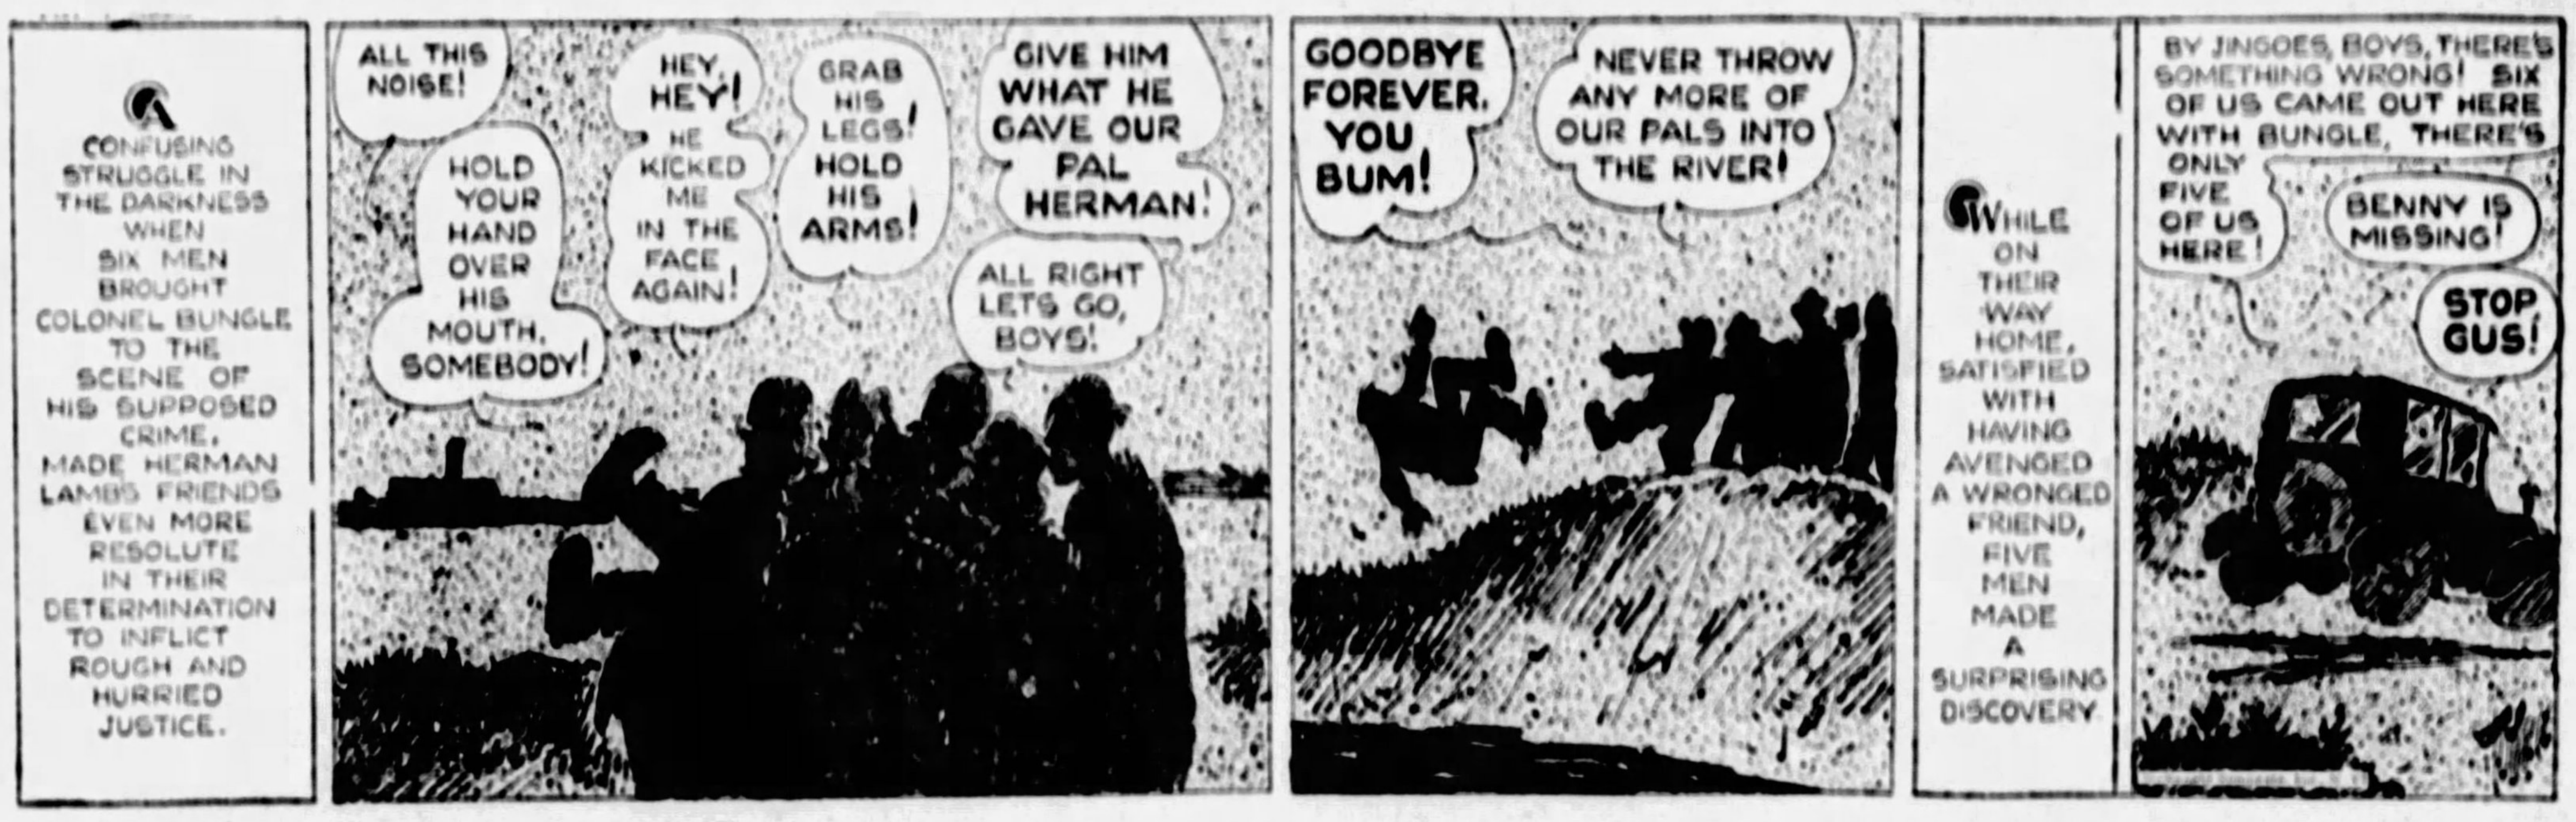
THE BUNGLE FAMILY

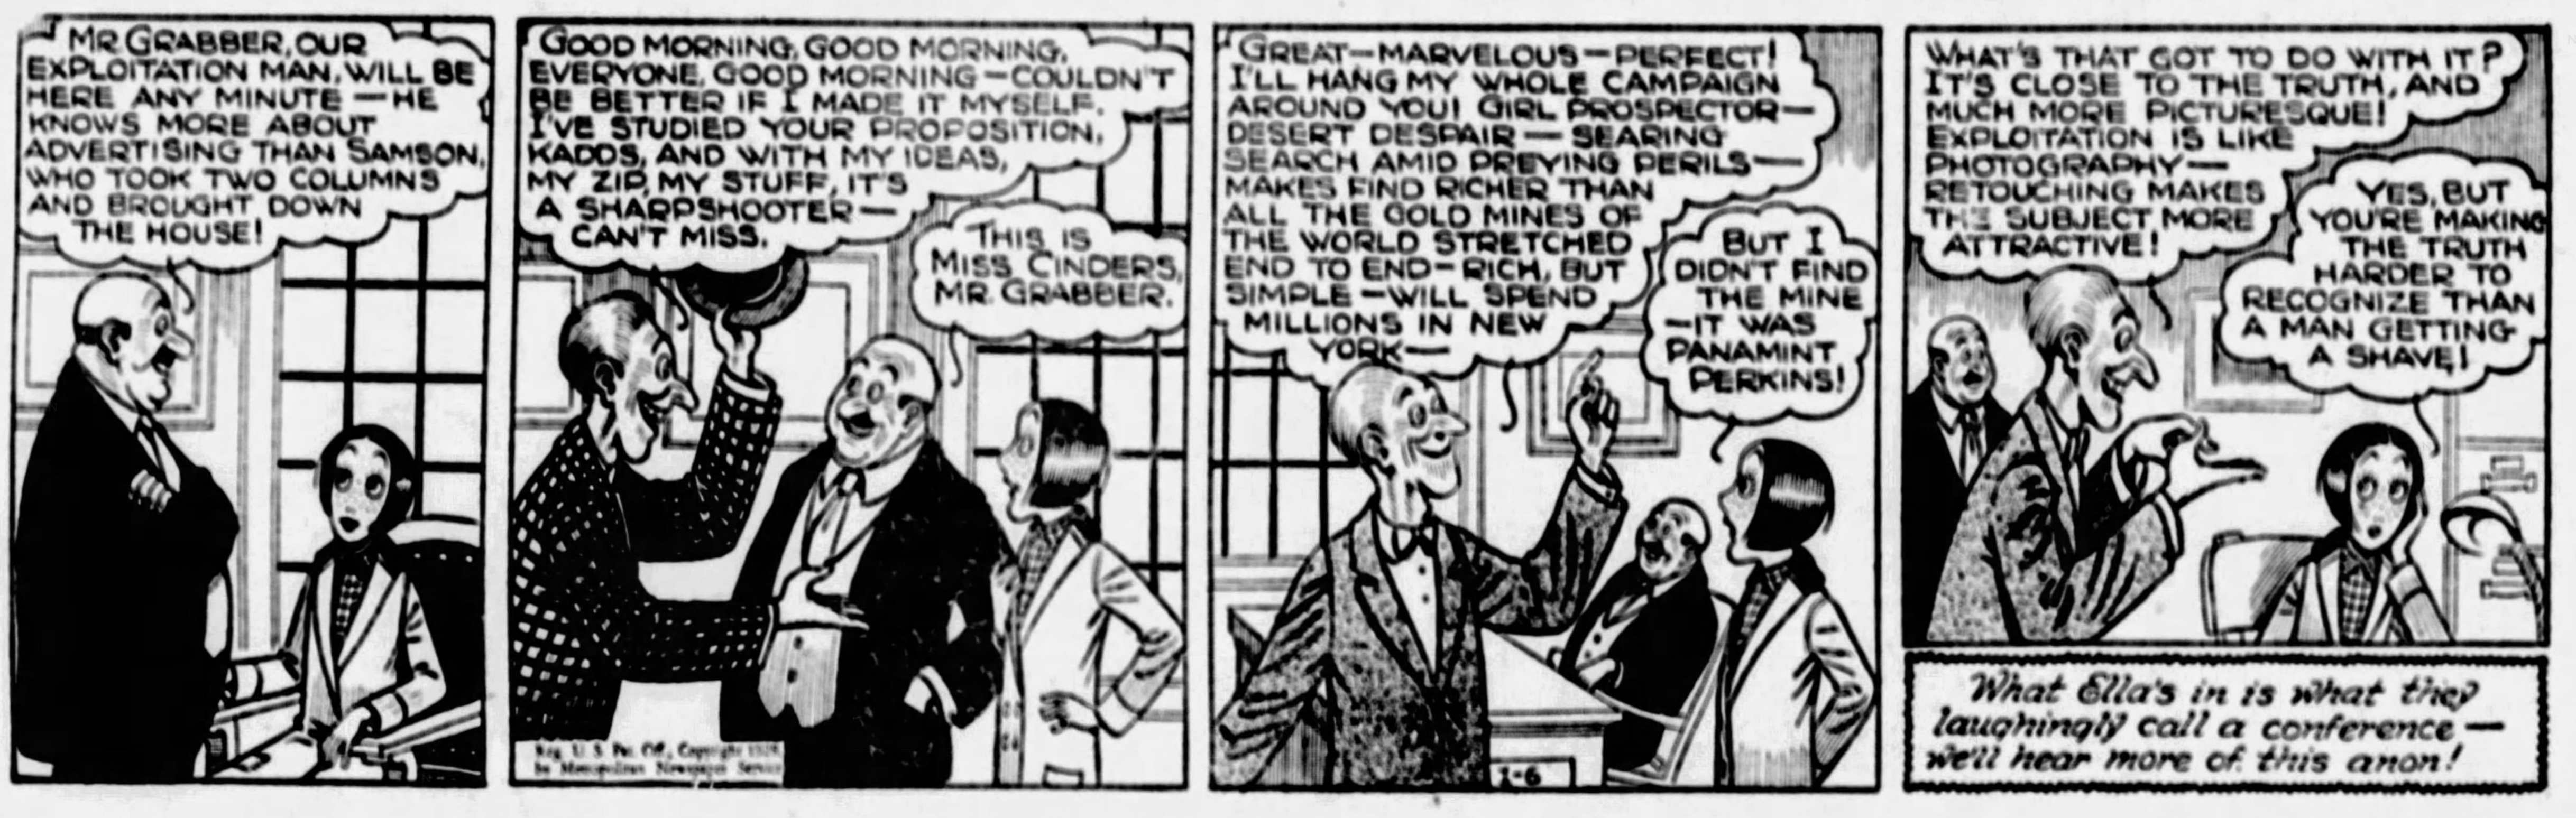
Oh, Oh! Something Wrong!



A CONFUSING STRUGGLE IN THE DARKNESS WHEN SIX MEN BROUGHT COLONEL BUNGLE TO THE SCENE OF HIS SUPPOSED CRIME, MADE HERMAN LAMB'S FRIENDS EVEN MORE RESOLUTE IN THEIR DETERMINATION TO INFLICT ROUGH AND HURRIED JUSTICE.
ALL THIS NOISE!
HOLD YOUR HAND OVER HIS MOUTH, SOMEBODY!
HEY, HEY! HE KICKED ME IN THE FACE AGAIN!
GRAB HIS LEGS! HOLD HIS ARMS!
GIVE HIM WHAT HE GAVE OUR PAL HERMAN!
ALL RIGHT LETS GO, BOYS!
GOODBYE FOREVER, YOU BUM!
NEVER THROW ANY MORE OF OUR PALS INTO THE RIVER!
WHILE ON THEIR WAY HOME, SATISFIED WITH HAVING AVENGED A WRONGED FRIEND, FIVE MEN MADE A SURPRISING DISCOVERY
BY JINGOES, BOYS, THERE'S SOMETHING WRONG! SIX OF US CAME OUT HERE WITH BUNGLE, THERE'S ONLY FIVE OF US HERE!
BENNY IS MISSING!
STOP GUS!

ELLA CINDERS

The Important Conference



MR GRABBER, OUR EXPLOITATION MAN, WILL BE HERE ANY MINUTE – HE KNOWS MORE ABOUT ADVERTISING THAN SAMSON, WHO TOOK TWO COLUMNS AND BROUGHT DOWN THE HOUSE!
GOOD MORNING, GOOD MORNING, EVERYONE, GOOD MORNING – COULDN'T BE BETTER IF I MADE IT MYSELF. I'VE STUDIED YOUR PROPOSITION, KADDS, AND WITH MY IDEAS, MY ZIP, MY STUFF, IT'S A SHARPSHOOTER – CAN'T MISS.
THIS IS MISS CINDERS, MR. GRABBER.
GREAT – MARVELOUS – PERFECT! I'LL HANG MY WHOLE CAMPAIGN AROUND YOU! GIRL PROSPECTOR – DESERT DESPAIR – SEARING SEARCH AMID PREYING PERILS – MAKES FIND RICHER THAN ALL THE GOLD MINES OF THE WORLD STRETCHED END TO END – RICH, BUT SIMPLE – WILL SPEND MILLIONS IN NEW YORK –
BUT I DIDN'T FIND THE MINE – IT WAS PANAMINT PERKINS!
WHAT'S THAT GOT TO DO WITH IT? IT'S CLOSE TO THE TRUTH, AND MUCH MORE PICTURESQUE! EXPLOITATION IS LIKE PHOTOGRAPHY – RETOUCHING MAKES THE SUBJECT MORE ATTRACTIVE!
YES, BUT YOU'RE MAKING THE TRUTH HARDER TO RECOGNIZE THAN A MAN GETTING A SHAVE!
What Ella's in is what they laughingly call a conference – we'll hear more of this anon!

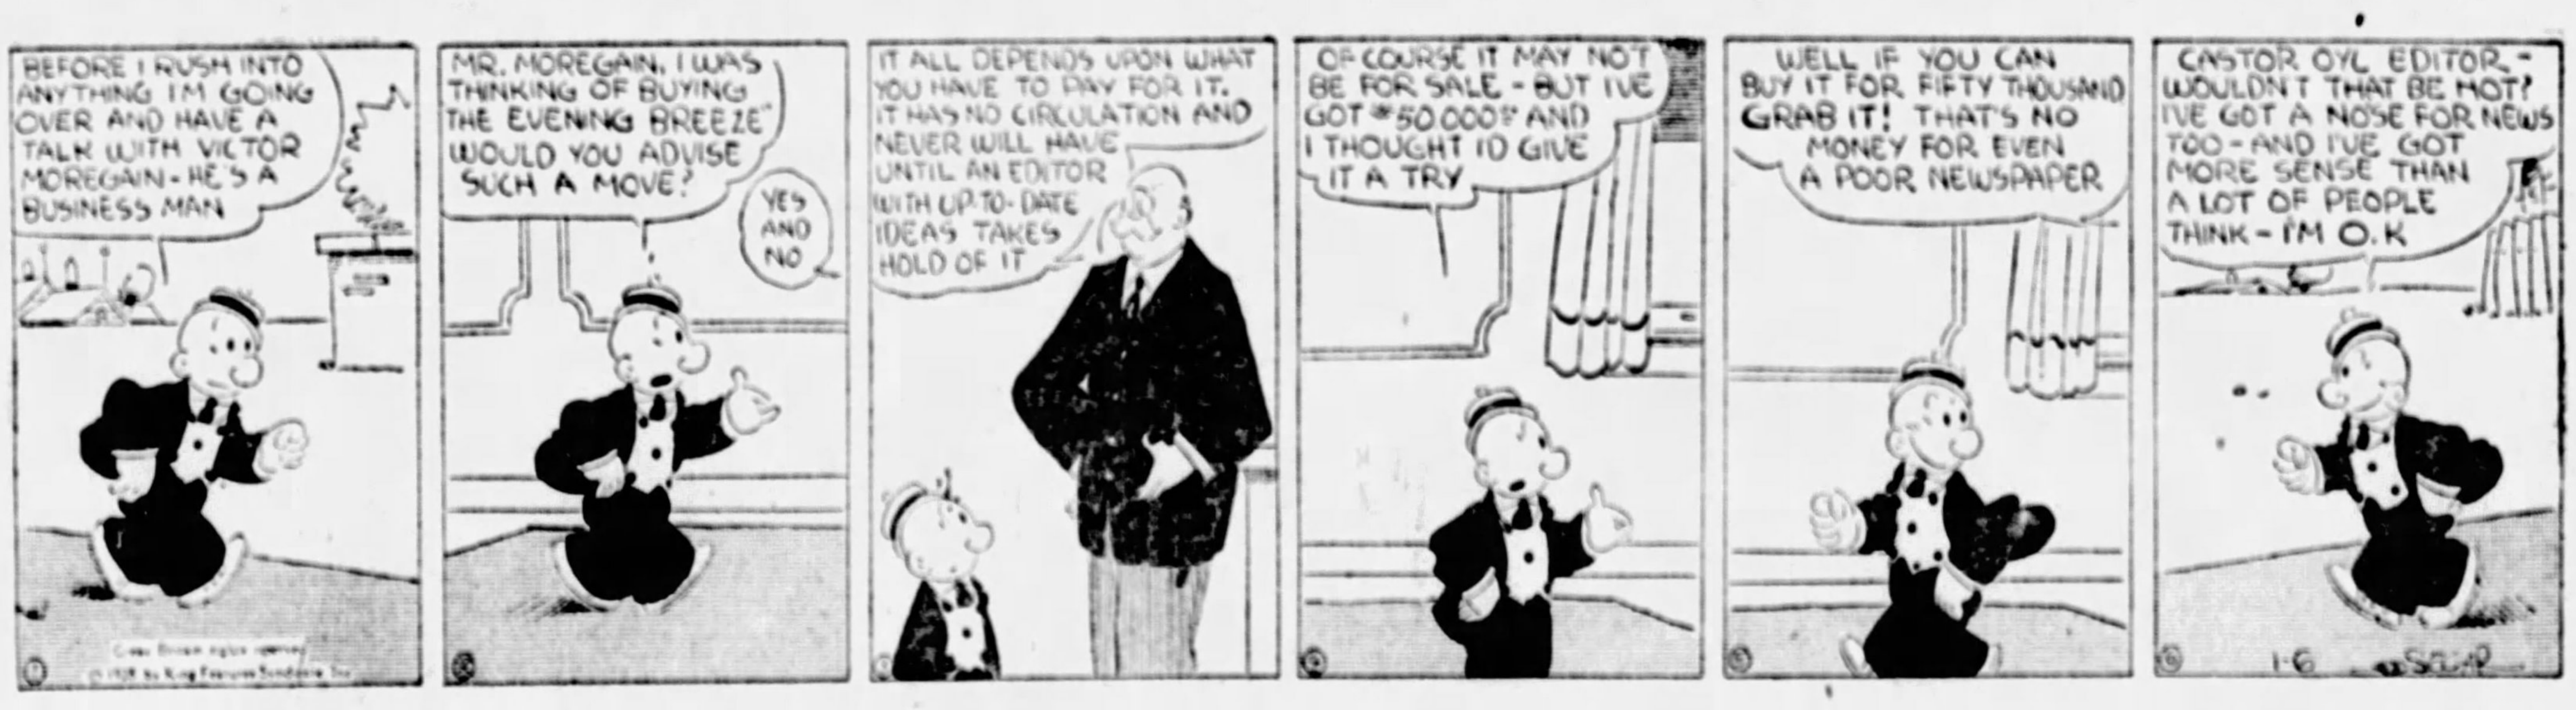
A Couple of Bargains



BEFORE I RUSH INTO ANYTHING I'M GOING OVER AND HAVE A TALK WITH VICTOR MOREGAIN – HE'S A BUSINESS MAN
MR. MOREGAIN, I WAS THINKING OF BUYING THE EVENING BREEZE – WOULD YOU ADVISE SUCH A MOVE?
YES AND NO
IT ALL DEPENDS UPON WHAT YOU HAVE TO PAY FOR IT. IT HAS NO CIRCULATION AND NEVER WILL HAVE UNTIL AN EDITOR WITH UP-TO-DATE IDEAS TAKES HOLD OF IT
OF COURSE IT MAY NOT BE FOR SALE – BUT I'VE GOT $50,000 AND I THOUGHT I'D GIVE IT A TRY
WELL IF YOU CAN BUY IT FOR FIFTY THOUSAND GRAB IT! THAT'S NO MONEY FOR EVEN A POOR NEWSPAPER
CASTOR OYL EDITOR – WOULDN'T THAT BE HOT? I'VE GOT A NOSE FOR NEWS TOO – AND I'VE GOT MORE SENSE THAN A LOT OF PEOPLE THINK – I'M O.K

GOSH MA THERE'S THAT MR. LA FLEUR WHO WORKS IN OUR OFFICE IN HIS CAR I'LL BET HE WANTS TO DRIVE ME TO THE OFFICE. BUT I DON'T CARE ABOUT GOING WITH HIM
I THINK THAT'S ALL RIGHT, TILLIE, IF HE WORKS IN YOUR OFFICE
BON JOUR, MEES JONES. MAY I HAVE ZE PLEASURE OF DRIVING YOU TO ZE OFFICE!
OH, HOW LOVELY-THANKS A LOT, MR. LA FLEUR
MR. LA FLEUR CALLED FOR ME IN HIS CAR THIS MORNING, MAC. I HAD THE MOST EXCITING TIME HE PROPOSED TO ME ALL THE WAY UP TO THE OFFICE
HE'S GOT HIS NERVE-WHAT DID YOU SAY?
I FINALLY TOLD HIM I WAS ENGAGED TO YOU. I HAD TO TELL HIM SOMETHING. HE WAS GETTING EXCITED

BUGS BAER Says

LOOKING BACKWARD FOF FUTURE REFERENCE

RECENT raids by prohibition agents have been made under the banner of an old law of 1827. A very interesting year, when tomatoes were supposed to be poison, whiskers were prestige and an epitaph was respected as the truth.

In the year 1827 gentlemen drank their liquor straight and walked on the gutter side. Now a drinking gentleman is fortunate if he can last long enough to reach the gutter side.

ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER.

We have ukuleles to pick with the laws of 1827. But it is certainly going a long way back for testimony. It required a century for this law to become effective, which is fast work and an indication that the mills of the gods are under new management.

Quite a few states are reaching back of the roller towel for ancient laws. The old English statutes are becoming popular again. We kicked off the yoke in 1776, but we love the handcuffs.

Do you know that the chauffeur of a 1928 car is under the same mandates and by-laws as a Babylonian mule-skinner sunk to his hubs on the Ur boulevard? Do you care to realize that, if the lawmakers of America get tired, all they have to do is to reach back a few centuries and shake the mice out of the ordinances of Ubbel-el-Guff, who declared it illegal for citizens to throw a shadow without royal permission?

The legal crop of 138 B. C. authorized wife-beating and paid a bonus to veterans of the domestic courts. Is there any husband of 1928 who feels either robust or historic enough to enforce this jovial mandate? Is there any man who is willing to give battle for the glory and authentication of his ancestors who are now safe under a thick rampart of years and six shock-absorbing feet of earth?

There will not be one who will not find it easier to join his ancestors than to enforce their codicils.

When Stephen Decatur toasted his country, right or wrong, he didn't attempt to diagnose the percentage of correctness and error. He realized that we had too many laws in the early days of liberty, but he also knew he would be out of the rural free delivery zone by the time those laws became effective.

The intent of a law outlives its usefulness as the twin trouser of a two-pants suit outlive the coat. It is just as surprising to be lowbridged by a statute of 1827 as it would be to be scalped b tomahawk that had been flying around in the air ever since an dian tossed it at Braddock at Duquesne in 1766. This may not ha been the exact date, and it might have been two other fellows. But the idea is there.

Every statue of justice we ever saw portrays the lady holding a set of empty scales, when she should have been actually clutching an old clothes bag.

ouncil Makes Budget— Now Let City Stick to It

For running the city the current year Council yesterday limited the expenditure to $25,000,000, the budget being increased by little more than $2,000,000 over that of 1927. Millage increased to 25 on land and 12½ on buildings, increased valuation throughout the city and revenue from two additional wards acquired by annexation are expected to provide the additional revenue needed to balance the budget.

Much as citizens deplore the constantly increasing cost of government they will find little room for criticism of Council in having increased the budget. Its members are all men of practical bent who know the political value of economy when voting time arrives. If they could have safely pared the budget any closer they would have done it, undoubtedly. They had to meet demands from all departments of city administration for adequate funds to conduct them efficiently. There is no doubt their final decision was the best that could be arrived at, conditions considered.

Thoughtful citizens will not be amazed at the increase nor resentful of it. They realize that city expenses increase as well as those of the individual. But they will expect that the money be wisely expended. They will expect economy to be the watchword. They will expect service for dollars. They will expect department heads to adhere rigidly to their allowances. They will not be pleased at deficits at the end of the year except such as many arise through the most extraordinary circumstances.

The budget has been made—STICK TO IT!

Agency for Relief Opened As Coal Drama Goes On

Headquarters for the relief of families in the mining districts have been established in the old South school building, Diamond and Ross streets, opened by a joint committee of clergymen of various denominations. It is ready to receive contributions of clothing, food and cash.

The plight of the unfortunate has been told and retold. It should only be necessary now to point out that a central agency for relief is open to the charitably inclined. If a spur be needed, think of the temperaure! Imagine the deadly hand of tragedy having its blow strengthened by the cold!

And while you are thinking about this drama that is unfolding itself give some attention to the possibilities, as defined by Dr. Colston E. Warne, associate professor of economics, University of Pittsburgh. He foresees dire extremeties unless the coal strike be settled and the coal industry stabilized.

He sees no solution other than Federal intervention, and is not clear how that can be accomplished. Rightly, he sees that the government cannot compel operators to pay a certain wage scale.

Discussion of the situation, as recently invited by Secretary of Labor Davis, might have been productive of a way out. Big operators did not choose to ascertain. Meanwhile the tragedy goes on—and will continue to go on indefinitely.

And the need for relief at the collieries continues.

Oxygen and Heat

Those Two, Plus Water, Make Up Life

WARMING AN UNDERSIZED BABY.

This interesting picture shows how Mrs. Charles Gartner used hot water bottles to increase the vitality and strength of her tiny baby, weighing only four pounds and three ounces when a month old.

The wise mother knew her small baby girl could not supply heat enough to warm herself and her bedding, so she supplied heat from the outside, and the baby throve.

HEAT IS LIFE.

And OXYGEN is life. You are reminded of the importance of oxygen, in reading about the submarine tragedy in which many brave men recently lost their lives.

They could have lived indefinitely, and would undoubtedly have been saved, had it been possible for a sister submarine to send in new supplies of oxygen.

Because that could not be done, the brave men imprisoned below the water, were all condemned to heroic death.

That should be remembered by those of us, fortunate, SAFE, above the water and above the ground, with unlimited supplies of oxygen all around us.

Many of us fail to appreciate the importance of oxygen, sleep foolishly with windows closed, and neglect to form abit of deep breathing. We never take sufficient exercise, ause intense breathing, and expulsion from the lungs of residuary air'' which stays there, stale and unprofitable, until rong exercise forces it out.

Heat, oxygen, AND WATER, those are the three things portant to life: without them life cannot last.

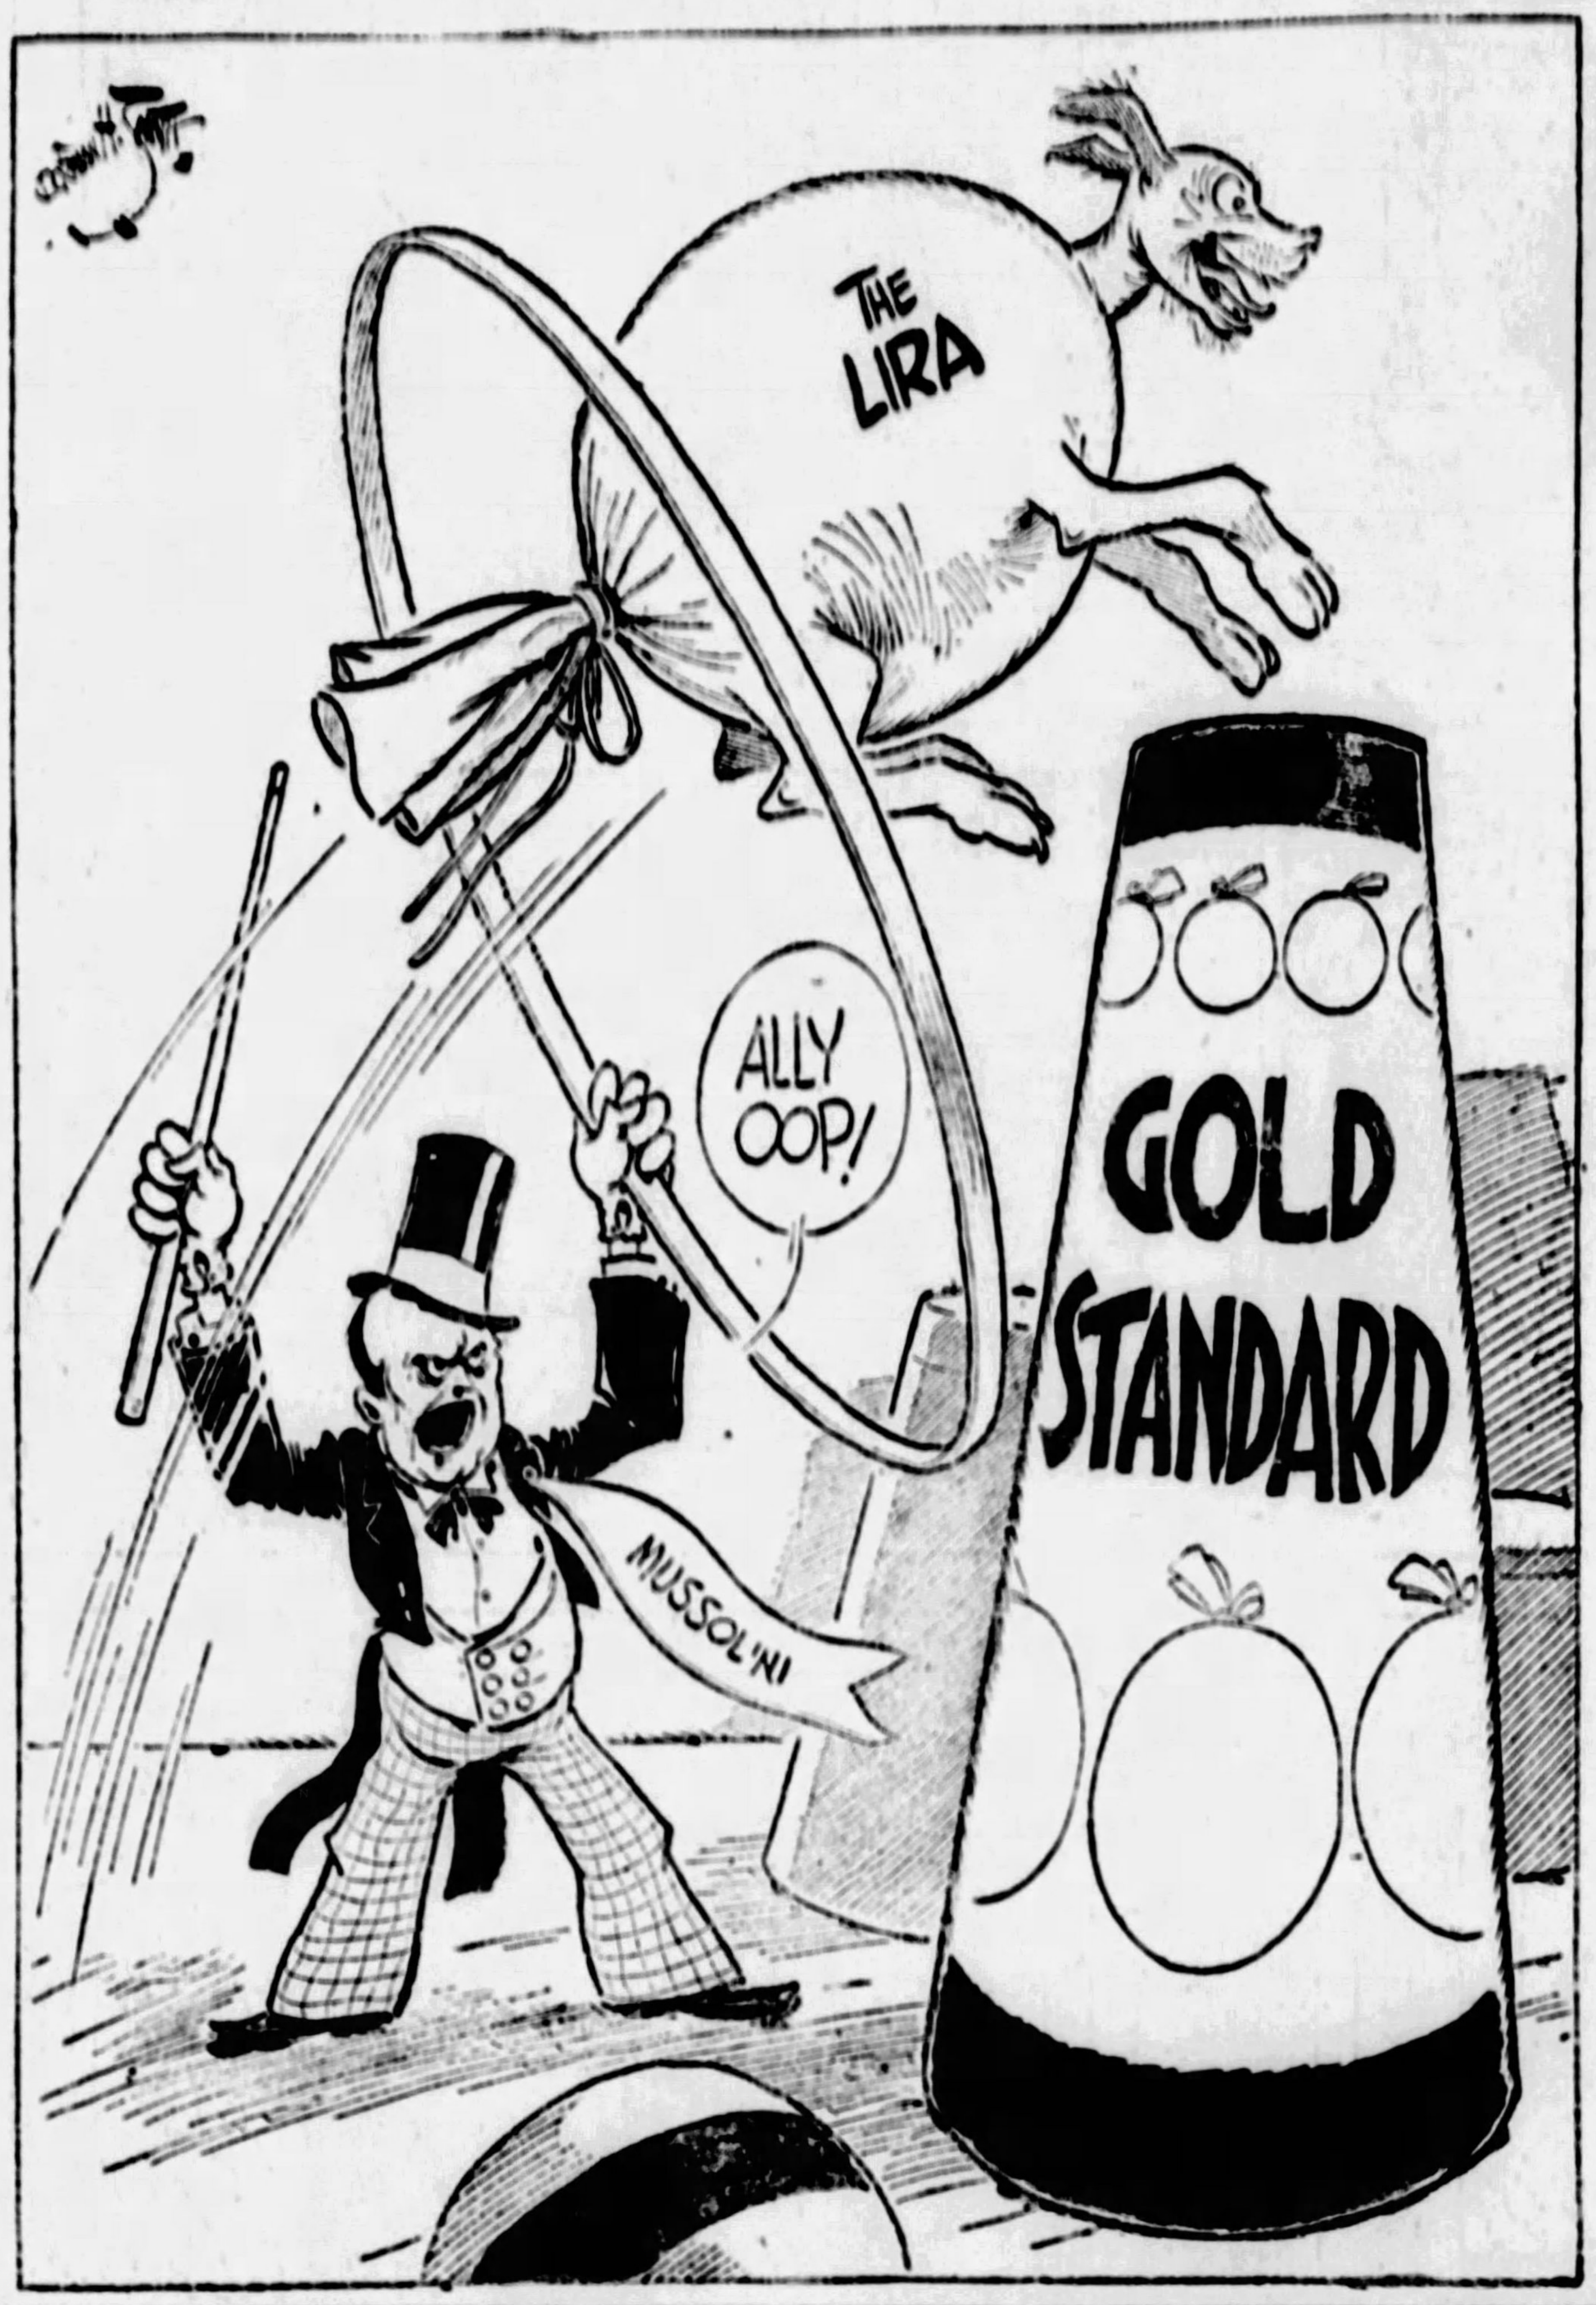
Eating is necessary, but it can be postponed. Given fresh and water a man can live for weeks without food.

But he can live less than five minutes without oxygen; the most marvelously trained fishermen, diving into the for pearls, must come up at the end of three minutes.

ithout water a man may live a week, although he be- loathsome object during that week.

sh air, fresh water, warmth while you sleep, warmth for delicate children in their beds on cold nights, things are to be kept in mind.

STILL THE CHAMPION RINGMASTER



Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Not a Man—Not Even an Ape

IT IS the glory of science that it convicts itself of error without a shiver, wherefore it is impregnable to the assaults of its "unerring" enemies. Here is an example:

In 1922 Harold J. Cook, geologist and paleanthologist, of Nebraska, discovered in the Snake Creek beds of Western Nebraska a fossil molar tooth which appeared to approach the human type, and sent it to Professor Osborn at the American Museum of Natural History, New York. After examination by himself and colleagues, Professor Osborn concluded that the tooth had belonged to a member of a new genus and species, which he named "Hesperopithecus," meaning "an anthropoid of the West" (Western World). He also called it, in an official publication, "the first anthropoid primate found in America." Drs. Gregory and Hellman, of the museum, were disposed to think that the nearest resemblances found in the time-worn tooth were with men rather than with apes. This was something to arouse everybody's interest.

The scientific world in general being skeptical, the same investigators, at Professor Osborn's request, carefully re-examined the tooth with the conclusion that "the exact generic diagnosis of Hesperopithecus must await further discoveries." One of them still regarded "the human resemblances as being of considerable significance," while the other leaned "toward the authropoid affinities of the type."

During 1925-26, under Professor Osborn's direction, a thorough search was made in the Snake Creek beds and specimens were collected which led to the suspicion that the famous tooth might be only an upper premolar of a species of Prosthennops, an extinct genus related to the modern peccaries (sometimes called wild hogs in Texas). And, then, last summer still another search was undertaken, and excavations were made in the exact locality where the first tooth was found in 1922. The result of this is described as follows in Science by Dr. William K. Gregory:

"A number of scattered upper and lower premolar and molar teeth were found in different spots, but every one of them appears to me to pertain to Prosehennops, and some of these also resemble the types of Hesperopithecus, except that the crown is less worn. Thus it seems to me far more probable that we were formerly deceived by the resemblances of the much worn type to equally worn chimpanzee molars than that the type is really a unique token of the presence of anthropoids in North America."

To this add, in order to make still more evident the earnestness of the search for the truth, together with the difficulty of arriving at a conclusion, that Professor Othenio Abel, of Vienna, who accompanied the explorers in 1926, himself found a tooth which he identified as Hesperopithecus, although it, in the light of the later finds, "is demonstrably Prosthennops."

A hostile critic could point out that there might, usefully, have been more hesitation and reserve in the first decision which led to the invention of the new genus and species called Hesperopithecus; but after all the was no hesitation about following up the matter close at the heels of skeptical comment, nor about frankly, openly and fully accepting the facts as they more and more surely revealed themselves. Have the bitter opponents of science ever made any investigation in that spirit? Starting as they do with assumed certainty, would it be possible for them to make any investigation at all? It is another glory of science that its book is half made up of records of demonstrated errors, showing how men HAVE risen:

Of their dead selves to higher things."

Bandits Clever Hiders

DURING troubles at Cisco, Texas, involving a number of gunmen, it was said that the bandits have "hidden themselves behind women's skirts" in order to protect themselves.

This is not chivalrous, but we must admit it shows a lot of cleverness on the part of the gentlemen who wished to hide themselves. Any bandit who can hide behind a woman's skirt these days must be a small edition of a Singer midget.

It's Not So Bad

ARE you one of those persons who think the world is going to the bowwows?

You like to refer to the way young people are acting, and you keep saying that they are not so good morally as they were in your day.

But in your youth, is it not true that young folk were not so open and frank and above-board in their love making, or what is commonly called necking?

There was not so much display of affection openly.

But you did your share of the love-making, if you could sneak it in without being repulsed.

You sat in the dark and "spooned," as they called it then.

But you were ashamed to do it in daylight and you would not own that you tried to kiss a girl every time you thought you could get away with it.

The young people of today do not see anything unholy and shameful about displaying their affection in the presence of others.

Perhaps you did.

It is an advancement worthwile to throw off sham and deceit, isn't it?

The Rhyming Optimist

Roof-Flowers

THOUGH all the day the ceaseless rain came down
Upon the huddled dwellings of the town;
The wet roofs glistened, red and blue and green,
Like giant flowers through the raindrops' sheen.
The town was but a garden, wet with dew,
A blooming garden, flaunting every hue;
More fresh and fair because of rain that came
To cleanse dull roofs to emerald and flame.
I pressed against my attic window-pane
And joyed in all this wonder wrought by rain.

Ye Towne Gossip

by K. C. B.

DEAR K. C. B.: Just before Christmas I took my kitten to the veterinary hospital. After Christmas I went to see her and found the kennels of the hospital filled with dogs whose owners, through ignorance, had fed chicken and turkey bones. The nice doctor explained to me how the stomachs of these dogs were all chopped up and punctured and that most of them couldn't possibly get well. Vowing not to let another holiday come and go without sending out some kind of a warning, I am taking the liberty of writing to you.

New York Day by Day
by
O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Thoughts while strolling: The pleasant cop at Fifth avenue and Fifty-sixth street. Mauve lights in velvet draped windows. The golden cock on the Hecksher building. Nan Britton, who wrote "The President's Daughter"—and not a head turns.

Those women who smoke cigarets waiting for autos in front of dressmaking parlors. More buildings resembling wedding cakes. Jesse Crawford, the movie organist. A crowd before a daguerreotype of Barnum and Tom Thumb in a photographer's cabinet.

The Ship Grill—where patrons may take dogs. An ex-jockey driving a taxi. Whatever became of the Glidden tours? The apartment house where Peggy Joyce used to live. Jack Curley. Sullen looking men who loaf about garage entrances.

The glitter of Viennese bakeries. Wedding costumes for rent. Palmistry parlors. A mumbling hag crosses herself in front of a church and stumbles on. The eerie quiet of a hospital street. And those garrulous orderlies hanging about the ambulance gate.

East Side children with baskets of chips. Old people who seem to sit at upstairs windows throughout the long winter. Corner loafers with pulled down caps. Barber colleges. The eerie choral chant from a Russian church. A little white coffin followed by a single cab.

A woman smacks a spindly child. A hatless drunk shadow-boxes in front of an undertaking parlor. Unkempt silent crowds around labor bulletin boards. Advertising doctors who stress social ills. Flip talking girls chewing gum and making the best of poverty.

A group of those imported dancing girls who flash in and out the musical comedies with such mechanical precision recently quit a hit show on 48 hours notice and sailed to their native land. It is said that during their eight months' stay not one had the pleasure of masculine companionship. Front row enthusiasts, on the lookout for dancing girls for supper after the show, were not interested. And the stage manager is authority for the opinion the girls worked so fast they became a mere bright blurr and were as quickly forgotten.

There is the story of a rich young collegiate who has missed chapel several mornings to frolic about Broadway with a lady with a penchant for blackmailing ideas and a decadent taste for clear white gin. He was warned the lady was strictly Nietzcheian—living hard and dangerously. But that wasn't what cured him. The other evening, when good college boys should be in dormitories, he answered her phone and inquired who was speaking. The voice replied to tell her it was "Dad-dums." The lady went to the telephone to prattle baby talk and the young gentleman went sadly out of the apartment building. He had recognized his father's voice on the phone.

* * *

The number of his taxi is 21111. Inside was a small vase of fresh flowers and in a rack an open package of cigarets and matches. On the way during a long drive he stopped to get the latest edition of the evening paper. He thought a 50-cent tip was too much—a quarter he considered ample. And I have been wondering since where in the world he came from.

In a swank silversmith shop on the avenue there is a window display of a silver cocktail shaker surrounded by delicately flanged, thin-stemmed goblets. An engraved card stands against the shaker reading: "An ancient receptacle used to agitate liquids."

Today I donned a necktie sold under the guarantee "an exclusive pattern sold only to a single customer" and in a four-block walk I saw a half dozen exactly like it. It is only the comforting counsel of the Blessed Promises that keeps me going."

Value of Romance

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Romance feeds upon what you do not know. Its preferred aliment is mystery. There is always great danger in meeting one about whom you have woven romantic fancies or whom you have never seen. It is said that Maude Adams rarely allowed herself to be interviewed off the stage. She wished to preserve her personality wrapped in her stage settings. A minister who is a hero in the pulpit frequently loses his pedestal of worship when we meet him personally.

Most celebrities would do better to avoid meeting the public and spend their off hours in retirement polishing up their halos.

The microbe of romance is a sly little insect.

He knows the value of aloofness.

Hence he buzzes most busily around those who only at intervals come down from their mountain to be seen.

In former times, sighing maidens draped themselves over the gallery rails to gaze at that most romantic of all objects, the Matinee Idol.

He appeared with all the electricity of his fascinating personality turned on and disappeared with the falling of the curtain. That he remained in some sort of cold storage the same noble-hearted hero off stage, was never doubted.

Now the Matinee Idol is gone, but the Radio Man has come.

The land is full, according to a publicity man whose word I would not think of doubting, of palpitating feminine breasts each time the popular radio announcer warbles a golden "Good Evening."

Romance has attached itself to the voice of the radio man, and it looks like a lasting attachment. For even less is seen and heard of him than was the case of the actor of old. There is more food for dreams and less disillusioning reality; more aloofness and less contact than before. The Announcer is merely a voice, the actor was a voice and a body, too.

Out of the voice you can make a body and a character to fit. A story I once heard of a construction engineer in China held within it wisdom of the way romance functions.

Each evening in his camp in the wilds he would play a battered phonograph. One rich, golden contralto voice was his favorite and he made a picture in his mind of the beautiful woman who had it.

Month after month he played it each evening and the voice became idealized into his ideal woman. On a trip to a port city he saw she was scheduled to sing that evening on a trip around the world. He heard her and saw she was fat, coarse-featured, half-intoxicated. Back at camp one evening he started to throw away the record, but didn't, and one evening he got it out again and as the soft rose-petal notes trilled through the darkness the illusion of romance returned and reality was forgotten. Lives would be pretty bare without illusions.

Right Angles

By ALEXANDER CAIRNS

Departed Glory

WE HEAR betimes of human immortelles being preserved in deathless amber; of a hair-lined cameo catching the fleeting features of a regal courtesan and handing down the likeness to the grandchildren of the centuries.

One day my illustrious friend, John G. Woolley, took a ring from his finger for me to examine. Doubtless Savonarola noted that identical ring on the hand of Lorenzo the Magnificent when as priest he refused absoluttion to the unrepentant prince. That ring doubtless fell under the masterly eyes of Michael Angelo.

And that ring in my hand had miraculaus qualities—it obliterated the centuries! It was a tailsman that brought a dead civilization before me; a magic carpet that transported me one-third of the way back to the tragedy of Golgotha.

But sometimes the writing finger uses cuttlefish ink or the cameo carver turns gargayle artist and uses jade instead of amber. And from such a preservation may the fates spare us.

Such was Whittier's poem, "Inchabod," about Daniel Webster, the man who foreclosed his chances for the White House by bidding for the slave vote of the South and the free vote of the North. How is this for a blistering epitaph?

"When faith is lost, when honor dies,
The man is dead!"

"Ichabod" means "Thy glory has departed."

Recently an Ichabod, starting as a Judas, sat in the President's cabinet. He was in on the ground floor of a noble heritage of honor to be passed on to his descendants. But he bartered his trust for a mess of pottage and now is pilloried before the nation and the years as a political Benedict Arnold. He is Francis Bacon minus the brains. Francis Bacon, the bribe-taker de luxe of English history.

The race of life is not to the starter, but to the finisher. It is easier to mount up with wings as eagles, or to run and not be weary, than it is to walk and not faint.

Whittier was wrong when he said in Maud Muller:

"For of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these, 'It might have been.'"

Really, the diabolos of sad words is "Ichabod."
